NOT MUCH BIGGER THAN HIS BAIT BUCKET — This tyke joined about 65 other youngsters recently to take part in New Germany State Park's annual fishing rodeo, during which the weather was prime and the catches were many. Any fisherman can tell you, though, that there's a lot more to fishing than the fish, and this little guy is learning early on about the peace and calm found along a riverbank on a summer day. This photo and several others of the rodeo found in today's section were provided by Bill Martin, a volunteer with the Friends of New Germany.

Car Destroyed By Fire After Rt. 42 Mishap

Two Friendsville residents escaped serious injury after their vehicles collided along Friendsville Road Saturday afternoon, but one of the cars involved was destroyed by a fire that stemmed from the 4:25 p.m. accident. One driver was charged at the scene by Maryland State Police troopers, who reported that charges were also pending against the other driver for unspecified violation.

The accident occurred north of Friendsville at the intersection of Friendsville and Blooming Rose roads when a 1990 Ford Tempo operated by Dora Opal Hunter, 36, apparently failed to stop at a stop sign as it entered Friendsville Road from westbound Blooming Rose Road and struck a 1989 Oldsmobile 88 that was southbound on Friendsville Road.

The impact forced the Oldsmobile into a guardrail, and the driver, Carl Nathan Friend, 22, and an unidentified passenger were able to escape from the car just before it caught fire and was engulfed in flames. The passenger, known only as "Junior," according to the police report, fled prior to the arrival of emergency personnel and his whereabouts remain unknown at this time. The Friendsville Volunteer Fire Department extinguished the car fire, but the vehicle was deemed a total loss. Friend was transported by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where he was treated and released, and Hunter was treated at the scene for a minor leg injury. Tpr. J.B. Schlossnagle cited Hunter for failure to stop at a stop sign, failure to yield right-of-way, and a license violation, and added that charges are pending against Friend.

Friendsville Road was the scene of a second accident Tuesday evening that injured an Accident woman, who was charged with failure to yield right of way.

At approximately 5:12 p.m. a 1996 Chevrolet Blazer operated by Megan Renee Sisler, 18, pulled out of a driveway located south of Hoyes Road into Friendsville Road and into the path of an northbound 2000 Ford Windstar van operated by Gerald Adam Geisler, 49, McHenry.

The Blazer overturned as a result of the collision, and Sisler was trapped inside and subsequently removed T'WAS A PATRIOTIC DAY yesterday, and this young Accident lady not only carried, but also wore "Old Glory" to celebrate the 4th of July. The town of Accident observed the holiday with its annual Independence Day Homecoming, which featured a parade, musical entertainment, games, historic displays, and lots of good food. Other July 4th activities in the county included a concert by the Garrett Community Concert Band last night on the grounds of Garrett Community College in McHenry, which was followed by the annual fireworks display from atop Marsh Mountain. The town of Oakland sponsored fireworks at Broadford Lake Park Tuesday night. Photo by Jeremy Carr.

Chautauqua In Full Swing At GCC Campus

The seventh annual Garrett County Chautauqua is now under way at the campus of Garrett Community College. Titled "Creating a New Nation," the event is a collaboration project of Garrett Lakes Arts Festival, GCC, the Maryland Humanities Council, and the Garrett County Arts Council.

The celebration began last evening with a concert by the Garrett Community Concert Band and follows this evening and throughout the weekend with portrayals of four Revolutionary War era individuals.

Abigail Adams, Phillis Wheatley, Benjamin Banneker, and George Washington are the featured portrayals in this year's event. The chautauquans will appear "under the big tent" on the GCC lawn in costume and talk about their lives.

Preceding the performance of each historical figure, musical entertainment will be provided by local musicians. All entertainment will take place under the tent on the GCC lawn barring inclement weather, in which case the performances will be moved into the auditorium. The schedule is as follows:

Thursday, July 5: 7 p.m., Celtic music by Sang Run; 7:30 p.m., An Evening with Benjamin Banneker (Bill Grimmette).

Friday, July 6: 7 p.m., banjo music by Keith Roberts; 7:30 p.m., An Evening with George Washington (William Sommerfield).

Saturday, July 7: 7 p.m., folk duo by Allegheny; 7:30 p.m., An Evening with Phillis Wheatley (Dorothy Mains Prince).

Breakdown Ends In Drug Charges For W.Va. Pair

A pair of Morgantown, W.Va., residents were arrested on drug charges by a Maryland State Police trooper who had stopped to check on their disabled vehicle early yesterday morning along Interstate 68.

Timothy Martin Hancock, 23, and Brooke Ashley Fridley, 20, both face charges of possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia that resulted from the 2:45 a.m. incident near Lower New Germany Road. After stopping to render assistance, Tfc. K. Stakem detected the odor of suspected burnt marijuana coming from inside the broken-down vehicle while he was talking to the pair.

A probable cause search resulted in the recovery of a Crowd Favorite Deanna Bogart Set To Rock Mtn. Fresh Pavilion Friday

"Luster, sophistication, and soul" is how The Washington Post has described singer and musician Deanna Bogart, the featured performer of the latest installment of the Little Yough Summer Music Festival, set for 7 p.m. tomorrow, Friday, July 6, at Oakland's Mountain Fresh Pavilion. Sponsored by Larry's Blues Cellar, Bogart will take to the stage following the 5:30 p.m. opening act performance of the Channel Cats, a four-piece Cumberland-based blues band that includes local native Alex Hicks on drums.

A Maryland resident herself, Bogart has earned a reputation as a favorite of Garrett County audiences through several high-energy local performances over the past several years. Her fiery musical mix of blues, boogie-woogie, R&B, and jazz, combined with her stage presence and humor, has provided concert-goers with "an honest, entertaining, energy-to-spare show for over a decade," a festival spokesperson said.

Bogart plays piano and saxophone, fronting a band that also includes Kajun Kelley on guitar, Eric Scott on bass, and Mike Aubin on drums. She and bandmates have highlighted many music festivals, and have shared the stage with the likes of B.B. King, Buddy Guy, the Neville Broth-

All vendors participating in the Tailgate Market must either "make it, bake it, or grow it" themselves, according to an association spokesperson.

Pa. Man Remains In Hospital After Thursday Crash

A Confluence, Pa., man is listed in stable condition this morning at Cumberland Memorial Hospital one full week after a Thursday, June 28, collision between a dump truck and a car on Keyser's Ridge. Charges are pending against the other driver, according to the Maryland State Police.

At approximately 6:41 a.m. a 1998 Hyundai sedan operated by Mariah Kay Geis, 19, Frostburg, attempted to turn from westbound National Highway to enter southbound Garrett Highway. The Hyundai reportedly pulled into the path of an eastbound 1987 Ford dump truck operated by Marshall E. Rugg, 28, which struck the car and forced it into a guardrail.

The car bounced off the railing and struck the unloaded dump truck a second time, and the truck continued east along National Championship Rodeo Slated This Weekend

The Deer Park Community Volunteer Fire Department will host its sixth annual Championship Rodeo this weekend, July 6 and 7, at the Garrett County Fairgrounds in McHenry. The event will include a number of competitions and activities, beginning at 7:30 p.m. each evening.

The rodeo will include bull riding, saddle and bareback bronco riding, "bull doggin,'" team roping, calf roping, and barrel racing. A feature this year will be the "mutton-bustin'" competition for children 6 and younger, to be held during intermission. In this event, the competing youngster attempts to stay on top of a sheep for eight seconds.

This event is the major fund-raiser for the fire department, with all proceeds benefiting the organization. Other sponsors of the rodeo are Mettiki Coal, Team One, and Pepsi. Advance tickets, which are $8 for adults and $4 for children 12 and younger, are available at area Southern States locations, Proudfoot's Pharmacy, Happyat Hill Horsery, Little Sandy's at Deep Creek Lake, J.G.'s Pub, and Anchor Mart. Tickets will also be sold at the gate for $10 for adults and $5 for children.

Pedestrian Struck By Vehicle When Crossing Rt. 40

A pedestrian was struck Saturday afternoon when she was crossing Route 40 near Grantsville from her residence to her mailbox, according to Maryland State Police.

Gladys Hutzel, 75, started across the road in the path of an eastbound vehicle, according to witnesses. She hurried across the roadway and into the path of a Plymouth Breeze going westbound, driven by Richard H. Grandy, 67, Monongahela, Pa.

According to police, Grandy braked and skidded, almost stopping before striking Hutzel on the shoulder, knocking her into the hood and onto the ground.

Hutzel was flown to Memorial Hospital, Cumberland via Medevac Trooper 5.

Northern Garrett Rescue Squad and the Grantsville fire department also responded to the scene. No charges were filed by police.

Kevin Wayne Broadwater, 26, Grantsville, was injured when his truck collided with another truck Friday afternoon when he apparently suffered from diabetic shock and blacked out while driving along Route 42.

According to police, Broadwater's vehicle traveled out of control, entered the northbound lane, and struck an oncoming vehicle, driven by Elliott Hampton Blair, 20, Frederick. The Broadwater vehicle then entered a ditch before coming to rest against a

Relay For Life Proceeds Benefit Numerous Local Programs

Numerous local programs of the American Cancer Society, some already available and some available at the first of the year, are benefiting from the $170,000 plus profit made by the recent Relay for Life.

In addition to these specialized programs, as of October 1, Garrett County will be a separate unit from Allegany County, according to Doug Riley, Garrett County Relay for Life chairman. The National American Cancer Society is separated into many divisions. Presently, Garrett County is in a unit with Allegany County, which stems from Region 13, consisting of the northern panhandle of West Virginia across the Maryland border. Region 13 is part of the Mid-Atlantic Region, consisting of Maryland, West Virginia, Washington, D.C., and Virginia.

According to Riley, the Garrett County Relay raised approximately $6 per person for the entire population of Garrett County.

The programs benefiting from the proceeds are all free and available to Garrett County residents. Reach to Recovery is a program that is getting started in Garrett County. This program allows one-to-one volunteer visitation for women with a personal concern about breast cancer by someone who has already had such an experience. Reach to Recovery also provides information and support for the loved ones of breast cancer patients. Volunteers are chosen and trained by the American Cancer Society.

The Road to Recovery program has been operating for one year in Garrett

Two Supermarket Chains Eying Grantsville Site

Two nationally known supermarket chains have shown interest in locating in Grantsville Plaza, according to Tom Schroyer, plaza owner. The town lost Grantsville Foodland last month when the business closed its doors permanently.

According to Schroyer, one of the interested supermarkets would require a 42,000-square-foot building, which is approximately twice the size of the space that housed Grantsville Foodland. He said that the larger market would thus require a major expansion to the plaza, similar to the expansion that the owners of Braddock Square in La-Vale constructed in recent years to house Martin's supermarket.

Schroyer said that the Grantsville Foodland was closed not because of a lack of sales and local support, but because of "corporation problems" that occurred in the region's Foodland headquarters, based in the Pittsburgh area.

"We apologize to all local residents/customers for any inconvenience they have experienced with the closing of Grantsville Foodland," Schroyer said. "We hope to have a new market open soon."

CELEBRATING FREEDOM — The Fourth of July was celebrated in true style last evening under the big tent at Garrett Community College, where the Garrett Community Concert Band serenaded a crowd of over 600 with patriotic melodies, classical pieces, and show tunes. The band's performance was received with standing ovations and encore requests just as the first firework blasts exploded over Marsh Mountain. While the weather hampered the fireworks turnout and the clouds hid some of the display, the revelers had a good time despite it all. For those who missed the band's performance, another opportunity to hear the group will take place next Friday, July 13, at the Grantsville Park, beginning at 7:15 p.m. A concert involving both the band and a chorus from Grantsville is slated as a fund-raiser for the Grantsville Library Project. (See story on page A-19.) The community band is under the direction of Dr. Jerry McGee, pictured left, and includes musicians from all parts of the county.

TOP DOGS INVITED TO CHRISTMAS IN JULY — The pets of President George W. Bush and their owners were recently invited to attend the Garrett County Humane Society's Christmas in July fund-raiser, but the busy schedule of the canines will not allow the visit. Gayle Miller and her dog Muffin sent a letter to the White House to extend the invitation, and received in return a letter from Deborah K. Hair, special assistant to the president, who sent regrets, but also a picture of the White House pups, shown above. Christmas in July will be held at the Garrett County Fairgrounds on Saturday, July 14, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Activities of the day will include the "strut your mutt" event, dog talent and costume contests, dog obedience and agility demonstrations, and silent auctions. Admission is free, and food will be available for purchase throughout the day. All proceeds from the day's events will help fund the organization's humane education, spay/neuter, and animal rescue programs.

Harley Overturns, Cumberland Pair Sustains Injuries

A Cumberland couple were thrown from their Harley Davidson motorcycle yesterday evening when it struck loose gravel along a rain-soaked Lower New Germany Road. Both subjects were injured, although no charges were filed by Maryland State Police.

At approximately 5:47 p.m. Barry Lee Jackson, 47, was operating his 1996 HD Sportster northbound along Lower New Germany Road when it skidded on the wet road and loose gravel just north of Twin Churches Road. He lost control of the motorcycle, which overturned, and he and Carol Ann Jackson, 46, were both injured.

The Jacksons were transported by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad to Cumberland Memorial Hospital, where Barry Jackson remains hospitalized in stable condition. Carol Jackson was treated and released. The Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department assisted on the scene.

Braking For Deer Causes Minor Injuries

John Edward Bell, 48, Frostburg, walked into the Garrett County Sheriff's Office around 6 a.m. Wednesday to report that he was in a motor vehicle accident when he attempted to avoid hitting a deer.

Southern Rescue Squad reported to the office and transported Bell to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for treatment of his injuries.

According to police, Bell was traveling in a Dodge Caravan along Liberty Street when he braked for a deer crossing the road, traveled off the roadway, and hit a tree.

No charges were filed by police.

Deputies made several arrests for driving while intoxicated (DWI) recently.

Early Wednesday morning, deputies made a traffic stop on a vehicle for failing to drive right of center along Maryland Highway, east of B Street. James Bruce Macaulay, 27, Westminster, was arrested and also charged with DWI.

In a separate incident, Justin Eugene Helbig, 22, Norfolk, Va., was stopped by police for speeding around 1:30 a.m. Thursday along Garrett Highway south of Lake Shore Drive.

Helbig was also charged with DWI. According to police, he was released after signing his citation.

In addition to the arrests cited above, two other individuals were charged with DWI by sheriff's deputies this week. They were Onie Franklin Sweitzer, 18, and Frank C. Cummings, 40, both of Oakland.

Bloodmobile To Visit Oakland

The American Red Cross bloodmobile will welcome donors this Friday, July 6, at the American Legion hall along Memorial Drive in Oakland. Persons are invited to respond to the visit from noon to 6 p.m. The need for blood remains critical, according to the ARC.

In order to be eligible to donate blood, one must be at least 17 years of age, weigh at least 105 pounds, be in generally good health, and not have donated for at least 56 days.

PWC Operator Cited By NRP

A Pennsylvania man was charged by Maryland Natural Resources Police Friday evening after he was allegedly observed operating his personal watercraft in a reckless manner in the Turkey Neck area of Deep Creek Lake.

John David Wolffe, 33, Hidden Valley, faces charges of operating a PWC while intoxicated, negligent operation of a PWC, and operating a PWC in excess of six knots. An NRP officer reportedly was among the witnesses who allegedly saw Wolffe traveling at an estimated 40 knots within 10 feet of the shore and within 20 feet of another boat.

Highway before it knocked over a large Citgo sign and pole in front of the Keyser's Ridge Citgo station. That impact caused the truck to roll over onto its side, and it slid into the station's property, knocking over another guardrail and a light pole. More serious damage was avoided when the truck came to a stop just shy of the gas pumps.

Debris thrown from the truck's collisions with the stationary items struck a third vehicle, a 1995 Pontiac sedan, which was parked at one of the gas pumps. The owner of the car, who was pumping gas at the time, ran in an attempt to flee the sliding dump truck and subsequently collapsed with chest pains.

Rugg, Geis, and the Pontiac owner were each transported to Cumberland Memorial Hospital by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad, where Rugg remains and Geis was treated and released. The third person's identity was not provided by state police, and his status is unknown.

Tpr. J.B. Schlossnagle reported that charges are pending against Geis. The Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department assisted at the scene, and the state police Commercial Vehicle Enforcement Division was also summoned to assist in the investigation.

cloth bag lying on the floor of the car, inside which were two film canisters containing suspected marijuana and a smoking device bearing suspected burnt marijuana residue. The suspects were released without being jailed in the Garrett County Detention Center.

In other state police news, a traffic stop led to the arrest of a Pennsylvania man shortly before 2 a.m. Monday morning. Chad Jason Light, 28, Clairton, faces a charge of driving while intoxicated and illegal possession of a loaded handgun stemming from a 1:41 a.m. traffic stop along Garrett Highway at Trader's Landing, south of the Rt. 219 Bridge. A search that followed the DWI arrest revealed a loaded 9mm handgun hidden under the driver's seat. Tfc. Stakem made the arrest, and Light was released from jail after he posted $500 bond as set by a district court commissioner.

Western Maryland Officials Gather At Port Of Balt.

WESTERNERS VISIT THE PORT — Several members of the Western Maryland Delegation, including Senator John Hafer and Delegate George Edwards, toured the Port of Baltimore facilities recently. The officials spent the day exploring the area and discussing the vital connections between the Port and the people of western Maryland. See story. In the front row, left to right, are Delegates Paul Stull and Donald E. Elliott representing Carroll and Frederick counties, Del. Robert McKee representing Washington County, Del. Carmen Amedori representing Carroll County, Hafer representing Allegany and Garrett counties, Del. Louise V. Snodgrass representing Frederick and Washington, and Del. Chris Shank representing Washington. In the back row, same order, are Del. Kevin Kelly representing Allegany, Sen. Alex X. Mooney representing Frederick and Washington, and Edwards representing Allegany and Garrett counties.

Twenty members of the Western Maryland Delegation, from Allegany, Garrett, Washington, Frederick and Carroll counties, toured the Port of Baltimore facilities recently, exploring vital connections between the Port and the people of western Maryland. Senator John Hafer and Delegate George Edwards were among those in attendance.

According to the most recent economic impact study from 1998, Marylanders residing in the state's western counties hold 180 of the 17,733 jobs the port directly generates. The study also revealed 2,280 additional jobs in western Maryland are related to the shipment of containers through the port. Officials from the Maryland Port Administration (MPA) and the state transportation administration, including Maryland Secretary of Transportation John Porcari, spoke with the delegates regarding the unique shipping and rail opportunities available to western Maryland business.

"Although it's named the Port of Baltimore, we like to call it the Port of Maryland," said Porcari. "Maryland's port truly unites the waters of the Chesapeake Bay with mountains of western Maryland, because thousands of jobs and dozens of businesses depend on it for their livelihood."

Delegates toured state-run Dundalk and Seagirt Marine terminals, as well as privately owned facilities, including the recently opened Masonville Auto Processing Facility and Bal-Term facility, which handles the port's growing business in forest products. The port facilities for Alco Eastalco Works, an aluminum company that receives raw materials from South America via the port, were also visited.

Alco Eastalco Works in Frederick County has relied on the port for more than 25 years and remains a major contributor to its county's economy. For each of the company's 720 employees, three jobs spin off into the community, for a total of 2,160 indirect jobs, according to an MPA spokesperson.

"The only way we can remain competitive in the worldwide aluminum market is by keeping costs low, and without the closeness of the Port of Baltimore, we couldn't do that," said Earl Robbins, public and government affairs manager, Alco Eastalco Works. "We ship our raw materials through the Port of Baltimore, where we have easy access to the market because of the excellent highway system, which runs straight from the water to Buckeystown."

More than 50 businesses located in Western Maryland depend on the Port's oceangoing and intermodal shipping capabilities, including Phenix Technologies in Garrett County, along with Bechtel, Biederlack, Kelly Springfield Tires, Hunter Douglas, Portland Cement, Fleetwood, London Fog, Random House, Mack Trucks, and Staples, all in western Maryland. Together, the companies in this region accounted for more than 240,000 short tons of ocean-bound cargo in 2000. A recent study of container transportation costs showed that if these companies did not have access to the Port of Baltimore and had to use an alternative port, their annual transportation costs would increase in the range of $117,000 to $222,000 annually, according to the MPA report.

"Western Maryland is an important region for the port not only for its strategic location — just a short truck drive or railway stop from Baltimore — but for our relationships with these regional businesses and legislators. Through more visits to the port, we look forward to identifying ways to better serve the businesses and people of western Maryland."

its solid workforce," said Jim White, MPA executive director. "The MPA values

DO YOU REMEMBER THE LAST TIME YOU SLEPT . . .

LIKE A BABY.

Trouble sleeping drastically diminishes your quality of life. A Gallup survey reported that one out of eight people sleep poorly at least four nights a week. Improper support to the neck, back and knees causes discomfort, which can result in fragmented sleep. Fragmented sleep can cause: loss of memory, irritability, auto accidents, slower reaction time, stress and high blood pressure contributing to loss of life.

Rest more soundly with a low-pressure Kingsdown sleep system. A Kingsdown sleep system can help you relax and go to sleep more quickly just like you did when you were a baby.

Your choice of Kingsdown sleep systems to lull you to sleep.

An Outstanding Example...

Anyone who works for a living deserves a certain degree of admiration for making that choice. But those who work despite having to cope with severe physical hardships, refusing to just quit and accept the various forms of public assistance that is available to them, surely warrant the highest degree of our esteem.

A member of our "family" here at The Republican office who fits the aforementioned description decided that it was time to move on to other things. Bernice Kepple, who was our farm editor as well as a key member of our advertising staff, retired last Thursday after nearly two decades of dedicated service.

Bernice was born into a farm family and has remained in that "business" for most of her life, so for her, hard work has always been just a given. It is simply a way of life for her and her family.

Adversity is also something that just about anyone who is engaged in farming understands clearly. That, too, is a given in this particular way of life. Bernice experienced plenty of adversity in trying to make ends meet with a small-farm operation. But she then unexpectedly had to face a much greater, far more personal adversity when she was diagnosed with multiple sclerosis. MS is a progressive disease that gradually but assuredly steals its victim's physical abilities.

Those of us who have worked with Bernice since she joined the newspaper staff watched her begin having some trouble walking several years ago. It took months for her physicians to finally diagnose MS, as is often the case with this disease, and since then we watched her have to walk with a cane, and finally be confined to a wheelchair for most of her day.

Just getting out of bed in the morning has been a major struggle for Bernice for some time now, but through it all, she never wavered in terms of showing up for work and completing her many tasks, week after week. Despite the many and varied negative effects of the disease, her attendance remained outstanding. The only time she would miss would be when she would, for whatever reason, get a fever, which literally paralyses her.

Yes, there were a few things at work that Bernice physically just could not do any more, such as working in the pressroom on Thursdays or traveling about the county covering farm issues as she once did. But the other 90% of her work, she completed, without ever having to dump it on to someone else in her office. And even though she had a good reason to feel sorry for herself, if and when she did, she never let it show. She never used her illness as an excuse or a crutch, and she never complained, except when it was constructive and necessary.

Admittedly, Bernice's illness was a factor in her decision to retire from this position. However, she certainly intends to remain as busy as possible. Her husband Howard has his own business to run. She will continue to do all she can to assist him with such things as bookkeeping, advertising, billing, and traveling to various shows to display their products as she is able to do so.

The example Bernice has set via her dedication, commitment, and steadfastness, in spite of some huge obstacles, is nothing short of outstanding. It was both a pleasure and an honor to work side by side with a person of such caliber and character.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I just want to thank you for the editorial about Ellis Nazelrod. He was a fine man and I always admired him. He was always so kind to everyone he met. I live in Kentucky so I get the paper one week late. I cut the obituary out, and your editorial, and sent copies to my children in Montana. I also told my son in Maryland about it.

Enclosed is my check for another year of The Republican. I enjoy it and learn a lot of what goes on. I lived in Maryland for 35 years and now in Kentucky for six. I love reading The Republican.

To the Editor:

The internal dispute raging within Northern Rescue over the purchase of land and buildings at McHenry is affecting the stability of the organization and has already, according to some sources, caused long-time medical personnel to threaten resignation.

Critics of the nearly half-million dollar purchase claim that the board went far beyond its authority, that permission given was to purchase land only, upon which the squad would construct a station of membership approval. The membership has been asked at two meetings to approve what is considered an illegal process and has both times voted against the purchase. Such vote has apparently been ignored by the board, thus adding to the turmoil that is tearing at the company. In addition, the board, according to these same critics, has expended several thousand dollars in improvements on the property, though the purchase has not been approved by either the membership or the lending institution.

Northern Rescue, as with many EMS companies, has been hard-pressed over the years to recruit and train enough volunteers to maintain an increased load call. Late response and even no response have become more frequent. Internal disputes have a way of adding to that problem when volunteers come to the point of despair and simply give up, making the public the ultimate loser.

Trust in leadership has been broken to the point that the squad may never be the same. Steps must be taken to restore peace and cooperation,' even if it means litigation. In any case, it would appear that an investigation must be conducted to determine the facts. The project should be placed on hold by injunction if necessary until this can be accomplished.

To the Editor:

The bare facts are the environmental wackos (Rush Limbaugh) have had their shot at cuddling the black bears in Garrett County. Now, let's give the real people, the victims, a voice in your paper.

As I understand it, the state owns the bears. Enough said.

Until the bears reach the legal age of 18, the owners or parents should take responsibility for the damage — same rule as to our children.

Can we hear from the victims of bear damage? What do they suggest? Probation? Dismissal? Open season?

Perhaps a jury could decide who pays for the damage. Perhaps one's right to protect his property would suffice.

How about those running for elected office to state their position on the bear situation?

To the Editor:

Just this past week I spoke with a representative of the Department of Natural Resources in regard to an upcoming four-wheel drive event that my Baltimore-based club has had in Garrett County state forests around this time nearly every year.

Typically, our club does some trail maintenance or conservation work in exchange for access to some roads that are typically closed or are used for other types of motorized recreation. Thus, we have a win-win situation. Our group has once-a-year access to some very enjoyable four-wheel drive routes that can offer minor challenge and excellent scenery. Other users benefit, as we remove downed trees, dangerous limbs, and rocks from these routes.

Snowmobiles and rocks or larger downed trees normally do not mix. Plus, we leave these routes passible for fire fighting and for rescue of hikers and sportsmen.

This is done this time of the year when it is typically dry, so impacts are essentially non-existent to the soils, vegetation, and wildlife.

This year a limited number of Garrett County residents may bring their four-wheel drive vehicles and ride with our club. The number of vehicles is limited in order to maintain control and to protect the resources from rapid overuse.

This should prove out to be an excellent time. Nevertheless, it has been brought to my attention that there

A PARADE TO REMEMBER

"Do you remember that?" There are some events in our lives which are important to us, but to which we no longer have direct access. When we see the photograph we believe it to be true, even though seeing it does not unlock the door in our minds to the room where that particular recollection is kept.

"I remember remembering the memory, but I do not remember the event. I remember being told about what happened, but I do not remember what happened."

There were two families in my home community, each with three boys, spaced every two years. The first pair were born two months and a day apart. Each pair became progressively closer. Had there been a fourth pair of sons, they would surely have been born on the same day.

Their fathers had been lifelong friends. Before their fathers, on one side of the family they were cousins. The three pairs of boys were fourth cousins once-removed to be exact, which meant they shared a pair of grandparents in the 1700s. On the other side of their fathers' families they had been friends for almost as long. As a grandmother on the friends side put it, "We've been knowing each other a long time."

It was at about this time of year — when the talk is of parades — 36 years ago that the oldest pair of boys, of which I was one half, decided that our little community needed a parade. We prevailed upon our brothers (7 and 5) to think likewise.

Wanting to stage an impressive display, we assembled the flashiest, state-of-the-art, high technology vehicles available to us. There were three bicycles, two tricycles, and a red International pedal tractor pulling a red wagon. That array of machinery we decorated with ribbon, cardboard, and crepe paper.

We hailed our mothers, who were to be the only spectators of our festive progress. The parade route was two circuits of our farm lane, which seemed plenty to us. We squeezed our bike horns and waved as to thousands. My mother took pictures with her camera. Later she discovered that it was empty. Once upon a time I thought the absence of film no loss. "After all," I asked, "who needs a picture of an event that is immortal in memory?"

Eighteen years after writing that question, years that sometimes feel like as many decades, I now know who needs a picture of such events. I have reached the point where I only remember remembering the memory.

And those six little boys, what of them? One lies in the graveyard. The other five of us make our way as best we can. At present, we live within a mile of one another, as the crow flies. In various ways our lives are still bound up with one another. We have realized our share of dreams, and we have had our share of dreams shattered. And we go on as cousins and friends.

Abraham Lincoln spoke of "the mystic chords of memory." In the mind's ear we can hear the melody, the harmonies, the all too frequent dissonance.

Some people use parades for other purposes, but what else are they for but to sound those "mystic chords of memory"? The minutemen spirit of 1775 is embodied in the ranks of volunteer firemen who as valiantly protect our homes today as did the men of Concord and Lexington then. They swell the ranks of Independence Day parades with the same pride felt by my brothers and cousins in our little parade those many years ago.

There are the reminders too of those who today defend our land with the weapons of war as did the Revolutionary Army. Independence Day is also for honoring those heirs of the Declaration's signers who ride in the parades, waving and smiling no matter what the crowd says to them.

Lincoln plucked "the mystic chords of memory" as the nation prepared for war. He spoke to northerner and southerner alike, bidding them to hearken together to a shared history as a basis for a shared future.

"The mystic chords of memory, stretching from every battlefield and patriot grave to every living heart and hearthstone all over this broad land, will yet swell the chorus of the Union, when again touched, as surely they will be, by the better angels of our nature."

No matter what our stage or condition of life, we have a common need to be drawn together again in the aspirations of childhood when every good thing seemed possible. To do that we need to remember together all the loveliness we have shared, whether we can remember the events or only the memory of remembering.

THE GIFT OF GAB

by Mary Sincell McEwen

Language intrigues me. I love the words and phrases and sounds we make to communicate, and I like to learn new words and expressions. Crossword puzzles are a great pastime, in my opinion, because they are all about words — remembering them, playing with them, experimenting. And even with all our words, we humans are actually limited in expressing ourselves. The sensations and feelings we experience every day are never completely explained in words, but boy, I love the challenge in trying. Adding to my forever fascination with communication is the development of our three sons' conversational abilities. These boys are subject to rather verbose parents. I mean, wow, John and I love to talk. We talk so much the kids sometimes politely ask us to be quiet, they're trying to rest. But they can't get out of this childhood wordless, that's for sure. They are destined to be talkers, too. And as they learn this ever-important technique of communication, I like to record some of their comical discussions. The following occurred not long ago as the boys were playing a computer game (the family togetherness activity of the 2000s):

"Did he say 'I will let me enter?'" Michael asked, pointing to the gate keeper in King's Quest, one of their favorite adventures.

"No, he said 'I will let thee enter,'" Rob explained.

Michael: "The what?"

Rob: "It's just an old way of saying 'you.'"

Alex: "Yeah, that's how they said it way back, like in the '60s."

Rob: "No! Not in the sixties, stupid! Back in the BCs."

Michael: "The beasties? What are the beasties?"

Me: "Don't call Alex stupid, Rob. I don't like that. You don't hear Dad or me call you stupid, do you?"

Rob: "No, but I'm not stupid." Laughter.

And then in the car, discussing another computer game, the action of which makes me nauseous:

Alex: "Oh, yeah, you don't play that game because it makes you car sick, huh, Mom?"

Me: "That's right, it does."

Michael: "What's car sick?"

Alex's panic sets in: "Don't talk about it!"

Michael: "Oh, yeah, car sick is when you get a stomach ache and then throw up, right?"

Alex: "Don't say that!"

Michael: "Don't say what? Throw up? You don't want me to say throw up? How about puke?"

Alex: "Shut up!"

Michael: "I can say puke if I want to. Puke, puke, puke."

Alex clamps his hands on his ears and starts yelling a song, and another peaceful drive in the McEwen van is enjoyed by all.

Because John and I are talkers, the boys are having to learn about patience. They must wait until we are finished discussing something before they talk. This is apparently a difficult lesson, seeing that they forget it a lot. We will be in the middle of some issue and one of them will just start this monotone chant: "Mom. Hey, Mom. Mom. Mom. Mom. Hey. Mom." This continues until either John or I become sensible of it, like realizing there is a mosquito in our ear, and we suddenly explode at the offender. Then the boy gets hurt feelings, mostly I think because he doesn't even realize what he's done. The "mom chant" is just his way of getting in line to talk, basically. But a nice understanding of it doesn't do much to preclude the parental exasperation.

The boys are learning how to use language to their advantage, though. The other night, Alex was supposed to be in bed, light out. But his light was on and he was sitting up with a book. When I told him to get snugged up and go to sleep, he regarded me with adult politeness. "But Mom, I'm polishing my reading skills," the 6-year-old said.

The guys have a way of driving me crazy — what am I saying? They have numerous ways of driving me crazy, but one thing they do is preface every discussion with a series of statements that force me to respond. It goes like this: the boy says, "Hey, Mom?" and I have to say, "Yes?" and he says, "Guess what?" and I have to say, "What?" and then he says what he wants to say. Now, that doesn't really seem like a problem, but when what I'd rather be doing is either sleeping or staring mindlessly at the wall for a while, being prodded to answer questions over and over tends to make me fussy. It's sort of like being pinched several times in the same spot. But then I have to remind myself that these little boys who think I know the answer to absolutely everything will not think so forever. In fact, Robert, now 9, is already starting to question his father's and my information about things. He rolls his eyes, just a little bit, and sighs. He has made the quiet statement that John and/or I are "weird sometimes." Alex and Michael will follow suit, I'm sure, and at least for a few years will think John and I are the most ridiculous human beings they have ever had the misfortune to know. Then the communication, the lively discussions, the bantering — it will slow to a stop for a while. I hope we don't let them resort to that grunting thing that boys seem prone toward. "Hi, honey, how are you?" "Ulph." "How was school today?" "Phlagh." Boy, I really don't look forward to that.

I suppose it will all come out in the wash, though, when they reach adulthood. I like to think our communication skills will survive the teenage years. And then perhaps, in about a century, there might be a child or two toddling around saying, "Hey, grandma?" "Yes?" "Guess what?"

A McHenry-area accident earlier that same afternoon injured two Pennsylvania residents riding in a car struck by another vehicle operated by a local driver, who was charged by state police.

A 2001 Lincoln operated by a 16-year-old McMurray, Pa., juvenile was traveling northbound on Garrett Highway at approximately 2:41 p.m. when it collided with a 1993 Subaru that was attempting to enter the highway from Mosser Road. Slightly injured in the mishap were two passengers in the Lincoln, Irene Groves, 84, and Renee Benson, 51, both also of McMurray, who were transported by the Northern Rescue Squad to Garrett Memorial, where they were treated and released.

The Subaru driver, Amber Polk, 20, McHenry, was charged with failure to yield right-of-way at an intersection, according to the report filed by Tpr. M.W. DeValk.

County. Trained volunteer drivers, who have their own car, provide transportation for cancer patients to and from medical facilities for cancer treatments.

Look Good, Feel Better is another program benefiting from the monies. This program is currently offered in Cumberland, and will be offered in Garrett County by January 1. This program is a two-hour, hands-on workshop conducted by volunteer cosmetologists that includes a 12-step skin care and makeup program. This program helps women undergoing chemotherapy or radiation cope with appearance-related side effects due to the treatments.

Another program to be offered as of January 1 will be I Can Cope. This is a free patient education program about living with cancer. Health care professionals provide factual and straight-forward information and answer questions about all aspects when dealing with cancer.

Camp Sunrise is also available to local residents. This is a special camp, located at Camp Glyndon in Reisterstown, for children who have cancer and have had an operation since 1986. The facility offers a day camp for children ages 4 to 5, and a residential camp for children ages 6 to 18.

The Hope Lodge, based in Baltimore, is also available to residents. Volunteers from the Road to Recovery program transport the patients from Garrett County to the lodge. The lodge provides home-like surroundings to people who would otherwise have to travel daily. It offers a home away from home for approximately 700 patients and companions a year.

Camp Winaca is another camp open to local children. The camp, located at YMCA's Camp Horseshoe in Tucker County, is free to families and open to children ages 7 to 16.

Cancer Flight Service is another new program in Garrett County. This program is for patients with very rare types of cancer that can only be treated at certain centers. A volunteer pilot will land at the local airport and transport the patient and family to the center for free.

Presently, the Wigs program is available in Morgantown and Cumberland, but will be offered in Garrett County and combined with the Look Good program. The American Cancer Society maintains a supply of donated wigs to provide to cancer patients.

Garrett County residents may also benefit from the Direct Financial Assistance program. The Mid-Atlantic division provides limited direct financial assistance to eligible patients who are within the income guidelines, and who are uninsured for certain services.

Toll-free phone numbers are also available to all residents. The daytime number, 1-888-ACS-NEED, connects the caller with one of two local field resource centers in the Mid-Atlantic region.

The 24-hour number, 1-800-ACS-2345, is a national number which is staffed with trained Cancer Information Specialists who provide the public with the most up-to-date information, as well as written follow-up materials upon request.

According to Riley, the web site www.cancer.org. can link users with resource persons, other survivors and families in chat rooms to discuss and share experiences.

Since 1946, the American Cancer Society has committed more than $2.3 billion to the study of cancer — more than $120 million last year alone.

The ACS has established goals for the year 2015. The goals are a 50% reduction in the death rate from cancer, a 25% reduction in the occurrence of cancer, and a better quality of life for those with cancer.

has been a much higher than normal illegal use of the forest and the limited-use forest roads.

Gates have been destroyed, bypassed, or damaged. Locks have been stolen, and chains broken.

While this is public land and thus belongs to all of us, it is to be managed for multiple benefit. There are regulations in place in order to provide benefit to all forest users, not just one particular group or interest. While no one (responsible) group should be excluded from using the forest, it is not fair or responsible for one group to wreck it for others.

Obviously, folks doing this are breaking the law. Thus, closures will do nothing to improve the situation. Only the law-abiding groups will suffer.

I am writing this to make the good folks of Garrett County aware that some of your neighbors may be doing this. This is probably going to ruin it for everyone.

The DNR has limited resources to apply to enforcement. But, if any of you reading this fit into this outlaw group, be forewarned. Things will be changing. Law enforcement will set up stings, where and when you would least expect it.

Organized groups will be acting as the eyes and ears for law enforcement, similar to a citizens' patrol. The United Four-Wheel Drive Association, an international four-wheel drive association, is submitting a bill to our representatives on Capitol Hill that will put a program in place that will empower United's members and other organized groups to sign statements of witness that would hold up in court. If someone would witness misuse or other violations there would be a number to call to quickly get the appropriate law enforcement.

Signs would be installed that would warn lawbreakers that they are being watched. These signs would also have a phone number on them so any concerned citizen could report trouble and would know which agency to contact.

The bottom line is this: Many of us would like to have more access on our public lands — rightfully so, I might add. But, taking the law into your own hands, destroying public property, and running on closed routes are going to cause everything to be closed. It has happened before.

Our group fought to get what we could re-opened. We worked very hard to prove our worth and develop a real trust. This is really threatening all of that hard work.

Please get involved and report outlaw use. Do not harass any wildlife and ask others not to as well. Ask the DNR to keep our public lands open to public use. In other words, be a part of the solution.

For more information about the United Four-Wheel Drive Associations and responsible use, you can visit its web site at http://www.ufwda.org, or call 1-800-44-ufwda.

Hartsell's Mark 25th Anniversary

Claud and Brenda Hartsell of Eglon, W.Va., celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary recently with approximately 70 family members and friends during a barn dance and carry-in meal on their farm. The Hartsells were married on June 18, 1976.

Joining the couple for anniversary celebration from the original wedding party were matron of honor Neva Frantz, bridesmaid Mary (Winters) Norwich, groomsmen Stanley Harsh and Leonard Snyder, and ring bearer Mark Harsh. Also on hand was Claud Hartsell's mother, Hallie Hartsell of Salt Lick, W.Va.

Neva Frantz and Rose Ina Harsh, Brenda Hartsell's sister and mother, presented the couple with a family quilt. Each block of the quilt was made by a family member, and the blocks represented both living and deceased family members. Two blocks were signed by those present at the celebration.

The Hartsells' barn was decorated in red, white, and blue colors, and the anniversary cake also bore those colors. The same color scheme the couple chose for their wedding party during the bicentennial year of 1976. The couple's sons, Carroll and Allen Hartsell, toasted their parents with their appreciation. Missy Frantz served as master of ceremonies and DJ.

The Hartsells continued their anniversary celebration by spending a weekend in the honeymoon cabin in Princess Snowbird's Indian Village in Seneca Rocks, W.Va.

Notes from Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

First is the news of the next chicken barbecue, to be held at the Bittinger fire hall on July 14 from 4 to 7 p.m. Be sure to mark this on your calendar.

Well, it wouldn't be summer or hay season in Bittinger without the boiling clouds of the beginning of a thunderstorm, as it was here this past late Sunday afternoon. It sneaked up on me like many other times. More than once I was lured out far from shelter by a perfect summer day. But this week I did not venture out far from my front porch, unlike the time when I took my girls, when they were small, to see the patch of Indian paintbrush. I had seen a horde of humming birds around them, and the buzz was so intense that I thought that a helicopter must be flying overhead. Then the clouds started boiling and then — something that I had never experienced — the winds came from all four directions. I knew I was in for big trouble, and we ran as fast as possible for a woman carrying a small baby, and a small girl dragging along a toddler, but we made it to the house just in time before the storm hit.

The only damage that the storm did on Sunday was some leaves, flowers, and ferns that I had almost finished drying for my nature dolls. I did finish spraying them with liquid acrylic and just barely got them inside before the rain hit. I doubt if they would have been completely ruined. However, the storm did something wonderful, in that the temperature dropped almost 40 degrees and it was back to long sleeves.

The storm was not in the top 10 of bad storms that I have seen here in the tableland, but I guess our geography here between two ridges really can have some awesome lightning and thunder fireworks. The most unique was in 1972 during the Thanksgiving holidays with a huge snowstorm with almost four feet of new snow. That snow prevented the fire department from getting to the Opels' barn and house which had been hit by a lightning bolt. I can still hear the endless scream of sirens when the fire trucks got stuck, and the strangest thing about the snow was that it was blue, not just shadows.

The second most memorable thunderstorm here was in the early '80s, which included almost 48 hours of lightning. I even saw a ball of lightning roll along a power line headed to our house. But Sunday's storm was pretty calm, plus we just finished getting our second batch of hay safely in the barn.

This Monday evening there was a game between the Cubs and the Braves for a championship of the Little League. Just got word that the game was exciting, with the Braves winning, 15-14. Another game between the two teams will be held Tuesday evening, as both teams have now lost one game apiece. The game posed a conflict of interest, as the Bittinger 4-H meeting was scheduled for tonight.

The Glotfelty cousins have to stay away from "Pappy" Dale since the chemotherapy made him very vulnerable to any bugs, and quite a few of them brought back bugs from 4-H camp (not ticks or deer flies, but colds, etc.) Dale is delighted to be home again, but he is still a bit weak and reluctant to eat much. His sister, Helen Englar, is staying with him for a couple weeks. He probably can stay home for a few weeks before he will have to go back to Morgantown for another round of chemo.

The Nightmare Club rides again since Cindy and I took another rousing four-wheeler ride on Saturday morning destined for the beaver dam, where the water was the lowest that I have ever seen. Cindy speculated that maybe the beavers moved down or up stream away from the current logging action that is now going on back there.

We had plenty of things to bemoan, with the change in the landscape since we first haunted that part of the country 35 or more years ago, like the collapse of the old sheep shelter on the Beachy farm, which was one of our very favorite places to play. It is still beautiful in its rundown state. Neither Cindy or I really know for sure what kind of wood it was built from, but we guess it was wormy chestnut. It has turned to a lovely dark burnt amber color. Ferne attributed it to the fact that it was built from old lumber from the old sugar camp. I would like to have a board or two for picture frames. I guess that will depend on Wendell Beitzel, who now owns that part of the woods.

Monday night there was another big baseball game for the Hot Stove League All-Star game after being rained out on Sunday. The Poholsky family is there cheering Torrey on to victory. He has had some outstanding games as the winning pitcher for his team.

Tom Glotfelty and son Tim spent a recent week on a fishing trip in Ontario, Canada. They took a long train ride to their camp, and reported a successful catch of fish while there. Tim landed a 15-pound, 41-inch pike, as well as many other smaller ones.

Adam Platter, son of Dwaine and Lisa Platter, received a broken arm when he fell from their backyard trampoline last week. Jim and Donna Glotfelty visited the Platter family Sunday at their Smithsburg home.

Correction noted: Gary and Kathy Reckner and family, Parrish, Fla., recently visited relatives here, and also traveled to Salisbury (Md.) to visit Kathy's parents — not Salisbury, Pa. as it appeared in the Bittinger news last week.

COVE

The Rush Baptist Church will be having a Children's Crusade at the Friendsville Town Park on July 10 and 11 from 10 a.m. to noon. There will be clowns, magic, music, and storytelling. At 7 p.m. each evening, there will be a family program. Everyone is invited.

Mrs. Alfreda Friend and Josh Robinson were recent supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Brian Anderson and children, Arthurdale, W.Va.

Visitors of Mrs. Garnet Ringer several times over the weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ringer and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bernard.

Mr. and Mrs. Markel Maust traveled to New York to pick up their grandchildren, Josh, Sara, and Kristen Maust, children of Mr. and Mrs. Luke Maust. Mr. and Mrs. Markel Maust and grandchildren returned to Mr. and Mrs. Maust's home on Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Luke Maust are soon moving to Leesburg, Va.

North Star 4-H Club and AAL Branch 5821 celebrated "Join Hands Day" on Monday, June 18, by planting flowers for the town of Accident. "Join Hands Day" was actually Saturday, June 16, but because of rain, the planting of the flowers had to be postponed. Those present were: George, Bonnie, Mabel, and Kevin Haenftling, Nancy and Kara Savage, Danita and Misty Paugh, Connie, Angela, Helaina, and Jennifer LaMastus, Dorothy Glotfelty, Pastor Randy, Ellen, and Ben Nairn, Chris Johnson, Todd Foley, and Leah Brenneman. Darlene and Rachel Schmidt were there on Saturday, but could not attend on Monday.

The North Star Club held a 4th of July/Float Committee meeting on Monday, at the Accident Town Park pavilion. Those present were Cassie Adkins, Darlene and Rachel Schmidt, Bonnie and Kevin Haenftling, Connie, Jennifer, Helaina, and Angela LaMastus, Nancy and Kara Savage, Dorothy Glotfelty, and Danita and Misty Paugh. Later the group went to the fire department to check out the games for the 4th of July. The club will have its regular meeting on Saturday, July 14, by touring family farms. They will meet at the fire hall at 11:30 a.m. and travel to the Rice farm, then to the Schmidt farm, and end at the Collier farm for a picnic.

PULLING, DANCING, AND MAKING MUSIC were but a few of the many activities of the recent annual Grantsville Days celebration. Photos above and below are of the horse and tractor pulls. TOY RAFFLE BENEFITS LIBRARY — Among the many ways Grantsville Days spectators could make contributions for various fund-raising activities was by taking part in a raffle for two wooden toys, proceeds from which benefited the Grantsville Library's ReNew construction fund. The toys were made by Eugene Bender, and shown above from the left are toy dozer winner Charlie Yommer, ReNew committee member Sheila Miller, and toy loader winner Jordan Stein. The group is standing in front of a drawing of the "Walk of Learning," a walkway of inscribed bricks available for purchase by individuals and organizations that will be constructed outside the new library. Brick purchase inquiries can be directed to any ReNew committee volunteer or Grantsville Library staff member.

LOCAL WOMEN MEET RENOWNED SURGEON, AUTHOR — Nancy Stewart, Olla Ortiz, and Linda Robinette recently attended a health seminar in Lodi, Calif., seeking information regarding natural cures, cleansing, and detoxifying. Several key speakers were doctors, including Dr. Lorraine Day, an internationally acclaimed surgeon and the former chief of orthopedic surgery at San Francisco General Hospital. She has lectured throughout the United States, appeared on more than 400 radio and television shows, including 60 Minutes, CNN, and Oprah Winfrey, and hosted her own nationally syndicated radio program. Dr. Day developed severe metastatic cancer, which motivated her to find out how to get well. She is the author of many books and videos. Observing 20th Anniversary At Williams Clinic

Debra K. Bolyard is observing her 20th anniversary of providing service at the Williams Chiropractic Clinic in Mtn. Lake Park. As a veteran in the field of assisting in chiropractic, Bolyard was among the first to be registered in the state of Maryland as a licensed chiropractic assistant after completing the necessary courses at Garrett Community College and passing the required Maryland licensure examination.

Bolyard began her career at the Williams Chiropractic Clinic in June of 1981, working under the tutelage of Drs. Neil, Earl, and Ronel Williams, and has described the past 20 years as "enjoyable, educational, challenging, and inspiring."

Her duties include answering the phones, assisting in various office-related tasks, and helping patients schedule appointments. She spends most of her time, however, administering physical therapy to the clinic's patients.

Bolyard expressed her gratitude for the opportunity to work with the staff at Williams Chiropractic Clinic, which currently consists of Diana O'Haver, Angela Beeghley, Dr. Kenneth Mankamyer, and senior chiropractor Dr. Ronel Williams.

"I provide therapy for my patients," she said, "but hopefully I give them a smile, too. I hope they know how much they mean to me."

Bolyard resides with her husband Jack and has a daughter, Dolly.

GCC Schedules Medical Language Specialist Class

The Continuing Education and Training Division of Garrett Community College is accepting applications for the Medical Language Specialist (MLS) course to begin this fall. The MLS course is a clock-hour, non-credit offering that will train individuals in the skills necessary to interpret and transcribe dictation by physicians and other healthcare professionals in order to document patient care and facilitate delivery of health care services.

The program includes 10 months of intensive training. Students are scheduled to attend classes between 8:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m., Monday through Thursday, and will follow the Garrett County Board of Education school schedule. Course topics include anatomy and physiology, human diseases and surgical procedures, laboratory procedures, medical science, medical terminology, pharmacology, professionalism and medical/legal issues, and medical transcription form, style, and application. Many hours of actual practice dictation using computers and digital voice files are required.

Upon completing the course, students should have developed the skills for entry into the medical transcription field. Opportunities for employment include physicians' offices, hospitals, other heath care facilities, and possibly at-home employment. The GCC Placement Office will assist students who are seeking employment, and there is also the possibility of a new local company that may offer graduates a paid apprenticeship and possibly employment.

Admission requirements include a high school diploma or GED certificate, college entrance placement tests scores that indicate a readiness for freshman English (or proof of satisfactory completion of college English), and a demonstrated accurate typing ability of at least 45 words per minute. If there are more applicants than available seats in the class, admissions will be selective.

For tuition information or an application, interested persons may call GCC's Continuing Education and Training Office at 301-387-3069, or visit the office in Room CE300 on the McHenry campus.

Mental Illness, Addictions Focus Of Joint Program

Garrett County Lighthouse and the Garrett County Addiction Services have teamed up to provide two treatment groups to help individuals with mental illness and addiction disorders. The mental health and addictions services are offered as part of integrated treatment delivery system that includes mental health services, case management, supportive services, and treatment of substance use disorder.

"There is no single exact co-occurring disorder program or intervention," said Les McDaniel, LCPC, of Garrett County Lighthouse. "We are here to help each individual find his or her key to recovery.

"Traditionally, the bulk of addictive disorder treatment focused on abstinence as the single goal for individuals; however, absolute lifetime abstinence for individuals with mental illness and addiction disorders may not be a reality. A relapse-tolerant approach often helps individuals to remain engaged in treatment.

The mental illness alone can prevent individuals from carrying out essential aspects of daily life, such as self-care, household management, and interpersonal relationships."

Every Wednesday morning at Lighthouse the first step toward recovery begins with participation in a group process that is exclusively designed to help individuals rethink addictive behavior. For individuals with an added hurdle of addiction disorders, the Wednesday morning group is an opportunity for ongoing access to a full range of treatment, rehabilitation, and supportive services that will help lessen the impairment and disruption.

"We are a place to find help in coping with continuing symptoms and urges," said McDaniel. Persons interested in further information may call the Garrett County Lighthouse at 301-334-9126.

Walk-For-Life Benefits Crisis Pregnancy Ctr.

The annual Walk-For-Life benefit for the Mountain Top Crisis Pregnancy Center was held in Oakland recently. The walking circuit began and ended at the town parking lot, and a picnic was held afterward in the Mtn. Fresh Pavilion. The center, which is headquartered in Loch Lynn with satellite offices in Keyser and Kingwood, W.Va., has offered free services to hundreds of individuals since its inception 12 years ago.

A number of volunteers and supporters participated in the Walk-For-Life fundraiser by walking, making pledges to walkers, donating items, or giving of their time to make the event a success, a spokesperson said. Corporate contributions were also received from Todd Sisler Trucking, Get-N-Go, Fox's Pizza, McDonald's, Smart Style, and Wal-Mart.

A number of prizes were awarded at the event. Trophies will soon be presented to following teams: Gortner Union Church, for most participants from an individual church; STUMPS (a home schooling group) won the trophy for highest amount of pledges collected by a youth group; and the Tom Glotfelty family won the "Loving Cup" for the highest amount pledged for an adult group.

Individual recognition went to Michael Welch, who won the "Loving Cup" for the highest amount pledged for an individual youth. Welch also set a record for the highest amount of pledges collected by an individual in the Walk-For-Life's history.

This Sunday, July 8, marks the 13th anniversary of the opening of Mountain Top Crisis Pregnancy Center, which offers free services to women and families through the assistance of trained volunteers.

WALKERS FOR LIFE — These participants in the recent Walk-For-Life benefit for the Mountain Top Crisis Pregnancy Center were among the teams that earned recognition at the picnic which followed the event. Pictured above is the STUMPS walking team (a home schooling group), which earned the trophy for highest amount of pledges in the youth group category. From the left are Steven Bohon, Michael Welch, Jessica Boggs, Carol Brant, MTCPC director Nellie Ashby, Sandy Boggs, Debbie Welch, Michael Boggs, and Ben Diller. Below is the Gortner Union Church team, winner of a plaque for most participants representing an individual church. From the left are Harriet Moon with grandson Kyle, Winifred Sisler, Anna Sauder, Holly Sauder, Faye Bittinger, Ben Friend, Ralph Lichty, Cathy McGoldrick with son Seamus, and Pastor Steve Sauder.

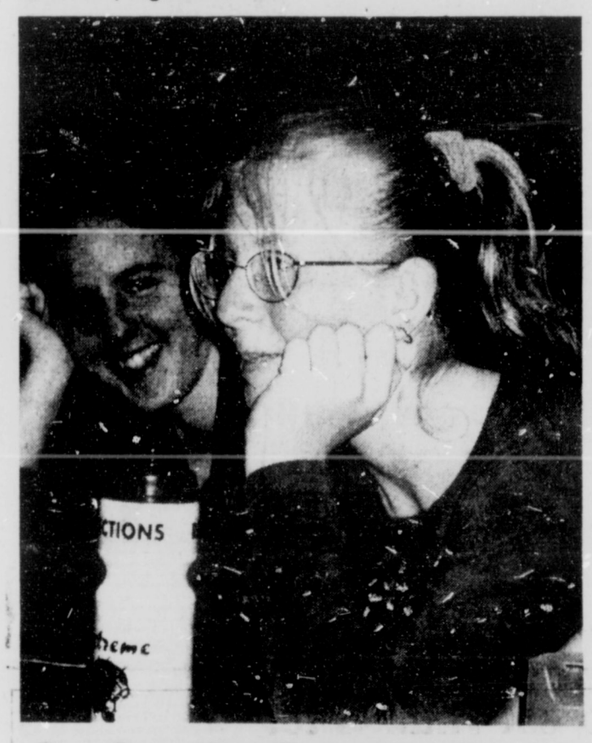
GIRLS' GROUP HITS ROPES — The Garrett County Department of Social Services sponsored an intensive two-week self-image-building program for 3- to 12-year-old girls recently. Coordinator Sylvia Vaught noted that the self-esteem of girls can often be buffeted by pressures from within the family and society at large, and extra encouragement can greatly aid their progress toward realizing their full potential. Several agencies pooled their efforts to conduct the program, which concluded with a Ropes Course. Participant Kendra Albert is shown negotiating a portion of the gauntlet under the watchful eye of Tim Murphy of the Department of Juvenile Justice. The two student assistants shown below, Crystal Cone, left, and Suzette Ketner helped Vaught facilitate the program and helped provide an invaluable bridge between the girls and the adults, organizers said.



Summer Girls' Program Builds Self-Esteem

The Garrett County Department of Social Services sponsored an intensive two-week summer camp recently for 8- to 12-year-old girls that combined educational growth experiences with story-telling, art, self defense, body awareness, and drumming. The pilot program was conceived as a primary prevention program to promote a positive self-image for young women and encourage their strengths and talents. "The girls noted that they felt like they had grown in positive ways because of their experiences [during the camp]," said program coordinator Sylvia Vaught, a DSS psychotherapist and trauma specialist.

Vaught led the program, along with student assistants Crystal Cone and Suzette Ketner. DSS's Rick Kutchman presented daily self-defense lessons and led rhythm lessons for the drumming sessions. Suzie Steiding, who brought her pet therapy dogs, facilitated a discussion on the mutual benefits of taking care of a pet, and the trauma that can result from animal cruelty. Transportation was provided by Geri Ford and Shawn Durst, who drove department vehicles.

DSS supported and encouraged the development of this pilot venture under the leadership of department director Henry Brown, DSW. Funding was provided by VOCA federal funds. Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families funding provided the stipend for the student assistants. Pam Nelson of Community Action provided space for the group at the Early Head Start Center located along Liberty Street in Oakland.

The last 2½ days of the program were spent in the Juvenile Justice Reflections Program, facilitated by Tim Murphy and his staff. The girls' group also camped out at Big Run primitive camping area for two nights, where they took part in swimming, campfire activities, and cooking their own food.

The program concluded with the Ropes Course, which "challenged everyone as it increased self-confidence while strengthening the ability to work together as a group," stated Vaught.

SHS Class Of 1981 Reunion Being Planned

Plans for the 20th anniversary reunion of the Southern High School class of 1981 are being finalized, according to a representative of the class. While most classmates have been sent invitations to the reunion, organizers are currently searching for some class members whose addresses are unknown.

The reunion weekend will be August 10-12, with the main event taking place on the evening of the 11th at the Silver Tree Center. Classmates are invited to gather informally at the Honi-Honi Bar at Deep Creek Lake on the evening of the 10th, and then again at Broadford Lake Park on Sunday, August 12, for an afternoon family picnic.

Anyone who has information about the location of these former students is asked to contact Janet Maffett Gregory at 301-334-1735. An attempt is being made by the organizers to include in the invitation list not only all graduating students of 1981, but also those who were with the class for several years.

General questions about the event may also be directed to Gregory at the noted number. Others involved in planning the event are Michelle Messenger, Mary McEwen, Denise Gerard, and Natalie Newhall.

Frostburg State Planetarium

THE SUN — In early July, the sun shines for 15.0 hours each day. By July's end the sunlight amount has dropped by 45 minutes. During July, sunrises advance from 5:50 to 6:15 a.m. Sunsets fall back from 8:50 to 8:33 p.m. Throughout July, the sun's peak height drops from 73 to 68 degrees. The earliest time to see the evening planets and brightest stars in July stays at about 9:40 p.m. On July 4, the Earth is farthest from the sun for the year at a distance of 94.5 million miles. July's warmth is due to our part of the world being tipped toward the sun; the sun's rays are concentrated compared to the sun's rays in winter, which are spread over a much larger area.

THE MOON — The moon is full on July 5, but it looks full at the time of the July 4th fireworks. By June 13 the moon will have shrunk to half full in the southern dawn. July 17 will see the crescent moon near the brilliant planet Venus in the eastern dawn. The next morning is your last chance to see the moon, appearing as a razor sharp sliver below and to the left of Venus. The moon reappears low in the western dusk on July 22. By July 27 the moon will have grown to half full in the southern evening sky. This moon shape, resembling a letter "D," offers the best views of the moon's craters and mountains with binoculars or telescope.

THE BRIGHT PLANETS — Our five nearest planetary neighbors appear as points of light that shine more steadily than the twinkling night stars. But if a planet appears very close to the horizon or if it's windy, even the planet's light may flicker. In July the planet Mars will be at its best through the evening hours — both in terms of easy visibility and brightness. Venus is brilliant in the eastern dawn in July, rising more than 2.5 hours before sunrise. In mid July, Saturn appears near Venus. Below and to the left of Venus-Saturn is the bright planet Jupiter. In mid July Mercury appears near Jupiter low in the eastern dawn.

JULY'S BEST SIGHTS — Now that the winter evening stars have set, the spring evening groups are slowly approaching the western horizon. The Big Dipper's handle curves outward to the bright golden star Arcturus, now high in the west. The eastern sky is dominated by the white-blue star Vega. On moonless nights, the Milky Way can be seen underneath Vega.

The most spectacular sight this month will be a line-up of the crescent moon, Venus, and Saturn in the eastern dawn on Tuesday, July 17. Look at about 5 a.m.

JULY ASTRONOMY ACTIVITIES — For information, please call the planetarium at 301-687-4270, press 4, and leave your name and phone number. We are now mailing out our new planetarium flyer for the 2001 to 2002 school year to those who call in and leave their name and address. The Cumberland Astronomy Club will meet on July 20 at the LaVale Public Library at 7:30 p.m. All interested sky gazers from the tri-state area are welcome.

Dr. Bob Doyle directs the planetarium at Frostburg State University. Since the mid '70s, Doyle has been writing sky columns for beginners who would like to identify the brightest stars, planets, and sights in their backyards. To ask a sky question, persons may call the FSU Planetarium at 301-687-4270 and press 4. Doyle also hosts "Skywatch," a brief program on days of the week and sky sights that airs on weekday evenings just before 9 p.m. on WFWM, FSU's radio station that transmits at 91.9 FM in western Garrett County and at 96.3 FM around Oakland. Garrett Storms Ft. Cumberland, Then Nipped By One For Split

The fireworks got an early start last Thursday as the Garrett American Legion Baseball League squad lit up the scoreboard with an eight-run eighth inning to take a 10-5 victory over arch-rival Ft. Cumberland. The big stanza's deluge of runs was even more striking considering that each of the eight scores came with two outs. The two squads met again Tuesday and battled to an 8-7 result with Ft. Cumberland taking the upper hand. The action gives Garrett a 1-5 Mountain District record, with all contests coming against Ft. Cumberland.

Thursday's exciting win on the Garrett Community College diamond was the first for Garrett in five meetings with its Cumberland-based rival. The visitors jumped out to a 2-0 lead in the first inning, and Garrett tied the score with a two-run third. The score remained knotted until the top of the eighth when Ft. Cumberland scored three times on an RBI infield single and a two-run home run.

Down by a 5-2 margin, Garrett led off the bottom of the eighth with a walk drawn by Greg Whittemore. Two batters struck out, and two others drew walks to load the bases with two outs.

With both teams' backs against the wall, Ft. Cumberland blinked first and often. Chad Panther reached on an error that scored Whittemore from third, Ricky Reams ricocheted a single off the pitcher's leg to score another run, and the third run scored on a wild pitch, knotting the score at 5-5.

Justin DiSimone worked the visiting pitcher for a walk to reload the bases, then Joel Helbig was hit by a pitch to score another run and put Garrett up by one run, its first lead of the night. Whittemore came up again and drew yet another walk to make the score 7-5, then Brad Palmer launched a long fly ball down the rightfield line that the Ft. Cumberland fielder lost in the lights. Three runs scored on the mishap, and Palmer didn't stop running until he was perched on third base with a triple that put Garrett up by the final 10-5 margin.

DiSimone pitched a complete game, scattering five hits and striking out 10 batters in nine innings of mound duty. Toby Stoner doubled and singled to drive home a pair of runs, Reams singled twice for two RBI, and Palmer accounted for three runs with his eighth-inning triple.

Tuesday in Cumberland Garrett almost pulled off another big come-from-behind win. The hosts took a 1-0 lead in the first inning, then Garrett tied the score in the fourth and added a go-ahead run in the fifth.

Ft. Cumberland exploded for five runs in the top of the sixth, but Garrett stormed back with four runs of its own in the bottom of the stanza. Bryan Lenhart opened the flurry with a single, followed by another single by Pete Tressler. Terry Southerly drew a walk to load the bases, and Seth Stoner ripped a two-out, three-run double. Whittemore singled to bring Stoner home, and the two teams were neck-and-neck again at 6-all.

With the combatants still tied after a scoreless seventh inning, Ft. Cumberland scored twice in the top of the eighth to go up 8-6. Garrett scored once in the bottom of the inning to pull within one, and in the bottom of the ninth had runners in scoring position on second and third with two outs, but relief pitcher Jon Irons recorded a strikeout to clinch the win for the hosts.

Stoner and Jared Fike both doubled for Garrett, and Lenhart and Chad Panther each singled twice. Whittemore pitched the first six innings before Fike came to the mound in relief.

Garrett travels to Ft. Cumberland's Legion Field Saturday for an 11 a.m. twinbill.

Oakland Drops Three Straight To Tri-State In Pen-Mar Play

The Oakland Oaks were downed by the high-flying Tri-State Titans in three outings, beginning with an 8-3, 10-6 doubleheader loss Saturday, and a 9-3 defeat in a twinbill opener Sunday. Rain may have prevented the weekend from being a complete washout for Oakland, as the fourth game was canceled Sunday afternoon. The action leaves the Oaks with a 3-8 record, while the Cumberland-based Titans upped their mark to 13-1.

Saturday's action got off to a good start for Oakland, which was up 1-0 after three innings. Tri-State scored three times in the fourth and once in the fifth before the Oaks were able to respond with a run in the bottom of the fifth to make the score 4-2. The visitors slammed the door shut with a four-run seventh that provided the final five-run cushion of victory.

Tri-State hammered starter Jeff Carr and reliever P.J. Workman, who had been summoned to the mound in the fifth inning, for a total of 11 hits. Brian Powell and Myrle Grose accounted for the lion's share of the visitors' offense as each went 3-for-4 with three singles. Tri-State hurler Eric Hott teamed up with his catcher dad, Larry Hott, to strike out six Oakland batters. Josh Bosley doubled and singled, and Mickey Chapman singled twice to garner four of the Oaks' seven hits.

Oakland held the upper hand for much of the nightcap, as Tri-State was forced to rally two deficits to finally cinch its four-run win. The visitors scored once in the top of the first, and Oakland rebounded to take a 2-1 lead in the bottom of the inning. Tri-State scored twice in the top of the second, but the undaunted Oaks scored a pair of their own in their half of the stanza to snag a 4-3 lead.

One- and three-run innings followed for Tri-State, putting the visitors up by three, then Oakland scored one run in each of the fourth and sixth innings to pull within one. Tri-State put out the fire with a three-run seventh to take the contest by four runs.

Jeff Barclay slugged a pair of home runs to spark Tri-State's 11-hit offense.

Oakland complete-game pitcher Jay Bruckey was not was helped by an uncharacteristic six errors committed by his teammates. Joey DiSimone doubled, singled, and scored three Oakland runs, and Bosley doubled, singled and scored twice.

Oakland jumped out to a short-lived 1-0 lead in Sunday's contest in Cumberland before Tri-State stormed back with five runs in the bottom of the stanza. The hosts scored once in the third to go up by five runs, then the Oaks scored twice in the top of the sixth to make the score 6-3. Tri-State put the game away with a three-run tally in the bottom of the sixth.

Bosley struggled during the first three innings of the contest for Oakland, and gave up a three-run home run to Jay Atkinson. Joey DiSimone came on in relief during the fourth stanza and pitched the rest of the way. DiSimone had a pair of singles for Oakland, and Chapman and Keith Parks both stroked RBI singles.

The Oaks are scheduled to play a pair of make-up games this weekend. They host Rosemont (5-5) on Saturday and travel to Hyndman Sunday to take on Pleasant Valley (0-8).

Former Laker Cooper To Play At Middle Tenn.

Middle Tennessee head baseball coach Steve Peterson has announced the signing of former Garrett Community College infielder Chad Cooper for the 2002 season. Cooper, a 6-1, 180-lb., middle infielder, hails from Picture Rock, Pa.

Cooper was named first-team All-Maryland Junior College Conference for his work as a shortstop for two seasons. During his two-year stint at Garrett, he batted .372 while driving in 100 runs. He stole an average of 22 bases each season while collecting 38 doubles, 13 triples, and nine homers.

GCC coach Ed Wildesen had nothing but praise for Cooper.

"It was with great pleasure and pride that I coached Chad for two years. All athletic ability aside, the two things I will miss most are Chad's work ethic and his passion for the game," stated Wildesen.

Cooper played high school baseball for coach Jon Fritz at Hughesville High School, where he earned varsity letters in each of his four seasons. He also earned two letters in basketball as the point guard for the Hughesville cagers.

"We were able to see him play, and he came very highly recommended from professional scouts and junior college coaches. He gives us an experienced middle infielder that can play both second and shortstop. He has shown that he has the potential to swing the bat, play defense, and run. He should make a fine addition to our team," Peterson said.

The Blue Raiders posted a 41-17 record this spring in their first season in the Sun Belt conference. They won a share of the regular-season championship and earned the school's first-ever at-large berth into the NCAA Tournament.

Five Blue Raiders were selected in the Major League baseball draft in early June, marking the most ever for a single year. RHP Dewon Brazelton made history by becoming the highest draft pick in MT history when he was taken third overall by the Tampa Bay Devil Rays.

Three Sweeps Recorded In Softball Action

There were three doubleheader sweeps and one split recorded this week in games played by the members of the Garrett County Area Christians Men's Softball League.

Glade Mennonite took a pair from Cherry Glade Mennonite, 17-11 and 16-4, with Rick Brenneman the winner on the mound in both. Trey Brenneman smacked a grand slam and Terry Brenneman also had a homer for the winners.

Cherry Glade rebounded for an 18-14, 23-12 sweep of Oak Park Church of the Brethren, with Corey Hershberger the winning pitcher for both. Levi Schmuck hit a home run for Cherry Glade, while Kevin Artice hit three and Ken Lake recorded one for Oak Park.

Maple Glen whipped Oakland Church of the Nazarene, 19-5 and 23-6. Laban Tice was the winner on the mound in both games. Dave Kennel and Jimmy Yoder each hit a homer for Maple Glen, and Tim Upton rapped two for Nazarene.

Pleasant View defeated Crellin United Brethren, 13-7, in the opener of another twinbill, but Crellin UB came back to coast to a 20-2 win in the second game. Respective winning pitchers were Jeff Murphy and Ray Hershman.

Mt. View holds a narrow lead in the league with a 12-2 record. Crellin United Methodist is right behind at 13-3, followed by Crellin UB, 13-5; Gortner, 8-6; Pleasant View, 10-8; Glade and Maple Glen, 9-7; Oak Park, 5-9; Cherry Glade and Crellin AG, 4-12; Nazarene, 3-9; and Cornerstone, 0-10.

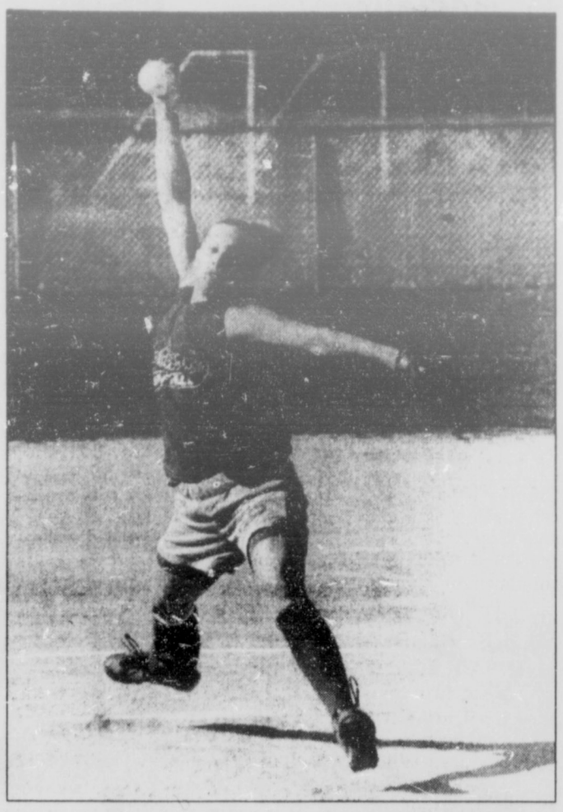
Bosley Earns Third Player Of Year Honor; Four Rams, One Husky On All-Area Team



JENNIFER BOSLEY

Southern High School softball sensation Jennifer Bosley has been named the 2001 Area Player of the Year, marking the third consecutive time the pitching and hitting standout has received the area's top honor. Bosley and three of her 2001 Maryland state champion SHS teammates, shortstop Ashley Liller, third baseman Autumn Uphold, and outfielder Stacy Scripp, were named to the All-Area first team, as was the area's top hitter, Northern High School outfielder Jolene Brenneman. Southern catcher Gina Reeves and Northern second baseman Brooke Butler each earned honorable mention recognition.

Bosley received 7 of the 11 votes cast for Player of the Year, with additional First Team selections Rachel Williams of Moorefield, Tessa Forbeck of Frankfort, and Heather Laffey of Allegany sharing the other ballots. The All-Area first team was rounded out by Alco's Jen Cook, Fort Hill's Jennifer Vance, Westmar's Kristina Marsh, and Shera Rowan and Vanessa Rowan, both of Bishop Walsh.

A perfectionist on the mound, Bosley's impeccable control, blinding fastball, and dropping curve ball left opposing batters swinging at air throughout the season. Her statistics read like a Hall of Fame wish list: for the 2001 season she went 19-2, allowing just 35 hits in 133 innings of work and just three earned runs — for a microscopic 0.15 earned run average. She struck out an even 300 batters, a ratio of nearly two out of every three batters she faced, and issued only 35 walks. She hurled two no-hitters as well.

"Jennifer put a little more velocity to her fast ball this year," SHS coach Dave Bosley commented. "She also added a pretty good curveball that she didn't use much last year but used a lot more this year. She works hard on all her pitches, and seldom uses her change-up because she likes to challenge batters and strike them out. She doesn't want anyone to hit her."

As if she didn't do enough damage on the mound, Bosley also led the Rams at the plate, recording a team-high .461 batting average, eight doubles, four triples, five home runs, and 26 runs batted in. She scored 29 runs, tallied an .868 slugging average, and did not strike out once. "Jennifer was pretty consistent again at the plate," her coach (and father) observed. "She gained a lot of strength from dedicated weight training over the whole year."

Bosley's production helped lead Southern to a 22-2 record and its first state title this season, along with its second straight appearance in the state championship game, and its second out of the last three WMIL title honors. The squad's only losses came against much larger schools, Patuxent and Broadway (Va.). The Rams have put together a stellar 59-9 record over the past three years, with Bosley recording a 44-6 overall pitching record, 651 strikeouts in 329 innings with only 41 walks, and a 0.40 ERA.

ASHLEY LILLER

AUTUMN UPHOLD

STACY SCRIPP

JOLENE BRENNEMAN

With one year left in Jennifer's high school career, both Bosleys, and the entire Ram squad, have just one goal — to take another state crown. Key to that effort, as they were this year, are fellow First-Team selections Liller and Uphold, while Scripp will be missed as the team's lone departed senior.

A junior this season, Liller was named to the All-Area team for the second straight year. She recorded a .432 batting average, tied Uphold for the team lead with 38 runs scored, and blasted out six doubles and three triples on her way to 24 RBI. She struck out just once. Her fielding prowess resulted in only one error on the season, and she robbed a number of potential basehits with her quick reflexes and strong arm. As a pitcher she tallied a 2-0 record with 13 strikeouts in 17 innings and a 1.23 ERA. Those numbers could have conceivably been much better were she not teamed up with Bosley, her first cousin.

Uphold rounded out the left side of the infield, flawlessly holding down the third base position to compliment Liller's work at short. Nothing got by the junior at the hot corner, and her batting statistics were right up there with Bosley's and Liller's as she put together a .431 average, shared the team lead with 38 runs scored, stroked six doubles, and drew six walks.

Scripp, who will be the only face missing when the Rams return to the field next spring, has been an integral piece of the Southern machine for the past several years. Her composure under pressure did as much to garner the state crown, as did her teammates' fabulous statistics, as she stroked what became the game-winning eighth-inning single to break a scoreless tie in the state semifinal this year. She put together an excellent season at the plate, batting .367, scoring 29 runs, and driving home 22 RBI.

Northern's Brenneman led the area in hitting this season, just her junior year, with a mind-boggling .674 average. She connected for 29 hits in 43 plate appearances, scored 14 runs, ripped three doubles and a triple, and only struck out twice. She drove home nine runs and showed her speed by stealing 14 bases for the 4-15 Huskies.

All-Area honorable mention kudos went to NHS's Butler and SHS's Reeves. Butler recorded a .446 batting average, while Reeves tallied a .347 mark.

Soccer Camp Adds "Munchkin" Kids' Division

Next month's Internationals Soccer Camp, set for Monday through Friday, Aug. 6-10, has added a "Munchkin" division to its soccer instruction offerings. A combined effort of Mountaintop Soccer Association and Arsenal Football, the camp has set the new division for children ages 3-5, who will receive one hour of soccer instruction each day from 1 to 2 p.m. The cost is $50 per munchkin participant, which includes a soccer ball and a camp T-shirt.

Since this category is not listed in the camp brochure, parents are asked to simply write the word "Munchkin" on their child's application and enclose a check. For further information, persons may contact MSA president Ron Petrella at 301-334-1174, or Arsenal Football director Mel Menker at 301-334-5906.

Special Athletes Take Part In Bowling Event

The chapter will begin its cycling program at the Discovery Center at Deep Creek starting on July 20.

Sailboat Racing On Deep Creek Lake

FIRECRACKER REGATTA SAILED IN UNSTABLE WEATHER

by Dan Muss

The weather map showed a great high-pressure bulge coming down from Canada that extended from Montana to Chicago to Montreal. At the edge of this bulge was rain and high wind. The bad news was that we had these unstable conditions all weekend; the good news is that after the front passed through early Monday morning we could expect sunny, cool weather for several days.

But, as we left the mooring on Saturday, the wind was from the west swinging northwest and it was blowing about 5-10 knots with puffs up to 15. And it wasn't raining.

We got off to a good start while my arch nemesis, Ted Rissell, was over early and had to restart. Barbara Elster was about 20 yards ahead of us, but she held a tack too long and we were first around the windward mark. The rest of the race was uneventful; we made no major goof and went on to win.

We now have four fleets starting in most of our races: Lasers A and B, Flying Scot A, Flying Scot B, and Flying Scot C. Our local rules require that the five-minute warning flag, designating the starting fleet, also means that all the other fleets must stay well clear of the starting line. During this time the other sailboats are sailing back and forth downwind of the starting line. In heavy air this can be a trying time, and this last Saturday one 'Scot lost control on a tack and hit another 'Scot who had right-of-way. In the ensuing protest the defending yacht claimed that the racing rules were not in effect until the preparatory flag at four minutes before the start. But the protest committee cited a little known rule that states that, in the event of a foul committed by a yacht intending to race, that foul must be cleared immediately by doing the regulation penalty turns.

By Sunday morning the weather had really turned nasty and the race committee postponed for 30 minutes to let a rain shower pass. When the half-hour signal was given, the C Fleet wisely decided not to sail. The race committee later reported 15-25 knot winds, with two Flying Scots capsizing.

We had a new couple from off the lake join us this past weekend, Jon and Nancy Ingersoll; they were most welcome.

ROARING KNOB RACEWAY PARK
by Donna Butler

Jeff Ferguson of Brownfield, Pa., took his second win of the 2001 season, snagging $1,500 in the Bobby Lake Wet and Wild 30-lapper for the Ken Nicholson and Sons Late Models. Fortunately, the wetness stayed away from the raceway. The wildness was found in the hot stock division.

Jeff Thomas of Oakland clocked in at 17.44, taking the fast time bonus. Mike Benedum, Salem, W.Va., in the Yowler 28 for this race, won the dash.

Benedum started the event on the pole. At the drop of the green, Gary Tonkery took control from the outside of row 1. Tonkery would lead laps 1 through 4, when something broke under the machine causing him to take a hard right off the back chute. Benedum inherited the lead and held it for the next 10 circuits, but a caution on lap 13 for Jess Sterbutzel's ride off the back straight tightened the field. Ferguson, from fifth on the grid, was now in second, with Thomas third.

On the 15th trip around the mountain top oval, Ferguson made his move and took over the point. After a lap 18 caution for Sterbutzel's 4th turn spin, Thomas took over the second spot and moved to challenge for the lead. Ferguson withstood the assault and began to pull away as Thomas and Benedum raced for second. At the checkered, it was Ferguson over Benedum, Thomas, Jesse Guseman, and Bobby Neratka. Garry Sisson, Danny Pugh, Sterbutzel and Tonkery rounded out the finishing order. There were three cautions in the event. Ferguson took the heat win.

Wayne Jordan, Dilliner, Pa., took his third of the year. He found victory lane in the Caney Valley Sport and Marine AMRA Modified division. The second spot went to Renee Dean, followed by Buck Goodwin and Greg Hauger. There were no cautions. Jordan scored the heat win.

The action is always fast and furious with the Vita-Link-QCOL Classic Lites, as the little buzzers run three and four wide on the raceway. John Cogar started on the pole. Mike Hay darted into the lead as the green waved. Hay and Cogar would battle back and forth over the first 9 circuits, with Cogar holding the point on 8 and 9. Hay reclaimed the top spot on the 10th.

Lap 11 saw the event's only caution as Lynn Knepper and Cogar, racing for second, got together. Both machines were towed pitside. That put Bob Bolin in the second spot. In the ensuing 2-lap dash, Bolin, of Pennsboro, W.Va., got by Hay for his third win in a row. Hay held on for second, followed by Eric Hay, Calvin Clay, and Jeff Barclay. Butch Summers claimed the Semi-Pro division. There was only one caution, and heats were taken by Cogar and Mike Hay.

Scott Herring of Markleysburg, Pa., led the distance of the caution-marred Country Charm Hot Stock feature, withstanding the challenges of polesitter Jim Bendishaw, then pulling away as Bendishaw and Jim Byers raced for second. Herring took the checkered along with a heat win, but was later disqualified for an illegal manifold, making the top five Bendishaw, Byers, John Redshaw, Steve Huggins, and Denny Bennett. There were five cautions. Heats went to Byers and Bendishaw.

Roaring Knob Raceway Park will be back in action this Saturday, July 7. Fayette Tire will present the second leg of the Tri-State Shootout Series, capped off by 40 laps for the Ken Nicholson and Sons Late Models. A prize of $2,500 will go to the victor. The Caney Valley Sport and Marine AMRA Modifieds will be idle. Their spot on the card will be taken by the always exciting Fort Necessity Garage Modified and Stock 4 bangers. It will be Boy and Girl Scout night, and Appalachian Timber products will hold a water balloon toss for the youngsters.

Roaring Knob Raceway Park is located two miles west of the Youghiogheny Lake, just off Route 40 along Fearer Road. For more information, call the raceway office at 724-329-0306 or 724-329-8196, or visit www.roaringknob.com on the Web.

Todd Smith and Bill Childers led the field of 20 Late Models to the green flag, but 8th starting Ryan Cline spun before the flag stand and started a chain reaction that showed Aaron Fleming's car resting on top of the car of Dennis Little. This whittled the field to 16, as Chad Ingalls, Ryan Cline, Little, and Dan Morrison were finished for the night.

On the restart Childers took the point, followed by Greg Mitchell, Rod Evans, Andy Bond, and Bob Adams Jr. The yellow waved on lap 3 for Andy Bond with a broken axle. Two laps later Todd Smith retired with mechanical problems.

On lap 8, Rod Evans charged to the front as Adams moved to the top and started his assault for the lead. Adams took the lead on lap 16 and never looked back en route to his second win of the year. Following the Bandit to the strip were Evans, John Brown, Mitchell, and Childers.

NEW GERMANY FISHING RODEO HOOKS KIDS — The weather was "nearly perfect" for the annual youth fishing rodeo at New Germany State Park recently. Approximately 65 youngsters through the age of 15 turned out for the fishing rodeo, accompanied by 38 parents and grandparents who enjoyed the fun as much as the kids. Department of Natural Resources Fisheries Service personnel from the Bear Creek Hatchery stocked the park's lake with rainbow trout, and a number of nice catches were recorded. Among the participants were, shown at the left, Scarlet Faust in a fine fishing hat. Pictured above, from the left, are Jarrett Wolfe, Andrew Preston (who had the biggest catch in the 7- to 9-year-old category with the 17-inch channel catfish he is holding), Ashley Martin, and Grant Wolfe. Below at the left is Helen Bonds, holding the 14-inch largemouth bass, which earned her top catch of the 10- to 12-year-old group, and to the right is 2-year-old Hunter Mallow (foreground), standing with his sister Britanny and holding his rainbow trout that took the largest fish honor of the 5 and under category. Not shown is Scott Cammarata, top angler in the 13- to 15-year-old category. Prizes were awarded for largest fish, and a number of additional prizes were awarded during a drawing. The fishing rodeo was made possible through the volunteer efforts of the Friends of New Germany, and donations from Billy Bender Chevrolet, the town of Grantsville, Woodmen of the World, the Grantsville American Legion, the Grantsville Lions Club, the Grantsville Rotary Club, and New Germany State Park.

BOWL FOR KIDS' SAKE TOP GROUP FUND-RAISERS — The results of several Big Brothers Big Sisters Bowl for Kids' Sake group challenges have been announced, and two of the three winning groups are shown here. The Highest Pledge-Raiser award in the school challenge category went to Broad Ford Elementary School, which fielded 14 teams from kindergarten through fifth grade, including a math team, that raised a combined total of more than $3,300. Shown above, from the left, are BBBS board member Bonnie Swyter, who issued the school challenge, and the top three Broad Ford student pledge-raisers, Cameron Sisler, Katie Welch (who was the second-highest overall pledge-raiser for the event), and Garth Wolfe. The winner in the 4-H challenge, which was made by county extension agent Ann Sherrard, was the North Star 4-H Club of Accident, whose members raised $500. North Star's 4-H bowling team is shown below with the traveling 4-H Bowl for Kids' Sake trophy. In the first row are Kevin Haenftling, Misty Paugh, and Kara Savage; in the second row are Rachel Schmidt and Jennifer LaMastus; in the third row are Angela LaMastus, BBBS caseworker Betsy Herpel, Helaina LeMastus, and Danita Paugh. Not pictured are the bowling team members of Oakland Boy Scout Troop #33, which won the Boy Scout challenge trophy, which was accepted by Scout Brandon Stephens. Some pledges still need to be submitted from participants in the bowl-a-thon, which was held on March 31. Pledge money may still be mailed to BBBS, 105 S. Second St. #8, Oakland, MD 21550.

Next up was the AMRA Modified 20-lap feature. Bruce Dennis for the second week in a row took the lead from his pole starting position and led all the way for the victory. Mike "Bird" Wilson finished second, followed by Bob Adams Jr., John Burdette, and Kenny Johnson.

Steve Bigley jumped out to the lead at the drop of the green from his outside pole position and led all 15 laps in the Street Stock feature. Following Bigley to the line were Toad Fordyce, Ted Dille, Olin Neal, and Barry Fairbanks.

Mike Martin led every lap in the Pure Stock feature to claim yet another checkered flag and continue to lead the point race. Following Martin were Harley Hall, last week's winner Brian Hafer, Aaron Brown, and Michael Hafer.

Last but not least, the Mighty Dwarf cars came to the track for their 12-lap feature. Tyler Reno jumped out to the lead from his front row starting position and looked like he would finally pick up that illusive win. But coming down for the white flag, Tyler was bumped from behind and spun to the infield and out of harm's way. Tracy Fritter picked up the lead and led the last two laps to win his third race of the year. Following Fritter to the line were Bob Six, Tim Jackson, Terry Hall, and Tyler Hall.

INTERSTATE 79 SPEEDWAY

The first leg of the W.Va. State Championship Series finally took to the track on Friday evening. Tim Senic set the fast time with a time of 16.472. Chuck Harper and Nolan Dalton led the 24-car field to the green flag. Harper jumped out front at the drop of the green. He held on until lap 21 when a charging Gary Dalton left the rest of the field behind. The 30-lap main event was non-stop. Harper was able to hold off Butch McGill for the second position. Tim Hitt was fourth and Nolan Dalton was fifth. Scott Miles, Duke Pratt, Doug Horton, and Tim Dohm rounded out the top 10. Paul Wilmoth Jr. was the Timberwolf Hard Charger by advancing 15 positions. The dash winner was Chuck Harper. Heats were picked up by Scott Miles, Gary Dalton, and Tim Hitt.

Masontown's Roy Gibson picked up win number 1 in 2001. Gibson had lady luck riding with him when on lap 13 M.T. Hall was able to pass him and a caution flag was thrown. Reverting back to the last completed lap gave Gibson back the lead. Hall was unable to pass Gibson again and had to settle for second. Donnie Dotson, who started last, finished in the third hole. Duane Moreland and Eugene Towson were fourth and fifth. Gibson and Hall were heat winners.

The AMRA Modifieds saw its fifth different winner in as many nights when Shawn Davis took the checkered flag. Davis started on the pole and never looked back. Brent Trimble was second while Davis's team car driven by Rick Smith was third. Ron Clevenger and Louie Krushansky were fourth and fifth. Davis and Trimble were heat winners.

Pure Stock veteran Jim Byers picked up win number 4 in 2001. He started on the outside pole after winning his heat and led wire to wire. Roger Coffman, subbing for daughter Pam, was second and Pat Frazier was third. Jim Bendishaw and Donald George rounded out the top five. Byers and Joe Loudin picked up heats.

Dave Summers made it four in a row in the 4 Cylinder division by leading flag to flag. Bruce Satterfield and Sonny Crayton were second and third. Heats were picked up by Summers and Kevin Pifer.

ENDURO RESCHEDULED

The enduro scheduled for Sunday, July 1, has been rescheduled for Sunday, July 8. The rain began just as the gates were to open. The gates will open at 4 p.m. Sunday and the race will begin at 6 p.m. The 200-lap event has over 70 entries, and several more are expected by the weekend.

Jackson Author Of New Club Fitting Guide

Former area resident Jeff Jackson, president of Dynacraft, recently completed work on his third book related to golf equipment. Total Clubfitting in the 21st Century includes 11 chapters related to the explanation and fitting of key swing parameters such as club length, club lie, face angle, loft, shafts, grips, and club weight. Specific chapters are included that highlight putter fitting and wedge fitting.

Jackson, author of the original Total Clubfitting text in 1993, said, "Our new fitting guide is the easiest-to-use fitting manual in the industry. It is written so that both experienced fitters and layman golfers are able to understand the basic concepts behind total clubfitting. Through the study of this book, all types of fitting scenarios will be revealed. Matching a player's club's to his or her swing can only help the player to enjoy the game."

This new publication details the fitting of golf clubs through a concise, step-by-step process based upon Dynacraft's 20+ years in the clubmaking and fitting industry. The industry's most comprehensive glossary to date is a key part of this new Dynacraft text.

The nearly 200-page text offers hands-on examples of a variety of fitting situations, including those related to all types of golfers — men, women, juniors, and seniors. Over 100 drawings, tables, and photos highlight key fitting elements, many of which are suitable for helping to explain fitting parameters to any level of golfer. Specific "Do" and "Don't" sections summarize accurate fitting concepts.

Dynacraft Golf is a leading supplier of component golf equipment throughout the world. Originally opened in 1979, Dynacraft has divisions in Europe, Canada, Malaysia, Singapore, Korea, and Australia. Also noted for its learning facility, the Dynacraft Clubmaking Institute serves the educational needs of clubmakers of all levels of experience.

Jackson is an Allegany County native, having attended Beall High School. He earned a master's degree from Frostburg State after completing undergraduate work at Western Maryland College. He is a former educator at Northern Middle School, and served as golf coach at Northern High School. He is the former owner of Western Maryland Golf, a Cumberland-based business, and served as golf director at Wisp Resort for two years. He has a daughter, Jerilyn, who attends Allegany College and resides in Frostburg.

Women Golfers Play Two-Ball Team Tourney

Members of the Women's Golf Association of the Oakland Golf Club met June 28 for a two-ball team event with full handicap given. Claiming first place with 131 was the team of Jessie Stowell, Mary Spencer, Betsy Polce, and Randee Craig.

Scoring 132 and winning second-place honors were June Bray, Becky Glotfelty, Kazuko Hamill, and Shirley Leonhardt, while two teams tied for third place with 133: Annis Colaw, Sandy Bello, Kathy Kessler, and Sandy Koch; and Janice Metheny, Cheryl Wotherspoon, Loretta Pernell, and Helen Nordeck.

MSP Gun Shell Casing Collection Program Begins

Maryland State Police representatives began test-firing new handguns earlier this month to collect shell casings as part of the Statewide Interim Ballistic Imaging Collection Program. The effort is man-dated by Maryland's Responsible Gun Safety Act of 2000, and is being carried out across the state.

The Gun Safety Act requires manufactures to submit a shell casing with each new handgun to be sold in Maryland. To date, 39 manufacturers are complying with the Act's guidelines for submitting shell casings of newly manufactured handguns, including Beretta, Colt, Dan Wesson, Glock, Ruger, Sig Arms, Smith & Wesson, and Taurus.

The MSP test-firing program is slated to run for six months, and will likely be suspended upon compliance of all manufacturers with the shell casing submission requirement. Under the program any Maryland regulated firearms dealer who receives a handgun from a manufacturer which was shipped without a shell casing may transport the firearm to a designated test firing location and have a state police representative test fire the handgun. The State Police employee will collect and properly package the shell casing and return the handgun and shell casing to the dealer. There are test firing locations in each county of the state.

The firearms dealer would maintain the shell casing in the package until the handgun is sold, and then forward the shell casing with all necessary information to the State Police Crime Laboratory as currently required. The shell casing will be entered into the Integrated Ballistic Identification System (IBIS).

There is a $20 fee for each handgun tested to partially offset the cost of this program. The MSP has hired six retired law enforcement officers, all with extensive firearms experience, to conduct the testing. The state has been divided into six regions based on geographical location and the number of handgun purchase applications processed from that area during previous years. A state police representative will be assigned to each region to carry out the processing, which will be conducted weekdays from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Maryland regulated firearms dealers will be able to schedule appointments within their regions.

ONCE ON THIS ISLAND is the name of a musical currently in production by Preston County Summer Theatre and being staged at Preston High School in Kingwood, W.Va. The story is set on an island known as the "Jewel of the Antilles," where there is the classic division/bigotry between the wealthy, or Grand Hommes, and the peasants on the other side of the island. As predicted, a peasant girl and a young man of the Grand Hommes meet and fall in love, and the plot centers on their resulting dilemma. In the foreground of the photo above, the peasant girl Ti Moune, played by Leah Broderick, comforts the injured Daniel, portrayed by Ryan Hardesty, while Agwe, the God of Water, creates a storm during a number titled "Rain." Pictured standing, from left, are: Drew Harris, Miriam Sincell, Adam Sincell (Agwe), Katie Dunson, Josh Graham, Jessie Rack, Elizabeth Wotring, and Nick Riggins. The production is under the direction of Lynn Broderick, with choreography by Bryan Corey and music direction by Keith McCarthy. The play opened with a matinee performance yesterday. Additional performances are scheduled for tonight, Friday, and Saturday, July 5-7, at 8 p.m. each evening. Tickets cost $5 each and may be purchased at the door.

Children's Book, Moonlight Miracle, Penned By Former Garrett Resident

A former Mtn. Lake Park resident, Tony Magliano, has penned a children's book, of which 1,700 copies have sold thus far. Titled Moonlight Miracle, the short children's book gives a message of "oneness."

"How do you show very young children that we are all connected by the love of God? This complex idea is explained in easy-to-understand terms in this quiet, graceful picture book," a Paulist Press spokesperson wrote.

The book begins by describing the moon as nature's friend, helping to push the tides, guide turtles and owls, and lighten the night. Then the reader finds that the moon can help create a miracle if all children cup their hands and capture moonbeams. That way they are all connected by the same light, just as they are all connected by God, the spokesperson explained.

Magliano lived in Garrett County from 1982 until 1986, serving most of that time as the director of religious education at St. Peter's Catholic Church. He and his wife Denise have one son, Joseph Patrick, 10.

A conversation with his son some five years ago inspired Magliano to write the book. Christopher Gaul, a writer for The Catholic Review, said the 5-year-old and his father were sitting together on the living room floor of their house one evening and the moonlight was streaming through the windows. The boy suggested that they cup their hands and "let the moonlight rest in them," which they did. "We're holding moonbeams," Magliano told his son. This moment had an impact on Magliano that eventually led to the writing of the book.

Moonlight Miracle was illustrated by a friend of Magliano's, Susan Andrews Brindle. It is available at the Book Mark'et in Oakland, or can be purchased by calling Paulist Press at 1-800-218-1903 or by visiting the web site at www.paulistpress.com. Copies of the book will also be at the Ruth Enlow Library.

The writer is now a pastoral associate in Baltimore. At 48, he has worked many years in religious leadership and has served as a Jesuit volunteer in a leprosy hospital in India. He is also a syndicated columnist for the Catholic News Service. He and his family reside in Cecil County in the town of Rising Sun.

Piano Trio To Perform At Penn Alps

The Mendelssohn Trio, currently the ensemble-in-residence of the Washington, D.C., Embassy Series, will perform Saturday, July 7, at 7:30 p.m., as part of the Music at Penn Alps series in the Great Hall. The program will include works by Saint Saens, Schubert, and Taneyev.

Considered one of the most exciting young ensembles on the national and international music scene, the trio has offered audiences a variety of time-honored classics in appearances throughout the United States and Taiwan. Critics have hailed their skillful melding of classical clarity, elegance, and emotion.

After performing at the National Recital Hall in Taipei, the trio was invited to appear on numerous national radio broadcasts and teach master classes. Recent regional appearances include the Columbia Festival of the Arts, Baltimore Artscape, the Easton, Maryland, Academy of the Arts, and the Pennsylvania Consort's Guest Artists Series.

Formed in 1997 by three graduates of the Peabody Conservatory of Music, the trio's name expresses its members' admiration for the versatility of 19th century composer Felix Mendelssohn. According to the ensemble, their goal is to offer audiences a rich palate of time-honored classics that combine a strong intellectual drive with charm and finesse.

MENDELSSOHN TRIO

Pianist Ya-Ting Chang, an accomplished chamber music musician, won national prominence in her native Taiwan when she won first prize in the 1987 Taiwan National Piano Competition. Since then, she has amassed a wealth of achievements and honors. She has performed extensively throughout the U.S., Germany, Hong Kong, and Taiwan, including a 1996 tour as a concerto soloist with the Hong Kong Chamber Orchestra.

Violinist Peter Pirotin, a graduate of the Moscow State Conservatory, has been a celebrated chamber music performer in Russia and the U.S., having collaborated with a number of notable Russian musicians and the chamber orchestra known as the "Moscow Soloists."

Cellist Fiona Thompson, who replaces original member Igo Zubkovsky, is an active chamber and orchestra musician in the Baltimore-Washington area. The principal cellist with the Annapolis Symphony Orchestra, she also plays with the Baltimore Opera, the Baltimore Chamber Orchestra, Concert Artists of Baltimore, and the Harrisburg Symphony Orchestra. She is a member of the Melos ensemble of Washington and of the Baltimore-based quintet CYGNUS.

This performance is sponsored by Garrett Community College. The audience is invited to a post-concert reception, with refreshments provided by Penn Alps Restaurant.

Music at Penn Alps is sponsored by Sincell Publishing Inc., Penn Alps Restaurant and Crafts Shop, and the support of individuals. Penn Alps is located along Old Route 40 between exits 19 and 22 of Interstate 68.

Purple Grape Juice May Protect Heart

Some physicians recommend wine for their patients who drink alcoholic beverages because of the many studies that have shown this ancient beverage to be good for the heart and blood vessels. Much wine is made from purple grape juice. And there is preliminary research showing that purple grape juice also may be "heart-healthy."

A report in the medical journal Circulation, describes 15 heart disease patients who consumed 2 large glasses of purple grape juice daily for 2 weeks. These patients experienced increased vasodilation, which could be expected to provide more blood to the heart. They also showed less harmful oxidation of LDL cholesterol in the brief study.

Grape juice is very high in sugars and calories. Therefore, drinking large quantities may be undesirable in individuals with diabetes or in persons with weight concerns. Extracts of grape seeds are a calorie-free alternative. Some experts suspect that extracts may provide similar benefits.

Bogart's first solo release, 1990's Out To Get You, captured Best R&B album at a NAIRD event and a Billboard Merit Award for the jazz instrumental that featured guitar legend Danny Gatton. She has since released Crossing Borders and New Address, and has earned 18 Wammies (Washington Area Music Awards) in several categories.

Bogart's most recent release is The Great Unknown, her first CD for the Shanachie label. "The Great Unknown finds Bogart opening new doors," a reviewer wrote. "The disc is steeped in songs of life and love, told with easy-to-relate-to lyrics and Bogart's devil-may-care vocal style. Strong and precise performances are turned in by Bogart on keys and sax, This is a unique blues sound that has outgrown the corner bar and is headed for main street. With this kind of talent developing, The Great Unknown should be a short-lived title for Bogart."

A special concert, featuring both vocal and instrumental music, will be presented at Grantsville Park on Friday, July 13, to benefit the Grantsville Library Project. Performing will be the Garrett Community Concert Band, under the direction of Dr. Jerry McGee, and a chorus of Grantsville area singers who will present the Liberty cantata.

The program will get under way at 7:15 p.m., with the GCC Band performing first. The band membership consists of amateur musicians from all over Garrett County, as well as some from Preston County. The group was founded about two years ago and has performed several concerts. It is affiliated with Garrett Community College.

The Grantsville Lions Club will host/serve a chicken barbecue for the evening, and ice cream will be provided by Allen Miller. There is no admission charge for the concert; however, free-will contributions will be accepted to support the library project.

In the event of rain, the concert will be moved indoors at the Grantsville School.

Abigail Adams (1744-1818) was the wife of one president and mother of another. Her voluminous correspondence provides a detailed portrait of her journey from loyal British subject to ardent revolutionary, from housewife to businesswoman, from Weymouth, Mass., to the White House. Her letters also examine the politics of the time through her associations with figures such as Washington, Jefferson, and Franklin.

Adams is portrayed by Lynda Myer of History Making Productions, a national touring theatre company in Boston dedicated to bringing history alive for contemporary audiences. In addition to Adams, Myer also performs as Sophie Tucker and Amelia Earhart.

Benjamin Banneker (1731-1806) was the first renowned black man of mathematics and science. Born in what is now Ellicott City, Banneker was a landowner, clockmaker, astronomer, and surveyor. In 1791 he received a presidential commission from George Washington to assist in the surveying and layout of the new capital city of Washington, D.C.

Banneker is portrayed by Bill Grimmette, who is a living history interpreter, storyteller, actor, and motivational speaker. He has researched and performed the characters of Estevanico, Augustus Washington, Banneker, Frederick Douglass, and W.E.B. DuBois.

George Washington (1732-1799) was commander of the Continental Army during the American Revolution and was the first president of the United States. Washington is portrayed by William Arthur Sommerfield, who is the artistic director and chief writer for the American Historical Theatre in Philadelphia. He has portrayed George Washington throughout the United States and abroad and holds the honor of being the only interpreter of Washington at Mount Vernon.

Phillis Wheatley (1753-1784) was born in Africa and raised a slave in Boston. Within 16 months of her arrival in America, she had mastered the English language. She won national and international acclaim as a gifted writer of poetry, and when she traveled to London, she was celebrated and entertained by English nobility.

Wheatley is portrayed by Dorothy Mains Prince, who is the founder of Sojourns, an enterprise that brings the stories of outstanding African-American women alive through teaching and performance. In addition to Wheatley, she also performs as Ida B. Wells Barnett, Mary McLeod Bethune, and Zora Neale Hurston.

A. I. - ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 2:25 - Released 6/29/01

It is an age old question that has bothered science fiction writers for generations: If computer technology progresses to the point that machines can think for themselves, as it surely will someday, then at what point do they begin to have a consciousness? And, following that, to what extent do we owe them respect as sentient beings? Can they feel? Can they love? Can they dream? The issue has been addressed on TV shows like Star Trek (Cmdr. Data went through it many times), and also in movies like 1999's Bicentennial Man and Stanley Kubrick's classic 2001: A Space Odyssey. Now, in the real year 2001, another Kubrick story, A.I., reaches the screens and offers a beautiful, thought-provoking, and altogether unsettling view of the subject.

Directed by Steven Speilberg (his first feature film in 3 years, since 1998's Oscar-winning Saving Private Ryan), the movie arises from a concept developed by the late writer/director Kubrick, who apparently spoke at length about the project with Speilberg before his death in 1999. Based on the 1969 short story Super-Toys Last All Summer Long by Brian Aldiss, and adapted for the screen by Spielberg and Ian Watson, the film is at once emotionally cold and deeply touching, provoking questions upon questions upon questions about the future of our global population and its cybernetic progeny. The subject matter may be as old as science fiction itself, but the product is as thoroughly engrossing a conversation piece as any of Spielberg's recent films, offering 13-year-old actor Haley Joel Osment a long-awaited opportunity to shake his oft-mentioned association with The Sixth Sense. From now on, Osment will be "the kid from A.I."

Osment plays David, the prototype model of a new type of "mecha" (short for mechanical) being developed by Prof. Hobby (William Hurt), the C.E.O of the Cybertronics company of the distant future. After supplying the human population for years with helpful but unfeeling android assistants, Hobby dreams of a product equipped with something no other mecha has ever had: the ability to love. Unfortunately, David's introduction into a family environment proves abortive, as his interpretation of the phrase "I love you, Mommy" is identical to his reading of "I see dead people." But since his mother (Frances O'Connor) can't bring herself to destroy him, he is simply sent off into the world to make his own way. Familiar with the story of Pinocchio, he is convinced that if he can find the blue fairy, she will turn him into a real boy and he will finally win his mother's love. You see, the trouble with an android programmed to be forever 8 years old is that although he can remember stuff that happened to him 500 years ago, he can't grasp the notion that blue fairies don't exist. I had an uncle like that.

Along his multi-millennial quest, accompanied by his trusty cyber Teddy bear (voice of Jack Angel), David meets a mecha gigolo named Joe (Jude Law), consults a possible descendant of the Internet (voice of Robin Williams), and witnesses some of the inevitable repercussions of a society where androids become as populous as humans in an overcrowded and emotionally sterile world.

In Spielberg's nearly 2½-hour visualization of Kubrick's idea, we are treated to some amazing sights and concepts, all of them intriguing and most extremely creepy. Despite its PG-13 rating and the presence of Osment in the leading role, this isn't by any means a "kid movie." In a strange mix of innocence and sinister surrealism, one sees shades of Pinocchio, Schindler's List, The Wizard Of Oz, and every Kubrick movie ever made. Osment's transformation from borg to boy is fascinating; it is unclear whether his lack of warmth despite the presence of tears and other outward emotional appearances is by design or simply a lucky accident. Frankly, I never thought he seemed much like a "real boy" in The Sixth Sense or Pay It Forward, either. Law is as well-groomed and unemotional as any flesh-and-blood gigolo would be; his ability to change hair color and accent is even more impressive. Finally, O'Connor's characterization of David's emotionally confused mother is either overcomplicated or undernourished. Perhaps she felt the ghostly hand of Kubrick on her shoulder, urging her to be cold and impersonal; perhaps Speilberg felt that hand. Coldness and impersonality pervade this movie throughout; maybe it's the natural result of humans imagining a post-human society. Whatever the reason, A.I. is an apt tribute to Kubrick, blending a fascinating subject with unsettling imagery. ★★★★½

Rated R - Running Time: 1:35 - Released 7/4/01

Although the tagline for Keenen Ivory Wayans's 2000 horror spoof Scary Movie was "No mercy - No shame - No sequel," that film's considerable profits (which more than doubled its expeditures in its opening weekend last July and continued in force through November) have necessitated the inevitable result: Scary Movie 2, whose tagline is "We lied." Containing much of the same type of foolishness present in its predecessor, SM2 re-convenes some the previous film's creative team (the Wayans brothers plus some other writers) and some of its cast (the characters who lived through the first film), again providing spoof scenes of the most memorable horror/thriller films that have occurred in the past year, like What Lies Beneath, Hannibal, Charlie's Angels, and even The Exorcist, following that 1973 film's 2000 re-release. Perhaps because it concentrates more on actual horror spoof and less on bodily fluids, this film edges out SM1, if only slightly, in comedic impact and successful parody. That's not to say it's a particularly good film, of course; the humor still doesn't provoke more than a few guilty chuckles, but I have no doubt that it will keep Wayans and company in the black (no pun intended) for the foreseeable future.

Taking its setting from 1999's The Haunting, SM2 places sweet young thing Cindy Campbell (Anna Faris), her lustful boyfriend Buddy (Malcolm In The Middle's Christopher Masterson), and friends Shorty (Marlon Wayans), Ray (Shawn Wayans), and Alex (Tori Spelling), among others, in a haunted house under the pretense of a psychological sleep study instigated by their college professor (Tim Curry), who really just wants to make it with some of his female students. The house's sole living resident is its caretaker, Hanson (Chris Elliott), whose terribly disfigured hand causes horror all around, especially when he uses it to prepare food. While staying at the creepy mansion, Cindy discovers that she bears a remarkable resemblance to the house's former matron, who killed her husband and his mistress in a jealous rage.

It soon becomes clear that the husband's ghost still inhabits the place, and upon seeing Cindy, decides to take revenge. (Spelling's character, Alex, who resembles the ghost's sexy mistress, gets a different treatment.) Meanwhile, the house is also apparently haunted by a girl who at one time spun her head around, spoke with the voice of the devil, and spat pea soup, as evidenced by a long Exorcist spoof (starring James Woods as the lustful title character and Natasha Lyonne as the possessed girl) at the film's start.

The best thing one can say about this movie is that it provides reasonably serviceable entertainment for its 18-to-25-year-old market audience. Basically just a bunch of silly spoof scenes cobbled together around a thin premise, it allows the Wayans brothers to have fun in the way a group of kids might have fun with a video camcorder, except with a multi-million-dollar budget. It doesn't represent great vision on the part of its writers or its director, nor does it contain the kind of biting satire one finds in more intelligent comedies. It simply represents a rather sophomoric but lighthearted view of the latest horror movies, and a mercenary viewpoint on how to make money from them. ★★★½

SHOWING OFF THE SNIFFER, Garrett County Sheriff's Office K-9 partners Hanno the German shepherd and Deputy Jeff Green demonstrate the drug detection dog's ability to locate drugs in a school hallway to kick off the third annual Confidence-Building Summer Program of Garrett County Mental Health Services. The drug dog demonstration was designed to underscore the consequences of making poor choices to the participants, who are taking part in a modified version of the GCSO's Reality program under the supervision of Cpt. Larry Gnegy. The Confidence-Building Program battles low self-esteem, which can lead to poor academic performance, delinquency, drug use, poor family and peer relationships, increased anger and aggression, and even suicide if not addressed. Daily life and social skills are practiced through therapeutic team-building activities and play, as cooperation, coping skills, and trust are reinforced. "When a child's self-esteem can be raised, even a little, the lasting benefits are too great to measure," said program coordinator Sherry O'Shell, LCSW-C, a therapist with Mental Health Services. A Hungarian immigrant, Hanno responds to Green's commands given in his mother tongue (Hungarian, not dog), and his nose, which is nearly 50 times more sensitive than a human's, is trained to seek out marijuana, methamphetamine, cocaine, and heroin.

MSP K-9 Team Attends Annual Safe Night Out

Those attending the third annual Safe Night Out recently were given the opportunity to meet the K-9 team, Corporal Doug Lowry and his bloodhound Joey, from the Maryland State Police, Barrack O, Hagerstown.

This event was sponsored by the Governor's Office on Crime Control and Prevention. The program was a coordinated effort of the Maryland State Police, Grantsville Lions Club, Garrett County State's Attorney's Office, Division of Parole and Probation, Garrett County Health Department, local businesses, and Garrett County Community Action.

Patty Durst and Dee Fazenbaker, parent volunteers, coordinated the games and door prizes from local businesses. The Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad and Grantsville fire department had units there for viewing and to answer questions.

Diane Lee, Garrett County highway safety coordinator and Trooper First Class Brent Bond, conducted child safety seat inspections throughout the evening. Trooper Robert Sharp gave a demonstration with the fatal vision goggles. Members of the World Lighthouse provided face painting, Brenda Frazee of the health department distributed literature on tobacco awareness, and Brenda LeMay distributed literature on domestic violence.

Bike safety inspections were conducted, and free bike helmets were given away. DJ Scott Beitzel provided the music for the evening.

There were many contests and the winners were Alyson McKenzie, bubble gum blowing; Amanda Beitzel, hula hoop contest; Cyndi Jordan, guess the candy jar; Alyson McKenzie, egg on a spoon relay; Jenna McClintock, red light, green light game; and Jason Warnick, the limbo.

LESS WORK FOR YOUR DENTIST

The philosophy of dentists today is to make you work harder at keeping gums and teeth healthy so that there is less work to do when you come to him for your check-up. Today, your dentist takes the time to talk to you about how best to take care of your mouth, with brushing, flossing, massaging and rinsing.

We carry a great many dental health products in our pharmacy that can help to put into practice what your dentist is asking you to do. And, our personnel are trained to answer your questions about any of these products.

The Guardian Angel of Freedom

Lady Liberty stands proudly, with a welcoming arm outstretched to the poor and the oppressed, ready to guide them with her torch into the harbor of freedom...the United States of America.

For decade upon decade, the Statue of Liberty has become the symbol of hope for those who have chosen to make their home in this great country of ours...the perfect representation of unconditional acceptance. She stands through the storms, frigid winter winds, and the millions of tourists who make the vertical climb into her crown.

As we prepare to celebrate another Independence Day, may we examine our spirits. Do we reflect the light of our Creator to those who approach us daily? Do we welcome others with open hearts, even when the storms of daily life take their toll?

Enter the haven of God's house this Sabbath. He waits there to receive us with the light of His unconditional love.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

GOD, WHAT DO YOU WANT

July 8, 2001

Background Scripture: Amos 4 Through 5.
Devotional Read: Malachi 1:6-14

How the people of Israel look forward to The Day of the Lord, the time when God would smite all their enemies and make Israel prominent among the nations. They saw it as a time of recognition and reward and they could hardly wait. It would mean vindication for them and judgment for others. If that's the deal, who wouldn't want it?

But Amos told the people of Israel that was not the deal. The judgment they so desired for other nations would fall upon them as well. "Woe to you who desire the day of the Lord! Why would you have the day of the Lord? It is darkness, and not light" (5:18). It is bad, not good news. For, like their neighbors, they too will be judged by God and the results of it will be disastrous.

But how can that be? They are such dutiful Israelites. They bring their sacrifices to the temple every morning. Wow! Every three days they bring tithes. Wow again! They also cough up free-will offerings. Wow to the third power! So, why shouldn't they eagerly anticipate the day of the Lord? God, what do you want from us?

Unanswered Messages

It's not that God hasn't warned them. God has been sending them messages which they haven't heeded. "cleanness of teeth in all your cities" (food has been in short supply), rain has been withheld, spoiling the harvest. He also sent blight, mildew and devastated their gardens, fig and olive trees. He sent them pestilence, political upheaval and military losses. But they ignored all these signs: "Therefore thus I will do to you, O Israel, prepare to meet your God, O Israel!" (4:12). And don't think that your rituals and financial support at the temple are going to get you off the hook. In fact, "The Lord God has sworn by his holiness that, behold, the days are coming upon you, when they shall take you away with hooks, even the last of you with fishhooks" (4:2).

God's judgment will not be a slap on the wrist: "The city that went forth a thousand shall have a hundred left, and that which went forth a hundred shall have ten left to the house of Israel" (5:3). This will happen, not because they haven't come frequently enough to the temple nor given enough in their offerings, but because of the way they treat others: "Therefore because you trample upon the poor and take from him exactions of wheat, you have built houses of hewn stone, but you shall not dwell in them; you have planted pleasant vineyards, but you shall not drink their wine" (5:11).

What They Lacked

The people of Israel—at least the upper class—have power and wealth. What they do not have is God's approval: "For I know how many are your transgressions, and how great are your sins—you who afflict the righteous, who take a bribe, and turn aside the needy in the gate" (5:12). Religious rituals will not do it. "I hate, I despise your feasts, and I take no delight in your solemn assemblies" (But Lord, that's what we thought it was all about!) "Even though you offer me your burnt offerings and cereal offerings, I will not accept them." "Take away from me the noise of your songs, to the melody of your harps I will not listen" (5:21-23).

So, if their power and wealth will not save them, what will? God, what do you want from us? The reply of Amos is unambiguous: "But let justice roll down like waters, and righteousness like an ever-flowing stream" (5:24). In other words, what God really wants is for them to stop ignoring the plight of the poor, to cease exploiting the weak, to refrain from cheating the powerless and to end their corruption of justice.

So, what about feasts, solemn assemblies, tithes and offerings? They are only the icing on the cake. Render justice and compassion and then your rituals and offerings will be pleasing in God's sight. But NOT before!

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

James W. Murphy has been promoted in the U.S. Air Force to the rank of master sergeant.

Murphy is a radio maintenance superintendent assigned to the 3rd Communications Squadron at Elmendorf Air Force Base, Anchorage, Alaska.

He is the son of James and Betty Murphy, Crellin Underwood Road, Oakland, and is a 1980 graduate of Southern Garrett High School.

U.S. Marine Corps 2nd Lt. Stephenie A. Gosnell, daughter of Margaret E. and Charles W. Gosnell, Accident, recently graduated from the United States Naval Academy in Annapolis and was commissioned to her current rank in the United States Navy.

Gosnell successfully completed four years of intensive academic, physical, and professional training, resulting in a bachelor of science degree with a major in political science. As a graduate of the Naval Academy, Gosnell completed a four-year, total-immersion program where in a strong, balanced academic program focused on the educational needs of the Navy and Marine Corps is superimposed on a strict, professional military training environment emphasizing the development of leadership skills.

Gosnell participated in a character development program during her four years at the school. The program includes such issues as ethics, honor, integrity, and human dignity.

In the summer, midshipmen continue their preparation by serving aboard ships and at shore stations around the world.

Considered one of the top institutions in the country, the U.S. Naval Academy was founded in 1845. The Naval Academy has graduated more than 60,000 men and women. Its graduates have included 4,000 admirals and generals, one president, 200 members of Congress, three governors, 73 Medal of Honor winners, one Nobel Prize winner, and 40 astronauts.

The Naval Academy currently has more than 4,000 students who comprise the Brigade of Midshipmen, and who come from every state in the union.

Gosnell is a 1997 graduate of Northern Garrett High School.

Garrett County Chamber of Commerce UPDATE

The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce board of directors held its wrap-up meeting for the current fiscal year on June 21, chaired by board chairman Jerry Geisler. Treasurer Jim Murray reported on the budget for the concluding fiscal year, noting that the chamber budget is moving toward balancing from a large deficit position at the start of the year.

Jonathan "Smiley" Kessler reported that the recreational pathways committee had progressed in its task. He thanked the Garrett County commissioners for approving $70,000 in Program Open Space funding, and said he hopes to match this with an Appalachian Regional Commission grant and additional funds from other sources. He also said the committee would be approaching local businesses for support. Engineers are being sought to plot the first leg of the trail that would go from Deep Creek Lake State Park to the Wisp Resort, Kessler said.

Chamber president Ken Wishnick reviewed progress made during the preceding fiscal year. "It's been an extraordinary year. We added 80 new members, bringing the membership to nearly 500; tourism growth is again in the double digits; we started the year with a $56,000 deficit and will end with a balanced budget; and our community relations work is resulting in a great public image for the chamber," he stated.

Wishnick also reported that state tourism director Hannah Byron, guest speaker at the chamber's annual dinner, will bring her executive staff here for a two-day orientation. A variety of activities is being planned that will showcase the county's visitor attractions. In addition, he told board members that the Mason-Dixon Travel Writers Association will meet in Garrett County October 5-6. "There will be 40-50 travel writers here from a multi-state area. This group can bring us phenomenal free publicity if they enjoy their experiences here," he said.

The following new chamber members were approved: Brenda's Pizzeria and Trader's Coffee House, Brenda McDonnell; Garrett County Department of Social Services; Alpine Village Motel, Lawton and Beverly Taylor; the Loar Auxiliary Gift Shop of Garrett County Memorial Hospital; Kinnardesign, Tom Kinnard; Marvin's Men's Wear, Blair Glass; Rand Bankcard Services Inc.; Buddy's Towing, James Tasker; Apehangers, Patrick Cessna; Woodland Zoo, Sonny and Jill Herring; Annie's Kitchen, Lisa Fratz-Bonar; Gordon-Roberts (History) House; Al & Ev's Timber Trails Lodge, Evelyn C. Orsini; Shaffer Tours & Charters, Randy and Sheila Shaffer; and Sharon Hamilton, agent, Long & Foster.

After concluding business, the board adjourned and reconvened, seating the newly elected board members and electing officers for fiscal year 2002. The following were selected unanimously: Jonathan "Smilie" Kessler, chairman; Jerry Geisler, first vice chairman; Leonard Eiswert, second vice chair; Jim Murray, treasurer; and Karen Myers, secretary.

The board also agreed to create two new task forces. An on-line reservations task force will evaluate potential services, and a realty task force will work on issues unique to area real estate companies.

The next meeting of the board of directors will be held Thursday, July 19, at 8 a.m. at the Visitors Center and, as always, is open to all chamber members.

Sherry Stringfield returning to ER

By Taylor Michaels
©TVData Features Syndicate

Sherry Stringfield

Q: Aaaugh! I was watching an entertainment show and got interrupted just after they said, "Coming up next: A beloved star returns to ER!" I never heard who it was, and in the weeks since, I have heard nothing. Who is it? –Marcy J., Flint, Mich.

A: It's none other than Sherry Stringfield, who recently signed to return to the NBC hit as Dr. Susan Lewis, the role she abandoned in 1996. It's not just a brief guest appearance, either. Stringfield has signed for three years.

Q: The last episode of JAG I saw this past season was supposed to be Part 1 of 2. Did I miss the second part on another night, or do we have to wait until fall to see the conclusion? –Joe Noll, Lebanon, Pa.

A: Judging from my bulging mailbag, the producers of JAG confused a lot of fans by designating their season finale as "Part 1." That episode was a classic cliffhanger, and yes, I'm afraid you'll have to wait until the show returns this fall to see how everything turns out.

Q: I'm a huge fan of Dark Angel star Jessica Alba. Is she seeing anyone these days? –Sandra R. in Clio, Mich.

A: Is she ever! Alba, 20, recently became engaged to her Dark Angel co-star Michael Weatherly.

Q: Who played Tommy, Dr. Donald Westphall's autistic son, on St. Elsewhere? –Chris from Dumont, N.J.

A: Chad Allen, who later was a regular on Dr. Quinn, Medicine Woman.

Q: Did Robert Stack (Unsolved Mysteries) play a role in the '70s TV series S.W.A.T.? –Joe Roach, French Lick, Ind.

A: No, Steve Forrest, Roger Perry and Robert Urich starred in S.W.A.T., a 1975-76 police drama on ABC. Stack starred as Capt. Linc Evers in Most Wanted, a similarly themed 1976-77 police drama, and as Capt. Frank Murphy in Strike Force, a 1981-82 series. Both the latter shows also aired on ABC.

Q: Is Michael Madsen (Vengeance Unlimited) related to Virginia Madsen? They both starred in The Florentine, which was filmed here in our town. –Deb Faust, Easton, Pa.

A: Yes, they're brother and sister.

BULL*-ETIN: While a TNT publicist reports that nothing definite has been announced, rumors persist that a second season of the cable channel's Wall Street drama Bull will not be happening after all. The reason? The current real-life jitters in the stock market make the show's premise (young Turks wheeling and dealing) seem far-fetched these days.

TNT sent out a cassette of the second season premiere to critics last winter, then followed with word that the show was postponed. It has not been rescheduled.

GCC Grantsville Center Sets Fall Class Schedule

Residents of Grantsville and the surrounding area will have Garrett Community College courses available close to home beginning in September when four credit courses and three non-credit courses get under way at the Grantsville Outreach Center, located along Hershberger Lane. Credit courses are all scheduled in the evenings for the convenience of employed adults and high school students. It will be possible for a person to take 12 credits during the semester and be a full-time student, according to center coordinator Terry Beachy.

Students may register for these courses now at the GCC main campus in McHenry. CONSORTIUM BIDS FAREWELL — Western Maryland Consortium employees Albert Whitmer and Robin Shaffer were honored recently during a luncheon at Uno's restaurant as they prepare to depart the agency. Whitmer is retiring as an eligibility assessment analyst after 26 years with the Consortium. He was saluted by executive director Peter Thomas, who said, "Whitmer's retirement ends many dedicated years of service to the Consortium and the community." Whitmer plans to enjoy his retirement by traveling with his wife Shirley, who retired from the Garrett County Board of Education two years ago, and by remaining active in his church, through volunteer work, and his tennis game. Thomas also recognized the 16 years of service by Shaffer, who is leaving her position as a youth counselor to become the training coordinator of the Region 7 Workforce Investment Board in Petersburg, W.Va. Pictured from the left are Shaffer, Thomas, Whitmer, and M. Sue Shockey, supervisor of the Garrett County office of the Western Maryland Consortium.

Maryland Classified Employees Association

If you are enrolled in the State of Maryland Vision Care Plan, MCEA members can enjoy additional benefits through their membership. Visit United Optical and receive an examination, lenses, and selected frames at the same low rates as indicated in the state fee schedule. Tinting on your plastic lenses or eyeglass guarantee also available at no cost. Members who are not enrolled in the state plan will receive a 20 percent discount. There are no premiums for these added benefits.

Additionally, our managed dental plans have no deductible, no claim or pre-authorization forms, and no maximum level of benefits — definitely something to smile about. Employees can choose from hundreds of participating dentists in the Maryland, D.C., and Virginia areas for their dental care.

The high option plan features no charge for fillings, cleanings every 6 months, X-rays and simple extractions at an affordable cost. The low option provides significant 50 to 60% savings on dental treatments, with no cost for fluoride treatment and exams. Drastically reduced fees on crowns, root canals, dentures, orthodontics, and other services. No matter which plan you choose, the MCEA Dental Plan premiums are lower than the state's.

MCEA is the union representing public employees of the State of Maryland. For membership information and a list of benefits available only through MCEA, call Mrs. Pam Beeman-Albright at the Cumberland MCEA office at 1-888-614-6232 or 301-724-8770.

MCEA news was submitted by local Chapter 76 officer Alice Vitez-Sisler.

HISTORY COMES ALIVE ON WAGON TRAIN — The Appalachian Wagon Train traveled through the northwestern corner of Garrett County recently, from its starting point near Friendsville on into western Pennsylvania. The annual five-day living history excursion drew 38 Conestoga covered wagons, 12 horsedrawn buggies, and approximately 50 horseback riders who traveled area backroads and camped out each night to raise awareness of the historical sights and pioneers' lives in this region. These photos give a feel for what it must have been like for a pioneer family member riding inside one of the wagons, although the train's ride along modern Friendsville Road was no doubt much smoother than wagon rides of the 19th century. Pictured at the left from a vantage point at the rear of a wagon is horseback rider Jamie Doyle of Meyersdale, Pa., with a line of wagons snaking up and over the hill behind him. Shown above are Nancy and Bill Mills (from the back) of Vanderbilt, Pa., as they guide their two-horse team behind another wagon. More information on the Appalachian Wagon Train, which is open to all participants each year, is available on the Internet at www.wpa.net/~jvaughn.

Endowment Fund Is Reviewed By Library Friends

The board of the Friends of the Ruth Enlow Library has been reviewing its endowment fund for the past few months. At its meeting on June 20, the board appointed David Upole, an investment counselor with PrimeVest, a financial consulting group working in partnership with the First United National Bank and Trust, as its financial consultant.

The Friends group has both operating and endowment funds under its care, and Upole has assisted in this current review. He has made several recommendations to insure the safety and continued growth of the Friends' funds. Upole commended the group on its investment strategies and suggested ways in which to put into place a more diversified portfolio.

The Friends of the Ruth Enlow Library adopted a new endowment policy at the May meeting and have been working to update the investments and the accounting procedures for this fund. The Friends board reminds Garrett County citizens that a contribution to the Friends of the Ruth Enlow Library Endowment Fund is "a thoughtful way to honor the memory of a beloved relative, friend, teacher, or mentor." It was a gift given 50 years ago in memory of Ruth Enlow which made this library possible.

Anyone wishing further information about the endowment fund may contact the Friends treasurer, Cosette Harman, at 301-334-4018.

Retired Capitol Hill Phone Expert Joins GCC Staff

Garrett Community College's new voice systems administrator is Judy Burnsworth, who recently retired from her position as team manager for AT&T on Capitol Hill, where she managed over 22,000 phones.

In her new GCC position Burnsworth will oversee the changeover of the college phone system to a PBX that will provide a more economical service and an improved voice mail system. The changeover is set to take place at 7 a.m. Wednesday, July 18. In addition to supervising the changing and programming of new phones, Burnsworth will teach classes for GCC administrators and staff on the use of the new system, telephone etiquette, and improved voice mail messages.

Burnsworth set up the office she where was employed on Capitol Hill for 17 years managing the U.S. Government Legislative Module of Lucent Technologies for both houses of Congress and the phones of congressmen throughout the United States. The working environment was "exciting and fun," she said. "Whenever anything critical happened, I had to make sure the phone systems worked." She noted that every two years following an election 5,000 telephone sets were moved within a three week period.

Burnsworth moved to Garrett County after her retirement, and said she is thriving in the less stressful environment. "I enjoy the people here," she said. "Moving here brings the tranquility my life needed. It seems that you can take the girl out of the hills, but you can't take the hills out of the girl," the Fairmont, W.Va., native commented.

Burnsworth began working for AT&T in Charleston, W.Va., before moving to Washington. She has taken courses at Anne Arundel Community College, West Virginia University, and Penn State University, and plans to continue studying for a bachelor of arts degree in business administration with an emphasis in marketing. She has won several awards for outstanding teamwork and accomplishments in marketing.

Strange BUT TRUE
By Samantha Weaver

• Global warming is becoming more and more of a hot topic these days (if you'll forgive the pun). It's been calculated that if the ice floes of Antarctica were to melt, the ocean level would rise by 240 feet, submerging a quarter of the world's landmass. Bye-bye, sunny Florida. And the Netherlands. And most of Louisiana, and the Caribbean islands, and parts of Southeast Asia.

• The name of every continent begins with the same letter with which it ends — and they're all vowels: AfricA, AmericA, AntarcticA, AsiA, AustraliA, EuropE.

• When listing the largest cities in the United States, most people don't immediately think of Jacksonville, Fla. In terms of area, however, it is larger than any other city; it takes up 460 square miles. That's almost twice the area of Los Angeles.

• If you had $265 in 1924, you could buy a new car.

• The most common cause of death in the world is hypoxemia. Technically, it's the only cause of death — every single man, woman and child has died from it. Hypoxemia is the term that describes a lack of adequate oxygen to the tissues of the body. After the heart stops beating — no matter why it stops — the body no longer gets a supply of oxygen. Death ensues shortly thereafter.

• St. Nicholas — also known as Santa Claus — is the patron saint of pawnbrokers and helpless virgins.

• Baseball umpires of the early 19th century had it easier than do umpires today. Before 1859, they sat in a padded rocking chair behind the catcher.

Q. As a child, I lived in Illinois. We had milk delivered in a cream-top bottle. I told this to a younger friend who collects dairy bottles. He has never seen one and wants to know more.

A. Cream-top bottles were popular in the 1930s. Milk was not homogenized in those days, and the cream would separate from the milk and rise to the top of the bottle. The cream top was made with a bulge at the top for the cream. A special small ladle was used to remove the cream from the bottle. The tops were formed in many shapes. There was "cop the top," a molded man's head with the suggestion of a hat; "toothache," a top with a strange extra bulge; "baby face," which looked like a baby; and others. They now sell for about $35 and up.

Q. I can't find any information about a 9-inch-high revolving brass spool-holder that I bought in 1967. I paid $10 for it at an antiques shop in St. Louis. It holds 24 spools of thread on two tiers. The base has four decorative paw feet. A large, round pincushion sits in a cup at the top.

A. Your carousel spool-holder is also called a reel- or thread-holder. It is a favorite of collectors of sewing tools and equipment. The design originated in England during Victorian times. Spool-holders continued to be made through the first decades of the 20th century. Your spool-holder is worth at least 10 times what you paid for it.

Is Dog Ready to Jog?

Q. I recently adopted a beautiful black Lab. He's 5 months old and extremely playful, but is he strong enough to go jogging with me?

A. Congratulations! You certainly picked the right breed for long jogs. Labs, golden retrievers, Springer spaniels, border collies and Australian shepherds are all built for energetic activity, and when full-grown they can give you a run for your money.

Since you plan to take him jogging, introduce him to the sport gradually — just like any human runner. Try taking him out for a quarter-mile run for a few months, then taking him home and continuing with your own run. As he grows and gets used to running on a lead, extend the run.

Don't run any farther with your dog than you are willing to carry him. When a dog gets tired, he or she will simply sit down and refuse to budge. A puppy may be easy to carry back home, but with an older dog, that's a long haul.

So let your puppy's bones and muscles develop, and make sure he gets the right amount of nutrition. Allow him plenty of off-the-leash playtime so that he doesn't get bored with the daily run. And since he'll be out with you on the streets, make sure he is socialized — although most Labs are naturally social. Take him to play with a friend's dog.

In time, you'll have a wonderful running companion.

Man Arrested After Fleeing Police On Foot

Garrett County sheriff's deputies arrested a Gormania, W.Va., man Friday morning after he fled on foot from a construction site in the Glen Cove area when deputies arrived to issue an arrest warrant.

Ronald Edward Crosby was apprehended after a search which lasted more than one hour. The sheriff's office was assisted in the search by the Maryland State Police, Natural Resource Police and Rangers, and the sheriff's office bloodhound Jonathan.

He is was released from the Garrett County Detention Center on a $1,000 bond.

A Deer Park man was injured on Friday around 12:30 a.m. when two vehicles collided, resulting from traveling at a high rate of speed along Steiding Church Road, according to the police.

Kenneth J. Murphy, Deer Park, lost control of his 1995 Ford F-150 and went sideways in the road. Timothy A. Wotring, Oakland, was unable to avoid a collision and struck the Murphy vehicle in the side, police said.

Wotring, who was also driving a Ford F-150, refused medical treatment. Murphy was taken by private vehicle to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where he was treated and released.

Wotring and Murphy were both charged with driving while intoxicated and negligent driving.

As the result of a separate early morning accident on Saturday, Carl Lester Knotts faces numerous charges after his 1994 Pontiac Sunbird traveled off Underwood Road and crashed through several mailboxes, coming to rest in a ditch.

According to police, the driver then left the scene on foot without notifying police or property owners of damage.

Knotts was arrested and charged with negligent driving, failing to notify police of an accident, and failing to notify property owners of damage.

LOCH LYNN

The council meeting was held Monday, July 2.

• Susan Parsons, treasurer, reported on the status of water turn-off due to unpaid sewer/garbage fees for the January-March through October-December 2000 quarters. Nineteen fees were collected, and five residents had their water turned off until obligations were met. The turn-off policy is a county policy. The council voted to immediately begin the process of turning over the collection of sewer/garbage fees to the Garrett County Sanitary District. Several towns are utilizing this option. Citizens will receive more information with the July sewer bill and town newsletter.

• President of Community Action Duane Yoder presented information to the council of a program through his office whereby local towns may work together to acquire funding from the Community Legacy Fund, a state grant. The council voted to participate in the Municipal Assistance Program. There are no additional costs to towns other than their annual fee to the Tri-County Council Circuit Rider Program.

• The council renewed the rental leases with Community Action for the use of the Loch Lynn Community Center (former school) for another year. The After-School Program for the youth of Loch Lynn and surrounding communities operates year-round.

• The Oakland Girls' Little League softball teams completed their first season on the two Loch Lynn ball fields on June 30. Plans are proceeding to erect a concession stand, bathrooms, dugouts, and backstops. The Youth Soccer teams will begin using the three soccer fields in 2002. Funding for these projects are made possible by POS funding and local donations.

• Dick Furst, LGIT Risk Management director, visited recently and made recommendations to improve safety at town facilities. Mayor Friend and Vaughn Sweitzer are working together to meet these requirements of the insurance company.

• The Tri-County Council Circuit Rider Program has been utilized since early this year. Wendell Keaton provides invaluable services regarding state and local laws and charter requirements to seven municipalities. The council voted to continue his service.

• Bids are being sought for an auditor for the 2001-2002 fiscal year. A firm will be named after the August 6 council meeting.

• Mayor Friend reported that many citizens have concerns about their inability to reach someone at the town hall. Farm Editor Bernice Kepple Retires From 15-Year Post

by Mary Sincell McEwen

For the first time in 15 years, today's farm pages in The Republican have not been edited by Bernice Kepple. She retired last week from the newspaper office after nearly 17 years of being part of the publishing team. Her tenure at the paper was not something she had planned for her life, having applied for the job nearly under duress from two friends.

"I needed to get a job because Howard had been laid off," Bernice said, speaking of her husband. "I went around town putting applications in everywhere, but never considered the newspaper since I had no experience with that."

But friends Craig Phillips and Carol Canan, then employees of the paper, convinced her that she should apply. "Carol was leaving and she was a writer," Bernice said. "They needed another one. I told her I had no writing experience, but she insisted that I did."

Bernice knew Carol through the Kepple children's involvement in the 4-H organization, for which Bernice had written a number of articles and stories, in addition to a lengthy letter that was published in the national 4-H magazine. Carol reminded her of that, and when she applied for the job (after being nearly dragged into the interview by Craig and Carol), she brought her scrapbook of writings with her.

"I knew she didn't have a whole lot of writing experience, but I also knew that her kids were highly successful in school and that she was a hard worker," said Don Sincell, editor of The Republican. "Those things say a lot and were enough for me to hire her."

So Bernice began her tenure in October 1984. Although nervous and unsure of her ability, she had the support of Sincell and the staff.

"I was hired close to Halloween, and I remember Don handing me a picture of some kids picking pumpkins. He said he needed a front page cutline for it, and I was stunned. I didn't realize I would have to write things like that! But I did it, and it was fine," she said.

Over the first several months of her new job, Bernice became more comfortable with writing and covered a number of beats (regular issues/items). The only farm-related one was the conservation service news, but farm questions in the news room were regularly passed on to her since she had been reared on a farm and lived on one here in Garrett County. When she began writing features, they were almost always about farming. The paper at that time had a regular column titled "Farming in Maryland," and Sincell often grouped farm news items together on the same page. There was no official farm section, however.

Some time in that first year, Bernice suggested that she become the farm editor to manage the numerous farming articles and stories, and to add a Garrett County flavor to it. Sincell was hesitant, she said, because he wasn't sure very many farmers were interested in reading The Republican. In the fall of 1985, the editor went to the Farm Bureau Banquet at the Grantsville fire hall. Over 300 people were in attendance that year, Bernice said, and a bureau representative from downstate made mention of the newspaper. It became apparent that the local newspaper was indeed important to the many farming families in the county.

"We also found out that Frederick County was the only county in Maryland where the local newspaper had a farm section," Bernice said. "I thought, 'We can do that, too.'" So the farm section of The Republican was launched in the autumn of 1985. It became a popular part of the paper, sometimes controversial, sometimes poignant, presenting both the triumph and the plight of the American/-Garrett County farmer.

Getting to know the people she interviewed over the years was her favorite aspect of the job, Bernice said. "I got to do stories on things that don't exist anymore, like the Tableland Dairy. And I got to know so many great people of all walks of life."

COMPLAINING WASN'T HER STYLE — Although nearly completely confined to a wheelchair for the last three years of her tenure at The Republican newspaper, Bernice Kepple, former farm editor, scarcely complained about her physical challenges. She adapted quickly to wheeling around the office, so much so that co-workers forgot she was any different from anyone else. Now she will embark on a new adventure away from the paper, with the next turn in her life most likely bringing her to a new and interesting place, where she will once again dig in and make things work.

Her job sent her in unexpected directions. While interviewing Paul Petersheim about his changing perspective on dairy farming, she and her husband agreed to buy his herd. So in 1986, the Kepples became a dairy family, milking about 14 of the 40 jerseys every day.

"I'd milk in the morning, go to work all day, and then milk in the evening," she said.

Bernice continued to explore the craft of writing, creating opinion columns and essays. She decided she would like to write some stories about her grandparents and other ancestors for her three children, Cristine, Mike, and Tim. This plan, in time, came to fruition in the form of a published book, Treasured Memories of My Grandma, copyright 1995.

"I would have never accomplished that had I not worked at the paper," she said. The book remains available at Proudfoot's and Gregg's pharmacies, or from Bernice.

But before the book was published, Bernice faced the toughest challenge of her life. In late 1988, she began feeling inexplicably fatigued. Her coordination seemed off and her strength evaporated. She came to the conclusion that sitting in front of a computer all day was not good for her, and opted to leave the paper in January of 1989. She would work full time on the dairy farm. The editor presented an idea to her, however, suggesting that she take an office computer home with her and do the farm pages from there. That plan worked out, and she effectively continued on as farm editor from home.

However, her fatigue continued. In December of that year, after months of testing, she was finally diagnosed with multiple sclerosis. The news was, of course, devastating to a busy farm wife and mother who also managed to edit a newspaper section every week. She stopped milking because of the physical limitations, and her busy life suddenly slowed to a snail's pace. Bernice felt lost for a while, but soon decided that working was the best remedy. She came back to the newspaper in the spring of 1991, still editing the farm news, but also filling a position in the advertising department, the only opening available at that time.

"I enjoyed working in a different capacity," she said. "I learned how the whole thing comes together, and that was valuable."

Bernice explored new ground through the advertising job, and in the early 1990s headed up the publication of a special supplement, Forever Farming, which proved to be a source of pride for her. All the while she has dealt with the debilitating effects of MS. She had to work to make her legs move in the direction she wanted them to go. The situation was worsened by the fact that the strength in her legs dissipated along with her control of them.

"First I walked by holding on to things, and people looked at me like I was drunk or something," she said. "And then I used a cane for a while." Three years ago, she began using a wheelchair most of the time. "There's a whole lot of frustration involved, but you have to just try to deal with it," Bernice said. The most trying time is spring, a period she has always associated with getting out and digging the dirt to initiate the growing season.

"It's definitely my worst time, so I let myself feel bad for a day or two. Then I just get it behind me and move on," she said.

Another blow to the Kepple family came in 1995, when they faced the fact that the dairy had become a burden, a sad situation met by many area farmers. "Milk prices dropped and feed prices went up," Bernice said. Howard had ongoing back troubles, having been operated on in 1991, and Bernice's physical challenges kept her from helping much at all. Mike, the couple's younger son, was running the dairy almost by himself. They made the difficult decision to sell the herd in 1996.

"I went through a phase thinking that since I wasn't farming at all anymore, I shouldn't remain as the farm editor," she said. "But then I remembered that when I wrote columns or wished my readers well, I always directed those messages to farmers and to 'farmers at heart.' I accepted the fact, then, that I had become just that, a farmer at heart, and that I could continue as editor despite the changes in my life."

And so she did remain in that post until last week, when she put together her last farm pages and said good-bye to her readers through a short column. She will now focus on home, help Howard some with his business (Appalachian Iron), tend to their three donkeys and three horses, and keep up with her children's busy adult lives. Son Mike now operates his own business, Outhouse Gutters and Downspouts, and daughter Criss Sweitzer (who incidently was the 1984 Garrett County Farm Queen) is a successful local attorney, a partner in the Eiswert, Janes, and Sweitzer law firm. Son Tim has resided in Albuquerque, N.M., for several years working for ReproGraphics as a successful digital graphic designer. The close-knit family members keep in touch despite their busy careers.

Some time will have to pass before Bernice grows accustomed to her slower-paced lifestyle.

"I always enjoyed coming to work at the paper," she said. "I never had a bad time. It was always interesting, and there were always new people to meet. I will miss it."

FARMING BECAME AN IMPORTANT FOCUS of The Republican in the mid-1980s after Bernice stepped in as the paper's first farm editor. It was a good fit, since so many of Garrett County's people are either in farming families or have close ties to them. Bernice and her family farmed, too, and her kids excelled in 4-H and FFA. In the photo above, Bernice is pictured at left and her daughter, Cristine, is at right. They attended the Garrett County Legislative Breakfast in 1988 to represent farming families. Also shown are Wayne Cawley (beside Bernice), then the Maryland secretary of agriculture, and then-Governor William Donald Schaefer. In the photograph below is the Kepple family in about 1987, posing with some bovine friends.

Dry Weather Promotes Work In The Field

With the dry conditions through Friday and showers by the week's end, Maryland farmers had an average of 6.3 days suitable for field work such as cutting hay and harvesting winter wheat. While the rains came in a timely fashion, more moisture is needed to curb the effects of the 90-degree days.

Corn is progressing with 9 percent of the crop silked, 5 percent ahead of last year, and 2 percent ahead of the five-year average. However, the lack of moisture is causing the corn to curl in some areas. Nevertheless, corn is rated 11 percent in excellent condition, 55 percent good, 27 percent fair, 5 percent poor, and 2 percent very poor.

The dry conditions accelerated soybean planting, with 81 percent planted, 5 percent ahead of last year, and 4 percent ahead of average. Moisture is also needed to germinate the double cropped soybeans following small grains.

The weather last week was ideal for cutting hay. Alfalfa hay second cutting, although running one percent behind average, progressed from 29 percent the previous week to 42 percent last week. The third cutting of alfalfa is 15 percent harvested, 12 percent ahead of schedule. All other hay second cutting is 30 percent harvested, which is 5 percent ahead of the average.

Scattered showers attempted to offset the impact of arid conditions, but soil moisture surpluses were depleted in many areas. Topsoil moisture was rated 1 percent very short, 21 percent short, 76 percent adequate, and 2 percent surplus, while subsoil moisture was 9 percent short, 90 percent adequate, and 1 percent surplus.

Precipitation in Garrett County for the month of June measured 5.5 inches, which is 1.7 inches above normal. Rainfall in the county since April 1 totals 12.5 inches, which is .4 inch above normal.

Lightning Safety Guidelines

The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration publishes a list of safe practices to reduce the risk of harm from lightning. Among the suggestions are:

· Large enclosed structures (substantially constructed buildings) tend to be much safer than smaller or open structures.

· In general, fully enclosed metal vehicles such as cars, trucks, buses, vans, fully enclosed farm vehicles, etc., with the windows rolled up provide good shelter from lightning. Avoid contact with metal or conducting surfaces outside or inside the vehicle.

· AVOID being in or near high places and open fields, isolated trees, unprotected gazebos, rain or picnic shelters, baseball dugouts, communication towers, flagpoles, light poles, bleachers (metal or wood), metal fences, convertibles, golf carts, water (ocean, lakes, swimming pools, rivers, etc.).

· When inside a building AVOID use of the telephone, taking a shower, washing your hands, doing dishes, or any contact with conductive surfaces with exposure to the outside such as metal door or window frames, electrical wiring, telephone wiring, cable TV wiring, plumbing, etc.

Coming Up — A Week of Holstein Club Activities

The last week of July is a busy week for many of the dairy folks. The Garrett County Holstein Association will have the annual Black and White Dairy Show on Tuesday, July 24, starting a 7:30 p.m. at the Garrett County Fairgrounds. On Friday, July 27, the Association will have the Garrett County Holstein Sale starting at 7 p.m. at the fairgrounds. There will be an excellent line of Holstein cattle put on the auction block. Everyone is invited to attend these activities. Deadline for entry into the show is July 16.

The Maryland State Holstein Association will hold the annual family picnic this year in Garrett County at the Grantsville Community Park on Saturday, July 28. Activities will start at 9 a.m. and continue through the afternoon. Additional information is available by contacting my office. Reservations are necessary.

Don't Wait Until it is Too Late!

Last week I alerted you on the potential problem with armyworms. They have been active in several cornfields in the area. If you have an armyworm problem you need to spray before the corn is too high. The name armyworm was given to this insect because they can move like an army. There have been reports of the armyworms actual moving as a group across black top roads and mowing down 40-inch corn to the ground. Check fields with a sod, rye cover crop, or small grain history. Dr. Galen Dively, University of Maryland, reports growers can stop the army by treating the edge of the cornfield providing they have not already moved throughout the field. They are easy to kill with most pryethroids.

Funding In Place For Farm Bill — For Now

With a total of $173.7 billion earmarked for agriculture funding for the next 10 years ($94.7 billion from the original budget baseline and an additional $79 billion in the fiscal 2002 budget resolution), lawmakers are now poised to begin work in earnest on the next farm bill. However, the American Farm Bureau Federation reports that the two sides of Capitol Hill are on different timetables for completing the legislation.

The next farm bill will replace the 1996 Federal Agricultural Improvement and Reform (FAIR) Act when it expires in 2002. The FAIR act and a number of its provisions, including increased planting flexibility and decreased government intervention, was a significant departure from previous policy.

On the House side, Rep. Larry Combest (R-Texas), chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, has set up a time line for working on the farm bill, explained Tim Cansler, an American Farm Bureau Federation director of congressional relations.

"We are anticipating Chairman Combest releasing a draft of the bill around the first week of July," Cansler said. "We'll have two weeks to look at the draft. Toward the end of July, we will go back to the Hill and discuss what we like in the draft and what we don't like."

Cansler said that while Combest will try to complete as many sections, or titles, of the farm bill as possible before he offers his draft, it will likely emphasize commodity and conservation programs.

"Those are the sections that require the most significant funding levels," Cansler said.

Combest said he wants to finalize the bill in the committee before Congress begins its summer recess on Aug. 3. He wants the bill ready for consideration by the entire House when lawmakers return in September.

On the Senate side, Sen. Tom Harkin (D-Iowa) recently took the reins at the Senate Agriculture Committee. Although he has criticized the 1996 farm bill and prefers his own Conservation Security Act as a central element of the next major farm measure, Harkin is not approaching the farm bill under an expedited time frame like his House counterpart.

"Chairman Harkin and Sen. Lugar (R-Ind.), Harkin's predecessor before the Senate power switch, both said they want to wait until next year to complete the bill," Cansler said.

Cansler predicted that the past four years of low commodity prices and significant emergency assistance from the government will compel lawmakers to develop policy containing a "better safety net and more predictability."

The Congressional Budget Office's most recent estimate of the fiscal 2002 budget baseline could propel farm bill discussions forward, according to Cansler. CBO's May baseline reduces the overall surplus by $9 billion. In completing the fiscal 2002 budget, Congress used CBO's January budget baseline, which essentially showed a nearly $12 billion non-Medicare, non-Social Security surplus. With the agency's revised figures, the budget cushion is effectively reduced to about $3 billion.

The $168.2 billion Congress allocated for a new farm program over the next 10 years is a promising amount and one that farmers and ranchers are grateful for," Cansler said. "But if budget surplus forecasts continue to decline, that funding could be in jeopardy. Lawmakers should carefully calculate risks involved in securing new policy at current funding levels provided by the budget resolution."

Maryland Grain Checkoff Vote Set For August

The Maryland Grain Producers Association (MGPA) announces the date of the referendum to reaffirm the Maryland Grain Checkoff as August 2, 2001. This announcement was made by the president of the MGPA, grain producer Donnie Tennyson of Dameron.

The referendum will be held from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. at the Garrett County Cooperative Extension office. Absentee ballots will be available from Extension offices after July 9 or can be obtained now by contacting the MGPA, 53 Slama Road, Edgewater, MD 21037, telephone 410-956-5771.

To be eligible to vote, a person must be financially engaged in the growing of grain as an owner, tenant, or sharecropper.

If passed by a majority of those voting who are eligible to vote, the 10-year-old Maryland Grain Checkoff Program will continue for a further five years from October 1, 2001. An assessment of one half of one percent (.5%) will be collected on the net value of each bushel of grain sold. The checkoff will be deducted at the first point of sale on all grain, with the exception of soybeans, which is already under a national checkoff program. Any producer who does not wish to participate in the program can get a full or partial refund upon written request sent to the Maryland Grain Producers Utilization Board (MGPUB), which administers the program.

The checkoff program is a self-help promotion program, which allows all producers to combine their funds to support market development, research, and education to improve profitability of grain production. Decisions on how the money is spent are made by an 18-member board. The 14 voting members of the board represent grain producers from six regions throughout the state.

Under state law, checkoff programs are required to conduct referendums every five years to reaffirm support.

For further information, persons may contact Lynne Hoot at 410-956- 5771.

"M" IS FOR MILK — That's one of the many facts children at the Garrett County Community Action Accident/Jennings Head Start center learned during a visit from Alecia DeWitt, Garrett County's Dairy Princess. DeWitt was invited as a guest reader during a RIF (Reading Is Fundamental) book distribution, where she read and discussed several books with the children while explaining the importance of milk in everyone's diets. The children also received cow erasers and comic books that reinforced the nutrition message. The group photo shows (not in order) Steven Minnick, Stephanie Wilt, Trevor Rounds, Megan and Molly Fazenbaker, Jennifer Bittinger, Trevon Jones, Brianna Moats, Claire Diehlmann, Shannon Warnick, Justin Opel, Amanda Folk, Caitlin Stanton, Luke Warnick, Katie Engle, Brandon Folk, Jarrett Carrigan, Misty Paugh, Patrick Dom, Tommy Durst, Brandie Hebb, Dallas Hetrick, and DeWitt, who is seated in the background. NEW BIRDING BROCHURE AVAILABLE — "Birds of Garrett County," a fold-out brochure that provides identification tips for over 125 species of birds that frequent this area, is available at the Visitors Center in McHenry and all local state parks. The cover, designed by local artist Jon Boone, portrays a rare upland sandpiper. ESTONIAN STUDENT SPEAKS TO DCL LIONS — Garrett Community College student Halka Sikka delivered a presentation about life in her Estonian homeland during a recent meeting of the Deep Creek Lake Lions Club. Sikka shared her experience as a child in a country under Russian control, saying she had no idea there were so many products and colors until she traveled out of the country. Economic growth occurred after the fall of the Soviet Union and has opened up more opportunities for Sikka and her people. The Maryland National Guard has been helping the small country continue to develop, and Sikka was given the opportunity to attend GCC through a program developed by college president Dr. Stephen Herman. Sikka's local host family of Anna, Richard, and Scott Buckingham treat her like a daughter, she said. Shown at the meeting, from left, are DCL Lions Club president M. Sue Shockey, Sikka, and DCL Lions Robin Weaver, Betty Malloy, and Jane Frawley.

CARNIVAL RIDES AND AMUSEMENTS, provided by Deshler Amusements, delighted the crowds during the Fourth of July Celebration in Terra Alta. Sponsored each year by the TA Volunteer Fire Department, the five-day event is that organization's largest fund raiser of the year.

ARE YOU LOOKING AT ME? This clown was among several who tripped and skipped along the parade route to entertain the hundreds of parade watchers who lined Terra Alta's main throughway for Thursday evening's parade.

FIRE AND RESCUE UNITS from the tri-state area were viewed by the hundreds of parade watchers, and a few antiques, like this 1928 engine provided by the Reedsville Volunteer Fire Department, were of special interest to young and old alike.

DERBY CARS, like this one owned and operated by Bill Dunson of near Cranesville, were part of the ever-popular Demolition Derby, held each year during the July 4 celebration in Terra Alta.

THE EAST PRESTON BAND, composed of fifth through eighth graders at East Preston Middle School, helped lead Thursday's parade down the two-mile route that led to the carnival grounds.

Noted Photographer's Exhibit To Open In Aurora; Talk Set

The documentary photographs of retired National Geographic photographer Volkmar Wentzel, a longtime resident of Aurora, W.Va., are the subject of the first formal exhibition at the newly renovated Aurora Community Building. "Through His Eyes: The Photographs of Volkmar Wentzel" opens Sunday, July 15, with a 3 p.m. artist's reception, and will be open at no charge Wednesdays through Sundays from noon to 7 p.m., or by appointment until Aug. 31. Wentzel will discuss his work as a National Geographic photographer at a gallery talk scheduled for 3 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 4.

The Aurora display features images Wentzel has collected over the course of his life in the town. "Looking at these photographs one sees our residents, our land, and our work, captured by Volkmar Wentzel and imbued with a sensitivity that comes only to one who is intrinsically connected to and truly loves this Appalachian region," commented a spokesperson for the Aurora Area Historical Society.

Born in Dresden, Germany, Wentzel immigrated to the United States as a child and eventually moved from Washington, D.C., to Aurora to "wait out" the Depression. Wentzel said he was "buoyed by the camaraderie of the Youghiogheny Forest artists' colony and the fellowship" he found in the area. Introduced to photography by his father, a respected photographer in his own right, Wenzel began his lifelong documentation of the community while he was a student at Aurora High School. He used an old pump house as a darkroom and exchanged his photographs for farm produce.

Spurred by Eleanor Roosevelt's purchase of some of his photographs, Wentzel was determined to pursue his love of photography and moved back to Washington in 1935. Within two years he was working for the National Geographic Society, where his early work included a documentary on West Virginia's industries. He joined the Army Air Corps in 1941, where he interpreted photographs and helped develop an aerial charting system.

After the war Wentzel returned to the National Geographic Society. His assignments included an extended stay in India, where he documented the reemergence of that country as a free nation; the first photographic and film images of Nepal; and photos of Mount Everest. This work was followed by a series of unique images of now-vanished tribal cultures in Africa.

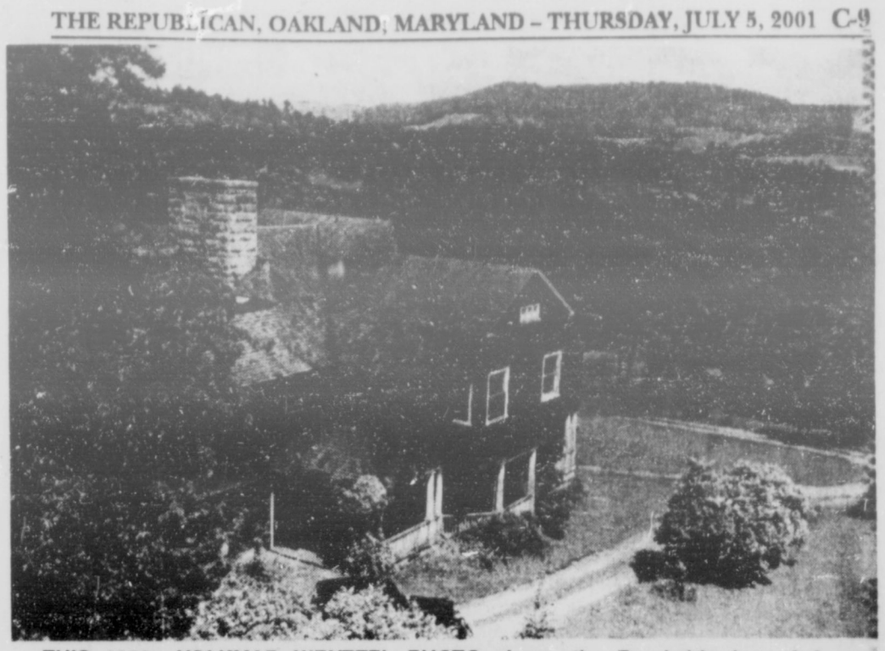
Wentzel's photographs have been reproduced in numerous issues of National Geographic and exhibited in galleries and museums worldwide, including the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Smithsonian Institution, the Corcoran Art Gallery, and the Royal Photographic Society of London. He has also received honors for his photography from Austria and Portugal.

Now in his mid 80s, Wentzel has recently published two portfolios of work, "Harper's Ferry, W.Va." and the "Americana Series," using a sophisticated digital process. These large black and white "Iris" prints have been shown by the National Park Service at the Rock Creek Gallery in Washington, and as part of a larger exhibition of his African photographs presented last spring at the Cultural Center in Charleston, W.Va. The June 2001 issue of West Virginia magazine features a story about Wentzel's life as a photographer.

Wentzel's photographs will be available for sale through the AAHS, the profits from which will help to defray the costs of the exhibition. Postcards will also be available, as will a locally produced catalog featuring his photographs and essays, poems, and reminiscences by other area residents.

This exhibition has been produced by the AAHS and made possible by funds and support from the West Virginia Division of Culture and History, Commission on the Arts, Humanities Council, and Division of Tourism, plus Webster's Insurance, Terra Alta Bank, Brookside Inn, Sirianni's restaurant, Preston Business Services, Mountain State Wire and Fence Co./Reeves Fence Construction Co., Aid Association for Lutherans, Decorator's Nook, Atlantic Fellowship Ltd., and the residents of the Union District of Preston County.

Persons interested in further information, or who would like to schedule an appointment to view the exhibition during other than regular hours, may call the AAHS at 304-735-3819.



THIS 1930s VOLKMAR WENTZEL PHOTO shows the Brookside Inn of Aurora, W.Va., from the vantage point of a water tower that used to stand nearby. "I didn't know what I was thinking when I climbed up there," Wentzel, now in his 80s, mused recently. The derring-do of the young photographer found full expression throughout a renowned photography career, including decades of work and adventure as a National Geographic staff photographer. A retrospective of Wentzel's photographs of the Preston County of his youth will open with an artist's reception set for 3 p.m. Sunday, July 15, at the Aurora Community Building. The photographer will give a gallery talk on his long and distinguished career on Saturday, Aug. 4, at 3 p.m. Persons may call 304-735-3819 for further information.

BBB Deluged With Calls About Envelope Scam

The Better Business Bureau (BBB) of Greater Maryland once again has been deluged with calls from Maryland consumers requesting information on work-at-home offers. This time, a Texas-based business is guaranteeing an income of $4 per envelope stuffed to consumers who send $35 for materials. In addition, the company claims consumers can make as much as $2,000 to $4,000 per week.

Nicholas G. Greaves, BBB president, said, "The offers almost always sound the same. They guarantee high income, request a nominal up-front fee, claim no experience is necessary, and insist that the program is possible because other companies are looking to generate more business without taking on additional expenses." Greaves continued, "It can be frustrating for employees of the bureau. We see consumers fall pray to these work-at-home schemes day after day."

The bureau recently worked with the local Postal Division and U.S. Attorney's Office to place the operator of a local work-at-home scam in prison. Donna Covington, owner/operator of Home Mailers Enterprise, an envelope stuffing scam, was sentenced in federal court to one year and one day imprisonment after pleading guilty to mail fraud in connection with the work-at-home scheme.

Covington, like the Texas-based company, sent mailings advertising employment at home as envelope stuffers, promised materials for a payment of $35, promised large earnings potential, and used a post office box and a telephone number which went unanswered. It is estimated that Covington collected more than $49,000 from unsuspecting consumers through this scheme.

"We work hard to educate and remind the public about these scams, and as soon as one of these companies is put out of business, another pops up. I urge consumers to scrutinize offers they receive for work at home and contact the Better Business Bureau before making any decisions on sending money," Greaves said.

To avoid falling for a work-at-home scheme, consumers should look for the following warning signs:

- No telephone number, or a number where the consumer may never speak with someone directly.
- No street address for the company, or a post office mail box number.
- No offer of regular salaried employment.
- Promises of huge profits or big part-time earnings.
- Requirement of up-front money for instructions, registration fees, or merchandise.
- Assurances of guaranteed income.

Consumers may find more information on work-at-home schemes or search over 20,000 Customer Experience Records on Maryland companies at www.baltimore.bbb.org.

"ONE TOUCH OF NATURE makes the whole world kin," wrote William Shakespeare in Trollus and Cressida. The kinship of water and flora, and family and God, can be seen in this sun-painted photograph of a father and son fishing together in a pond, with St John's Lutheran Church at Meadow Mountain, located north of Swanton, in the background. Pastoral scenes such as this abound throughout the area, and the cool summer temperatures of the coming week will only serve to underscore the gifts that envelop us here on the mountaintop.

Lt. Governor Attracts 300+ To Dem Dinner

The Pleasant Valley Community Center was filled to capacity with more than 300 guests at the Garrett County Jefferson-Jackson Day Dinner, held Monday evening. The annual affair sponsored by the Garrett County Democratic Central Committee included a contingency of Republicans, with all three GOP county commissioners in attendance, as well as Delegate George Edwards. The drawing card for this year's event was most likely the keynote speaker, Lt. Governor Kathleen Kennedy Townsend, who had high praise for Garrett County.

"When we are examining how a good program can work, it is inevitable that we turn to Garrett County, where so many wonderful programs work so well," Townsend said. "I think the reason for the success is that you all know each other, you work together, and you trust each other. You are friends."

Master of ceremonies Gary Yoder introduced other guests, including Father Martin Feild, former pastor of St. Peter's Catholic Church, and the Men of Accord, a local barbershop quartet. The singers provided their rendition of the "Star Spangled Banner" and, later in the evening, "Danny Boy."

WORLD SILVER MEDALIST ALISSA GARLAND, a member of the Garrett County Sportaerobic Team, performed her intense routine three times in the World Aerobic Championship, competing against athletes from around the globe. Her hard work paid off in the form of a silver medal, as her score placed her second in the world in the junior varsity women's division. Alissa was among 20 young athletes representing Garrett County, Maryland, and the United States in the competition held last week in San Francisco and involving over 400 athletes from 30 countries. Of all the competitors from the United States, Alissa won the highest honor of the contest. Only two other Americans earned medals, both bronze. Coach Brenda Brosnihan said Alissa's humble, cheerful attitude made the win all the more inspirational. "I don't think she realized at first how well she had done her routine," the coach said. "She was stunned when we heard she was in first place after the preliminaries. She had a whole day to be first in the world, and then performed beautifully again to earn the silver medal." High Pointers From Across Nation Coming To Garrett For Convention

The annual convention of the National High-pointers Club will take place in Garrett County, and a record number of members are slated to attend, according to Lillian and Gene Elliott, organizers of the event. The members' main goal is to hike to the highest geological point of every state, and Maryland's happens to be on Backbone Mountain in Garrett County.

Lillian Elliot reported this week that so far, about 260 people have officially signed up for the three-day conference, but she expects several more. The majority of the high-pointers are coming from the West, she reported. The Elliotts have been working to promote Maryland's high point for several years, and were pleased two years ago to win the bid for this year's convention.

The convention will begin on Thursday, July 26, with a reception at the Pleasant Valley Community Center. An evening picnic is slated the following day and a picnic the next day at Herrington Manor State Park. The main event will take place on Saturday, July 28, which will start with a 7 a.m. pancake breakfast at Herrington Manor, followed by a group hike to the Backbone site. The event will close with a banquet at the Wisp Resort.

High-pointers, also known as "peak baggers," keep track of the high points they have reached across the country. For many members of the club, this will be the first time they will trek to Maryland's apex. The Backbone Mountain hike is ranked the 22nd most difficult of the 50 states. At 3,360 feet, it is 32nd in height.

Because the trailhead area has limited parking, the Elliotts have arranged for parking at a nearby fire station, located just past the hike entrance along Rt. 219. Persons may leave their cars in the fire station lot for $1, and then ride a shuttle to the base of the mountain. The Elliotts are expecting at least 300 people to take part in the climb.

Lillian reported this week that local businesses and individuals have been very supportive of the event.

"Everywhere I go, business people give me merchandise for door prizes, gifts for our goody bags, or other donations," she said. "Everyone has been so helpful and encouraging."

Passer-by Boaters Save One Of Two In Sailing Accident Saturday

Several passers-by assisted and saved one person in an accident that claimed a life Saturday afternoon on Deep Creek Lake between Paradise Point and the Glendale Bridge.

A New York man was electrocuted, and his son and another man were injured when the mast of their Flying Scot sailboat came into contact with electrical lines when attempting to dock their boat in the Paradise Heights area off Glendale Road. Brian Keith Hatfield, 43, Jamestown, N.Y., was pronounced dead at the scene, according to Department of Natural Resources police (DNR).

First of the many boaters who stopped to help was local resident Ed King. The 9-year-old boy was resuscitated; however, attempts by volunteers and rescue personnel to resuscitate Hatfield were unsuccessful.

According to King, several other boaters stopped to give assistance, but many, himself included, were at first hesitant for safety reasons.

"Once the mast broke and I saw a man pulling another man out of the water, I felt fairly confident that the water was safe," King said. "But it was a risk for anyone trying to help."

Alissa Garland Wins Silver In World Sportaerobic Championship

All team members fare well in contest

Alissa Garland, a soon-to-be ninth grader at Southern High School, earned the highest honor for Team USA at the World Aerobic Championships, held in San Francisco July 2-8. The young Garrett Countian brought home the silver medal in the junior varsity women's division, joining Team USA bronze medalists Chelsea Sullivan, Greensboro, N.C., and adult competitor Terri Levins.

The event was attended by over 400 athletes from 30 different countries. The U.S. delegation consisted of 10 adults and 32 youth. Twenty of the young people were from the Garrett County Sportaerobic Team, coached by Brenda Brosnihan.

"Alissa did an outstanding job," Brosnihan said. "In the qualifying round, she beat the three-time U.S. national champion Chelsea Sullivan, which really gave her momentum. Alissa's performance in the preliminary round was flawless, and she was ranked in first place. It was an unbelievable moment to be ranked the best in the world, if only for a day. We are so proud of Alissa, especially with it being her first time competing. Winning a silver medal at any world competition is an incredible feat."

Alissa is the daughter of Sheila and Ed Garland, Oakland.

The junior trio team made up of members Rachel Margroff, Kelsey Jones, and Jessica Warnick, and the junior varsity team, with members Jessica Crosco, Kira Farley, Alissa Garland, Melissa Ray, and Kelly Taylor, both advanced the final round of competition, placing fifth.

"All our teams did a fantastic job. We learned so much from this experience, and we look forward to applying this knowledge toward next year's performances. Our two junior groups both enjoyed success this year. Team Magic (Paige Carr, Kellie Shot-

Local Mental Health Providers Voice Concern About CSA Plan

Several representatives of local mental health workers met with the Garrett County commissioners this week to voice concerns about a plan of the Mountaintop Mental Health Associates (MMHA, the local Core Services Agency) to bring a mental health specialist from Washington County into the county. The specialist, Mark Lannon, is apparently slated to offer an adventure sports type of program in the fall for at-risk middle school students.

According to the mental health workers, including CSA executive director Trish Yoder, there has been a long-time gap in services for children with mental illnesses in the county. All at the meeting Tuesday appeared to agree that the topic has been discussed for years, but services continue to be lacking. Yoder and the MMHA board are charged with, among other duties, the task of filling gaps in mental health services in the county. In an effort to meet the needs of middle school children, the idea of the adventure sports program was formulated last December.

Yoder sent an initial letter to providers in the county, which include the Garrett County Health Department and Lighthouse. The idea was apparently too sketchy at that time, and the providers asked for a more detailed plan. Yoder said she and the board then developed an RFP (request for proposals) on the sports idea, and this, too, was sent out to the providers.

According to Roberta Andersen, a member of the Lighthouse board, the idea was not seen as a favorable one by mental health professionals. "It's not a good idea, in our opinion, to send sometimes hyperactive children, drop-outs, and other at-risk kids to do adventure sports. We did not like the whole idea."

The RFPs went unanswered, Yoder said, so she and the board began seeking outside help. They located Lannon, who is the director of the Washington Mental Health Center. In the meantime, a "transitional age youth," or TAY, grant given to Lighthouse by the MMHA was re-

FARM TOUR LOGO CREATED — A brightly colored picture of the sun rising over the mountains behind a red barn and silo form the logo for the agricultural tourism programs, soon to debut. Local cartoonist Floyd W. (Bill) Detrick Jr. of Right Step created the logo and painted wooden display signs that will designate participating farms. Detrick presented these signs on behalf of members of Right Step to Paige Dopson of the Mtn. Pride Cooperative. Recognizing the importance of farming, the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce formed a partnership with the farm cooperative to develop the tour project, Farms, Barns, and Rural Heritage, which will open to the public by the end of the month. In the photo above Detrick presents his logo to Dopson.

LT. GOVERNOR MAKES THE ROUNDS — Kathleen Kennedy Townsend, Maryland's lieutenant governor, made a splash locally this week by serving as the keynote speaker of the Garrett County Democratic Central Committee's Jefferson-Jackson Day Dinner. Before sitting down to a home-cooked meal at the Pleasant Valley Community Buliding, Townsend made the rounds, mingling with the 300+ guests. To the right of Townsend is Roberta Andersen, a member of the dinner committee, and facing the camera at left is Father Don Parson of St. Peter's Catholic Church. Townsend applauded Garrett County's many successful social programs and asserted that the citizens make projects work because together, they are "men and women searching for the good." See story.

Maryland State Police are currently searching for a dark green 1998 Chevrolet blazer that was reported missing from a residence on Friendsville Road sometime between 10:30 p.m. Sunday and 6 a.m. Monday.

The vehicle is a 4-door and displays Maryland plates M134793.

Persons with information are asked to contact Tfc. J.B. Schlossnagle at the McHenry barrack at 301-334-1101.

A Grantsville man is listed in stable condition after his 1981 Suzuki 650 motorcycle crossed the center line of Chestnut Ridge Road and struck a Ford traveling in the opposite direction, state police said.

Ernest Shugars, 38, was transported by Northern Rescue Squad to Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, where he was admitted for treatment following the midnight accident.

Jarrod Glotfelty, 25, Oakland, the operator of the Ford, was not injured, police said.

In a separate incident, state police stopped a vehicle for weaving along Aiken-Miller Road around midnight Tuesday.

Gabriel Lee Rentschler, 22, Frostburg, was arrested for driving while intoxicated (DWI) and negligent driving after he failed the field sobriety tests.

On Monday, state police responded to Interstate 68 near Keyser's Ridge for a reported domestic assault in which a male was pushing a pregnant female.

According to troopers, they checked the area and located a 20-year-old female walking in the shoulder of the road and interviewed her.

SECRETARY RAYMOND SKINNER VISITS COUNTY — Department of Housing and Community Development (DHCD) Secretary Ray Skinner toured Garrett County earlier this week and visited projects being developed by Garrett County Community Action Committee (GCCAC). Shown here touring Meadow Lake Farms along Herrington Manor Road from left are Duane Yoder, president of GCCAC, Harry Sewell, assistant secretary for DHCD, Skinner, Oakland Mayor Asa McCain, and Autumn Shay, owner of Meadow Lake Farms, which cares for and boards horses. The farm is a product of GCCAC's MicroWorks program, one of more than 24 businesses that is supported by the program with commerce expertise and by loans for continued development. Part of Skinner's tour also included a luncheon meeting at Penn Alps, which was also attended by the county commissioners and the mayors of many of the county's municipalities. A number of issues were discussed, chiefly focused on economic development.

Evidence of the assault was observed, and police located Donald Briggs Jr., 27, Johnstown, Pa., at the truck stop, where he was arrested without incident.

Briggs was charged with one count of second degree assault, and was released on his own recognizance.

State police also arrested a Vermillion, Ohio, man for one count of theft over $500 on Tuesday.

Robert Gaborko Jr., 22, was arrested for a warrant issued by the district court. According to the report, a Friendsville resident filed charges alleging Gaborko had removed numerous personal items from her apartment while he was staying there in May.

Gaborko was released on his own personal recognizance.

In a separate incident, William Gustave Schaidt III, 36, Lonaconing, was arrested for DWI Wednesday after he was stopped by police for an equipment violation.

Three Kentucky residents were arrested by state police after their vehicle was stopped for exceeding the posted speed limit on Interstate 68 near Old Frostburg Road.

Tfc. Glenn Seaman charged Lateissa Jo Adams, 21; Jason Matthew Christian, 26; and Clyde Vernon Johnson, 21, all of Flatwoods, Ky., each with possession of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Oakland Police Arrest Two For Domestic Assault

Oakland City Police responded to a report of a domestic problem at the Starlight Motel Saturday evening.

Upon arrival it was determined that the parties were staying together in the motel and had assaulted one another, police said. Donna Sue Moore, 34, Farmington, W.Va., and Donald Dewey Wolfe, 25, Fairmont, W.Va., were arrested and charged with second degree assault. They were later released on their own recognizance by a district court commissioner.

The retirement of Jay Rice, teacher at Southern Middle School, was also approved.

Motorist Reports Reckless Driver, Woman Arrested

Garrett County sheriff's deputies responded to a call about a vehicle operating in a dangerous manner on Route 219 in the Kings Run Road area around 10 p.m. Monday.

The complainant stated the vehicle passed another vehicle on the right shoulder of the road, and almost struck two other vehicles while traveling Kings Run Road and Broadford Road. According to police, the driver, Desiree Hollace Spady, 20, Oakland, was located at a residence in Frazee Estates.

According to police, Spady failed sobriety tests, and was arrested for driving while intoxicated (DWI).

Spady was also charged with passing a vehicle on the right and violating a license restriction.

She was released from the Garrett County Detention Center on her own recognizance.

In a separate incident, deputies arrested a Loch Lynn man and charged him with trespassing at a residence on Sciote Street Tuesday evening.

According to the deputies' investigation, Timothy Welch, 35, had previously been advised not to return to the residence. He was located inside the residence and arrested without further incident.

He was released on his own personal recognizance.

Two Oakland men were arrested by deputies early Thursday morning in two separate incidents.

Deputies made a traffic stop on Spring Glade Road and arrested Robin Leonard Moyer, 46, for DWI, failing to drive right of center, and violating a license restriction.

Moyer is currently being held in the jail awaiting a bond hearing.

Shortly after that, deputies made another traffic stop on Maryland Highway near D Street in Mtn. Lake Park.

Bryson Steven Paugh, 18, was arrested and charged with DWI, failing to drive right of center, violating a license restriction, and possession of an alcoholic beverage under the age of 21.

Paugh was later released on his own recognizance.

Second, Third Rabies Cases Reported Locally

Environmental Health Services of the Garrett County Health Department recently reported the second and third cases of rabies in the county for the year 2001. In both cases, the raccoons involved were sent to the Maryland Department of Health & Mental Hygiene Rabies Laboratory in Baltimore. On June 26, the laboratory reported that both raccoons were confirmed to have the rabies virus.

In the first incident a raccoon entered a property in the Friendsville area and fought with a dog on the property. The owner of the dog euthanized the raccoon. The dog involved was currently vaccinated against rabies, and was given a rabies booster and will be closely observed for 45 days. There was no human exposure in this case.

The second incident involved a raccoon that came out of a pile of lumber on a property in the Red House area, fought with a dog, and was euthanized by the property owner. The dog involved in this situation was not currently vaccinated against the rabies virus. The owner of the dog opted to have the dog undergo the six-month quarantine. Because the dog's rabies vaccination had lapsed, it was revaccinated and placed in a double-caged strict enclosure. There was no human exposure in this case.

In a six-month isolation quarantine, the animal (dog, cat, or ferret) is placed in a double enclosure. One person is normally designated to care for the animal during the quarantine. It is recommended that pre-exposure vaccinations be administered to the individual designated to the care of the animal in quarantine.

These cases reinforce the importance of maintaining current rabies vaccination for cats, dogs, and ferrets. In addition, the individuals involved in both cases were careful in handling their pets and avoided handling the wild animal.

The Garrett County Health Department has concluded its spring and summer series of low-cost rabies clinics and will have a fall series in September. Those who have pets whose rabies vaccinations are due or have expired are encouraged to contact a veterinarian for proper vaccination.

Oakland Man Sentenced For Distribution

Bushrod Kenneth Hardesty, 21, Oakland, entered a guilty plea last week in Garrett County Circuit Court to the charge of distribution of marijuana. Judge James Sherbin accepted Hardesty's plea and sentenced him to two years in the Department of Corrections, with this sentence to run consecutively to an 18-month sentence he is currently serving for probation violation.

Hardesty was indicted by the March term of the grand jury with the distribution charge and a charge of marijuana possession, which was dismissed when he pleaded guilty to distribution.

The charges against the defendant stemmed from an incident on January 17 of this year when he reportedly sold three baggies of marijuana to an undercover police officer. The investigation was conducted by officers with the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force, assisted by officers with the narcotics task force from Allegany County.

Single Vehicle Accident Ends With Charges

For unknown reasons an Econoline van operated by John Faveron, 30, Rockville, traveled off Interstate 68 near Finzel, struck an embankment, and overturned Sunday morning, according to Maryland State Police, McHenry barrack. Faveron, who was wearing his seatbelt, was not seriously injured.

He refused medical treatment, and was charged with driving while intoxicated (DWI) after failing field sobriety tests. Police also found that Faveron had an outstanding warrant through the Metropolitan Transit Police Department for an alcohol violation that occurred in Prince George's County in which he failed to pay a fine.

He was taken before a district court commissioner, and he posted $75 bond and was released. Faveron was also charged with negligent driving.

The Finzel fire department and Northern Rescue Squad also responded to the scene.

An accident between a Lincoln and a Harley Davidson Saturday afternoon sent two people to Memorial Hospital, Cumberland.

The Lincoln, operated by Marie Evelyn Fazenbaker, 76, Grantsville, was pulling from Gabriel's, Corriganville, intending to go north on Md. 36 and failed to yield the right of way to the motorcycle, operated by Brian Daniel Ricewick, 29, Flintstone.

The motorcycle skidded and Ricewick laid the motorcycle down, and it struck the left side of Fazenbaker's vehicle. Ricewick and his passenger, Tonya Lynette Ricewick, 30, Flintstone, were transported to Memorial Hospital by Ellerslie and Corriganville ambulances. They were both treated and released.

Fazenbaker was charged with failing to yield the right of way. Ricewick was charged with operating on a learner's permit without supervision.

A separate single vehicle accident on Saturday on Interstate 68 east of Friendsville also sent a Frostburg teenager to the hospital.

According to state police, Rebecca Sue Harris, 17, was distracted by a CD player in her Chevrolet Beretta and drifted across into the rumble strips. She over-corrected and skidded to the right across the remaining traffic lanes. The car struck an embankment and overturned. She was wearing a seatbelt, which prevented a more serious injury.

Harris was transported to by Northern Rescue Squad Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and released. The Friendsville fire department also reported to the 2 p.m. accident. No charges were filed by police.

No charges were filed in another single vehicle accident around 4 a.m. on Saturday on Route 495 south of Orendorf Road.

Adam Christopher Brenneman, 18, Accident, was traveling southbound on Bittinger Road when he apparently fell asleep, failed to negotiate a curve, and his vehicle left the roadway, struck a tree stump, and overturned.

He was able to free himself and made it to a nearby residence to summon help. He was transported by Northern Rescue Squad to Memorial Hospital, where he was treated and released.

A TEAM OF TEENS from three different states is doing volunteer work in the county this week, assisting families in need with necessary housing repairs. The program is called Better Homes for Appalachia, and it is funded by Lutheran World Relief. It is the fifth year in a row that Pastor Fred Stoltenberg of Faith Lutheran Church, Eldersburg, has brought a team of youth to the county and worked with Garrett County Community Action Committee personnel to identify local families in need of housing repairs/rehabilitation. The group of 33 youth and 11 adults from Maryland, Virginia, Washington, D.C., and Michigan, are working on not one, but six different projects this week at various locations in the county. These photos were taken along High Street in Oakland at the home of the Gordon Maule family. Cumberlcnd Man Injured During Boat Collision

A Cumberland man was injured when his boat was struck by another boat off the shore of the Deep Creek Lake Yacht Club yesterday evening, according to a spokesperson for the Maryland Department of Natural Resources.

Keith Robert Spinnenweber, 49, was sailing his Laser sailboat when it was struck at approximately 5:45 p.m. by a 18- to 20-foot powerboat operated by a 14-year-old juvenile. The Laser was split in half, and Spinnenweber was transported to Cumberland Memorial Hospital by private vehicle, according to DNR public relations specialist Heather Lynch. The victim was not hospitalized as of this morning, a CMH spokesperson said.

The juvenile, a resident of Valley Spring, N.Y., said he never saw the sailboat. He was operating the powerboat in the company of three adults who were also on board. No charges have been filed, and the accident is still under investigation by the Natural Resources Police.

State, County Jobless Rates Drop In May

Employment in Maryland headed back up in May, rising to an all-time high for the month and the second highest level on record dating back to 1978. The state reached its highest employment level in December 2000. Nationally, the unemployment rate remains well above the statewide level at 4.1 percent.

Garrett County's jobless rate dropped over one point from 6.9 percent in April to 5.8 percent in May. The rate for May of last year was 6.7 percent.

"We have reached record high employment levels each month over the past two years, reflecting the consistent strength of Maryland's economy," said John P. O'Connor, secretary of the Maryland Department of Labor, Licensing, and Regulation (DLLR).

Local unemployment rates were as low as 2.0 percent in Montgomery County, 2.1 percent in Carroll and Howard counties, 2.2 in Calvert and Charles counties, and 2.3 percent in Frederick and Talbot counties.

May marks the official start-up of the summer job-hunting season, as vacationing students and workers looking for temporary employment try to secure their place in the summer job market. While seasonal hiring escalates, the increase in the number of job seekers entering the labor market often exceeds job availability, making unemployment increases common this time of year.

During May, more than 16,660 job seekers entered the labor market, pushing the labor force to a high for the year of 2,865,431. This surge in job seekers diminished the advantage of employment expansion, causing the number of unemployed to rise to 102,337 in May.

A number of businesses added workers to their payrolls in May, with hiring at restaurants, in construction, business services, and amusements fueling the seasonal upturn.

Man Arrested For Numerous Stolen, Forged Checks

A Terra Alta, W.Va., man was arrested by Garrett Bureau of Investigation on Monday for numerous stolen and forged checks being uttered at Browning's Foodland and Deep Creek Foodland Fresh.

David Wayne Shugars, 20, was charged with two counts of a theft scheme, 24 counts of misdemeanor theft, 24 counts of forgery, and 24 counts of uttering a false document.

Shugars is incarcerated in the Garrett County Detention Center on a $25,000 cash bond.

Blaze Damages Friendsville Area Sawmill

An accidental fire damaged a sawmill in the Friendsville area yesterday afternoon; however, quick action by local volunteers kept the blaze from spreading throughout the structure.

Fire fighters from the Friendsville, Accident, Deep Creek, Addison, and Markleysburg departments were summoned at 4:13 p.m. to respond to the mill, owned by Emerson Frazee and located at 1848 Squire Fike Road. According to Friendsville chief Terry Spear, there was a pile of wood slabs burning at the carriage end of the mill. Gusty winds caused the flames to spread to the underpart of the sawmill platform, he said.

Spear said that the fire was brought under control within about 15 minutes.

Also responding to the scene was the Northern Rescue Squad. There were no injuries reported.

Congrats, and Thanks...

In order to attain world-class status in athletics, one generally must give up just about everything else and devote about every moment to the task at hand. One must live, breathe, eat, and sleep his or her chosen sport in order to be among the best. It's a huge, often agonizing, sacrifice, one that can lead to major regrets, depression, and a host of other difficulties.

However, there are some rare exceptions to the above scenario, and it seems that one exists right here in Garrett County, where not one, but a number of our young athletes have indeed attained world-class ability in their chosen sport. While the members of the local sportaerobic team, under the instruction of Brenda Brosnihan, have obviously worked extremely hard, they seem to have kept things in proper perspective.

The team returned Monday from a highly successful trip to California, where they garnered several top 10 finishes in the world sportaerobic championships, the most impressive being a silver medal won by Alissa Garland. This was the highest finish in the entire competition by an American. (See feature article in this section.)

What makes the accomplishments of our Garrett County girls more incredible than their high finishes, though, is their attitude. They were there to perform as well as they could, but they were also there to enjoy themselves and take advantage of a golden opportunity to socialize with other young people from around the world.

The difference in approach and attitude was made poignantly clear when they observed members of the Korean team, wincing in pain and with tears running down their cheeks, as their coaches were forcibly stretching their muscles by pushing on their outstretched bodies. It was an unsettling and confusing sight for our girls, who had never imagined, let alone experienced, such coaching practices. Just being there, and being a part of it all, was valued most by our kids. Winning spots among the top 10 in several divisions was just the icing on the cake.

So it is this attitude, far more than their winning, that makes the rest of us Garrett County residents so proud of these young people, their parents, and their coach, Brenda Brosnihan, who does such an amazing job working with these youngsters. We extend to them our congratulations for their accomplishments in the competition, and more importantly, our utmost appreciation for being such wonderful ambassadors from Garrett County.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

If you folks here in the Oakland area missed the Garrett Community Concert Band, you missed some wonderful music! What a treat to sit with a capacity crowd under the tent at Garrett Community College and enjoy seeing and hearing our own friends and neighbors playing such "rousing" music. Everyone seemed to have such a good time, as you could see smiles and feet tapping.

Thanks to the band for such an enjoyable Fourth of July!

To the Editor:

What at enjoyable evening it was! Symphony music returned to Garrett County on June 30 when the Maryland Symphony Orchestra performed at the Garrett Community College auditorium.

Elizabeth Schulze, the highly energized conductor, made the music of Vienna come alive with her interesting commentary. The musicians played with equal proficiency. The audience obviously was captivated by the Strauss family selections.

How wonderful it was for our residents and visitors to enjoy outstanding and entertaining music at such an affordable price.

To the Editor:

I have been reading with distress about the squabbling within the Northern Rescue Squad regarding their new site, area of service, etc. Until the past week's article, I just chalked it up to "Garrett County politics," which leaves much to be desired.

What took my notice last week was reference to volunteers possibly quitting, emergency calls being late, or never showing up. This is distressing to me in my present condition.

Since 1970 I have regularly sent my yearly donation to the Northern Rescue Squad. I considered it a good insurance policy when looking toward my aging years. I'm there now, with heart disease and a very real possibility of needing the services of the Northern Rescue Squad to transport me to my cardiologist at Mon General. I even carry in my purse directions for rescue squad personnel listing where I need to go, name of cardiologist, EKG, and what medications I am presently taking. As you can see, I'm as prepared as I can be and, of course, have been counting on the services of the Northern Rescue Squad to prolong my life by getting me where I need to go when the time comes.

After reading about all this in-fighting and decrease in timely service, I am now very worried and wonder if I should be able to rely on the Northern Rescue Squad or make other arrangements.

It seems to me these people who are disagreeing have forgotten about the real purpose of the organization and the Garrett Countians for whom they provide a life-saving service.

Boaters Save

King's boat as it was hitting the shoreline. King said they then spotted a DNR police boat across the lake and went to summon help.

He added that another boat stopped, and a woman and young man helped perform CPR.

"It was really a group effort," King said. "We all worked together. It still tears me apart that we couldn't save the man too."

Chuck Porcari, spokesperson for the DNR, said two adults jumped from the boat onto the dock to attempt to slow the sailboat down when the mast hit the power lines causing an electrical arc, which electrified the water around the boat.

According to Porcari, the boy, believing the boat was on fire, jumped into the water and was rendered unconscious. His father jumped in to rescue him and also became unconscious. When the mast broke, the electrical connection was broken.

The boy and James Overturf, 52, Middletown, were transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where they were treated and released after the 3:15 p.m. accident.

The victim's body was taken to the State Medical Examiner's Office in Baltimore, and the incident is being investigated by DNR.

Northern and Southern rescue squads, Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company, Maryland State Police, Garrett County sheriff's deputies, and the Healthnet helicopter all assisted at the scene.

This accident has raised some questions about boating safety near power lines. David Bertsch of the Deep Creek Yacht Club said many of the members of the club are concerned because their boats are docked or moored near power lines.

A spokesperson for Allegheny Power said a thorough investigation of the incident is under way.

"It is a very unfortunate and saddening accident," he said. "At this point we are not sure how and why this tragedy happened, so we are trying to find out everything we can."

MOWING

The rotary mower has become one of my most important farm tools. Twelve years ago our family signed up for the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP), one of the best agriculture programs ever devised by a government.

CRP identifies highly erodible land and fields adjoining streams or with hydric soils, and offers the farmer a good rent not to farm those fields. The contract is long-term, either 10 or 15 years. The farmer must also plant trees or establish grasses on that land, but those practices too are subsidized.

During the early years the tree plantings must be mowed. The grasslands must be mowed throughout the contract, but only once each year. The grasses are established in order to provide wildlife cover.

Our family is at the beginning of our second CRP contract. Back in 1989 we took 22 acres out of production altogether, half for trees and half for grass. Three years ago when we renewed the contract we converted about two acres of grassed stream buffer to trees.

The goal of providing habitat to wildlife has been achieved. Rabbits are abundant. There is a variety of songbirds, though not nearly as many gamebirds as I should like. There are hawks and owls on this place. Where they fly, there is everything else below.

I scared a fawn, complete with its camouflage of spots. Later in the day when the cousin who leases the arable land cut alfalfa, I saw the fawn scared out of hiding again. That second time the mother was with her, leading the way over the knoll.

There was much else to see and smell. The honeysuckle was fading. Raspberries were ripening. The silky or grey dogwoods (I can't distinguish them) were in full bloom with umbellate flower clusters. The sycamores are beginning to overtop the surrounding shrubbery. In a few more years they will tower above all the other trees and shrubs in that stream buffer, silver-grey sentinels to the exchange of nature below.

The lovely and pleasing have their place and the place of preference, but they are not without competition. There are also those illustrations of original sin in the plant world: thistles, vines, and multi-flora rose. They too play their part in providing food and cover to wildlife. A bird or rabbit does well to take cover in the layers of thorns with which the multi-flora rose faces the world.

The law calls them noxious weeds, and forbids them. I know of no farmer (no, nor any public roads commission either), no matter how diligent, who is winning the war against multi-flora rose. It is a plant which seems to have a will. As one passes near it, the plant reaches out its thorny tentacles to embrace the passerby. They suggest Isaiah's vision of God's judgment: thistles and thorns covering the earth.

The work, once done, gives satisfaction. Yes, there is more to do. There always is. Wisdom is rejoicing for a time in the work completed. I surveyed those acres on either side of the stream. This year the mowing was finished before the thistles went to seed, itself an accomplishment. This year the mowing was complete without having to call the tractor repair man, another accomplishment.

The walnut planting of three years ago is overtopping the grass. The wetland plantings are mixed in their success. I have learned that the American cherry does not work so well in such a setting. Those dogwoods, however, love having their feet wet, and flourish.

Though there are battles to be fought every year, like the chemical warfare necessary against multi-flora rose, I take pleasure surveying the hollow below my house. I remember the devastation wreaked upon this farm by Agnes nearly 30 years ago. I remember when I had never seen a hawk. I remember when every serious rain carried much of the fields into the stream.

Those days are gone. With reasonable care, they are gone never to come again. There are plenty of messes that government can be faulted for, but there are successes too. The old Soil Conservation Service, now called "Natural Resources Conservation Service," has rendered valiant service not only in protecting our natural resources, but also in restoring them.

That is a success I see every time I do my CRP mowing. Part of my pleasure arises from the gratitude I feel for the many dedicated civil servants who have helped my family make conservation work on this farm and on tens of thousands of other families on farms across America.

High Pointers

The Silver Spring couple took the Maryland high point on as a personal project several years ago and have been appealing to the state to eventually purchase the property, which is currently owned by a coal company. They themselves purchased a lot not far from the peak and are building a home there. They have kept the trail clear of debris and have supplied blaze marks for hikers. For the convention, they will place Burma-Shave-like signs along the trail to entertain the visiting climbers.

At the summit, the Elliotts long ago placed high point certificates as souvenirs for the successful hikers. There is also a camera stand. For the convention hikers, there will be certificates signed by Sarah Taylor-Rogers, secretary of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources. Highpointer T-shirts will also be sold.

turned to the MMHA because Lighthouse did not at that time have a TAY program to fund. These funds will apparently be directed to Lannon's new program.

As was conveyed at Tuesday's meeting, Lighthouse and the health department felt blindsided by the offer to Lannon.

"We are concerned about outside agencies coming into our county when we can provide the services ourselves," said Wayne Johnson, president of the Lighthouse board. Brook Schnieder, director of the health department's mental health services division, echoed that concern. "When you bring in outside people, you eventually undermine the solvency of local programs," he said.

Commissioner Wendell Beitzel asked if the new provider would be funded with money now being given to local providers, and Yoder said no. But Health Officer Rodney Glotfelty said the outsider could eventually take the money-making services away from current providers, leaving the local agencies with the services that bring in little to no revenue. "You have to look at the big picture here," he said.

While the providers claimed they had little opportunity to discuss the issue, Yoder said the MMHA meets regularly and that the issue is always on the agenda. Providers, however, do not often attend the regular meetings. Andersen said one problem she sees with the system, and a reason why the providers might not attend, is that they have no vote. Yoder confirmed that the providers have no vote because it could constitute a conflict of interest.

"What we are trying to do is meet one of our many goals, and that is to provide services for transitional age youth, and to offer maximum choice to the consumers," Yoder said. She said a children's mental health task force was formed last year to study the problem. "We found that we had gaps, and we need to fill them. We need to expand our services, and provide for children at risk."

Yoder said she is passionate about this issue because of her experiences within the school system. "I was in the school system for nine years as a family support worker. I saw the need over and over, and I tried to find services for these children. There weren't any. I feel so strongly about this, and it's because I've been there and I've seen these children," she said. "We were really looking for something different. When the local providers showed no interest in the adventure sports idea, we sent it out statewide. And when a Washington County provider showed interest, even though there are no start-up funds available, we were excited."

Yoder noted that outside services are used to a degree already in the county, citing Burlington Family Services from West Virginia, as well as the Western Maryland Health System. "We are advocating choice, and we are filling a gap," she said. Lannon has expressed his willingness to "be neighborly," Yoder said, and work with the established providers.

Debbie jo Adams-Noroski, director of Lighthouse, said there was not enough communication with local providers before the MMHA made the deal with Lannon. "We have been here for 10 years and we serve 165 consumers," Adams-Noroski said. "We operate with no grant funding, and yet we are ready to build a 5,000-foot addition to Lighthouse. Last year we logged 192,000 miles in transporting our consumers. We are always ready to work on new ideas and proposals." She said they were frustrated as to why the issue couldn't have been discussed more before any solid plans were made.

Yoder maintained that the local providers had ample opportunity for discussion and input.

Commissioner Fred Holliday, chairman, said all players in the issue should remain focused. "The consumers are the ones we need to worry about," Holliday said. "They are the priority, and if possible, we need to avoid these 'turf battles.' It would be great if you all could get together and discuss this again and try to reach some kind of common ground."

The providers and Yoder agreed to meet, and slated the get-together for today.

SOCIAL SERVICES RECEIVES ACCREDITATION — The Garrett County Department of Social Services recently received official accreditation from the Council on Accreditation for Children and Family Services (COA) and the Child Welfare League of America (CWLA). Garrett County DSS is the first to achieve accreditation as part of the new DHR accreditation initiative for local departments. To become accredited, Garrett County DSS spent several months developing strategic plans for service and program improvement. "Our accreditation shows we've taken proactive measures to reach a higher level in the provision of services," Henry Brown, director of DSS, said. "Accreditation points to the fact that the children and families we serve receive excellent service." In the front row, from the left, are Rick DeWitt, assistant director of services, and Brown. CATS & DOGS

Rated PG - Running Time: 1:30 - Released 7/4/01

The latest entry in the talking animals column is Lawrence Guterman's Cats & Dogs, an occasionally funny but generally weak kids' movie about a global battle between felines and canines for primacy among their human companions. Director Guterman, in his feature film debut, uses a combination of trained animals, glaringly obvious animatronics, and the no-longer-novel novelty of computerized lip movements to present a story in which back yard beasties use state-of-the-art spy technology and organizational skills much more sophisticated than we humans would ever suspect to gain control of an anti-dog-allergy formula. It includes the voices of many high-powered celebrities such as Tobey Maguire, Alec Baldwin, Susan Sarandon, and Jon Lovitz, plus the on-screen presence of Jeff Goldblum, Elizabeth Perkins, and Alexander Pollock, but still can't pull off more than an occasional chuckle for anyone over 12.

If you're a "cat person," this film may not be for you, because the cats are definitely the villains. In a routinely whimsical scenario, young beagle pup Lou (voiced by Maguire) is purchased by Mrs. Brody (Perkins) when the previous family dog is kidnapped by a bunch of rogue cats. Although Lou just wants to play ball with his new owner, Scott (Pollock), he is hastily inducted into the national spy dog agency by neighborhood canine spy leader and hardened veteran Butch (Baldwin), who lets him know the gravity of the situation. It seems that Scott's absent-minded-professor dad (Goldblum) is working in his basement laboratory on a secret formula that would cure the human population of all dog allergies. The cat leader, a megalomaniacal white longhair named Mr. Tinkles (Sean Hayes, Will & Grace), knows this will give dogs an unfair advantage in the pet department, so he and his bumbling assistant Calico (Lovitz) enact a fiendish plot to break into the lab, steal the formula, and reverse it, making everyone allergic to dogs. But Butch has a crack staff and the latest technology on his side. Assisting him are Peek (Joe Pantoliano), a surveillance specialist with an impressive array of computers; Sam (The Green Mile's Michael Clarke Duncan), a sheepdog who tries to keep an eye on things despite the shaggy hair blocking his view, and a smart and sultry Collie (Sarandon), who apparently has a romantic past with Butch.

I wish I could say this film was more engaging. The story, penned by newcomers John Requa and Glenn Ficarra, is suitable fare for its primary purpose of making children laugh, but the script lacks any significant attraction for adults, and most of the cast members appear mainly to be putting in time. Maguire offers adequate puppy-esque energy as Lou, and Baldwin and Sarandon have enough experience to at least sound interested, but for the most part, the actors in this film are being paid for allowing their names to be attached to the project, not for any outstanding character work. Meanwhile, we have the computer-generated moving-dog-lips effect that thrilled us all when it first appeared in Babe, but which has become so common (and so sloppy) it is beginning to wear out its welcome. Nifty effects are fine, but once they become an everyday occurrence, it's necessary to support them with more substantive written material than what is presented here. Guterman and the fine folks at Warner Bros. probably know that, but they also know they can count on the innocence of children to excuse a multitude of sins. The only trouble is, some poor sucker has to drive the little darlings to the theater. ★★★

GLAF Earns Mid-Atlantic Arts Foundation Grant

Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF) has been awarded an ArtsCONNECT grant from the Mid-Atlantic Arts Foundation (MAAF) for $3,000 in 2002. The organization will also serve as the lead presenter for a regional touring project next year.

The project will involve the Warren (Pa.) Concert Association, the Weinberg Center for the Arts in Frederick, Messiah College in Grantham, Pa., and Washington-Jefferson College in Washington, Pa. MAAF is funding over 1/3 of the tour's total costs. Linda M. Jose of GLAF, who is the lead presenter coordinator and project representative, completed the grant process.

The consortium of presenters will offer performances and educational outreach programs by the Ahn Trio, a three-sisters chamber ensemble: violinist Angella Ahn, and the twins, pianist Lucia Ahn and cellist Maria Ahn. The sisters tour the world and perform over 100 concerts annually in such venues as the Lincoln Center's Alice Tully Hall, Carnegie's Weill Hall, Chicago's Ravina, Moscow's Tchaikovsky Hall and the Seoul Arts Center. They also conduct hundreds of workshops and master classes around the world for children and adults.

For their performances in 2002, they will offer selections from "Ahnplugged," presenting classical music in a "modern, alternative format."

"The goal of this touring project is to bring classical and chamber music to a diverse audience, especially the youth of the region," Jose said, who noted that GLAF will release the full details about the tour in early 2002.

Since the MAAF was created in 1979, support for the presentation and touring of performing artists in the region has been a hallmark of its programming. The ArtsCONNECT program was designed in 1996 with the purpose of strengthening the presentation of performing artists by supporting advanced artist/presenter collaborations and partnerships anchored in the states and jurisdictions of the mid-Atlantic region. This region served by MAAF includes Delaware, the District of Columbia, Maryland, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, the U.S. Virgin islands, Virginia, and West Virginia.

This year the ArtsCONNECT program will support 12 touring projects representing collaborations among 79 individual presenters. Jose said it is the hope of the MAAF that these collaborations will result in beneficial long-term relationships among presenters and strengthen performing arts in the region. The touring projects provide the potential for sharing information, experiences, and resources between presenter partners, which can lead to a strong presenter network in the region, Jose said.

The ArtsCONNECT program is made possible with the MAAF's partnership with the National Endowment for the Arts Regional Touring Program. Jose said other presenters in the western Maryland region are encouraged to become involved in future ArtsCONNECT and collaborative projects to strengthen the arts in the immediate area. For further information, persons may contact Jose at the GLAF office at 301-387-3082.

OTT ONE-ACTS OPEN THURSDAY — Our Town Theatre's one-act play series will be presented at 8 p.m. each evening Thursday through Saturday, July 19-21, and again during a 2 p.m. Sunday matinee on July 22. The opening one-act, A Device Out of Time, written by Ray Bradbury, is directed by Richard Hill. A Kurt Vonnegut Jr. short story is the basis of the second offering, Long Walk to Forever, performed under the direction of Mikey Virts. Christopher Durang's The Actor's Nightmare, directed by Alex Hill, rounds out the series. The series' directors and cast, pictured from the left in the front row, are the "see no evil, hear no evil, speak no evil" directors' triumvirate of Alex Hill, Virts, and Richard Hill. Standing are Rachel Sinceli (stage manager), Sue Harkins, Barbara Ann Reed, Brandon Mason, Catherine Donaldson, John Armstrong, Josh Elmlinger, Fern Otero Wroten, and John Wilson. Not pictured are fellow cast members Nathan DiSimone and Molly McGowan. All three short plays will be shown at each performance, and reservations can be made by calling the OTT box office at 301-334-5640. The theatre is located at 121 East Center Street in Oakland.

Baroque Music Ensemble Will Perform Saturday At Penn Alps

TEMPESTA DI MARE

Tempesta di Mare, a chamber music ensemble that specializes in works from the 17th and 18th centuries performed on period instruments, will perform this Saturday, July 14, at 7:30 p.m. as part of the Music at Penn Alps series in the Great Hall in Grantsville.

Gwyn Roberts, flute and recorder; Richard Stone, lute; and Eve Miller, viola da gamba, will perform "Handel's London," a work celebrating music popular during the famous composer's lifetime.

"Like New York today, London during Handel's time was the place to be for the risky thrill of making it on one's own," stated a program spokesperson. "It was the biggest and brightest of Europe's few musical 'free markets,' where financial success could be had through public performances — no court appointment or church job necessary. This unique opportunity drew talented performers and composers from all over the continent, making for a spectacularly lively and varied concert scene. The burgeoning community of well-to-do amateur musicians who attended these concerts also assured the success of the music publishing houses. Their bulging catalogues of new compositions and arrangements included plenty of music for recorder, flute, viola da gamba, and lute, all of which were among the most popular instruments in town."

Co-director, flutist, and recorder player Gwyn Roberts is director of Early Music at the University of Pennsylvania and a teacher at the Peabody Conservatory. A graduate of Bryn Mawr, she earned a certificate for her studies in recorder and baroque flute from the Utrecht Conservatory in the Netherlands. She has appeared frequently as a soloist, winning praise from American Record Guide as "a world-class virtuoso." As a member of Piffaro, a Renaissance band, she performed at a variety of music series and festivals. Her recording of Veracini recorder sonatas earned a 5-star rating from BBC Music magazine.

Lutenist and co-director Richard Stone has performed in solo recitals and chamber music series throughout the Americas, Europe, and Asia. The New York Times has called his playing "beautiful and lustrously melancholy." His performance of German baroque lute repertoire won him a prize at the 1999 Festival of Flanders in Bruges. Stone also leads performances of opera and oratorio for theorbo. He is musical director for NYS Baroque. His most recent solo CD is Lute Works of Silvius Leopold Weiss (Titanic).

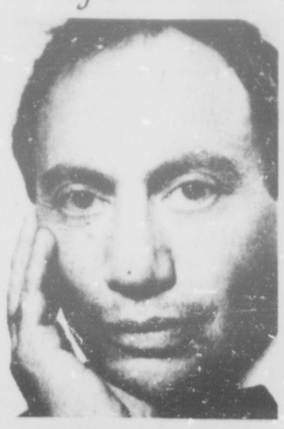
Orlovsky Couple To Present GLAF Program: "From Russia With Love"



ARKADY ORLOVSKY

TAMARA ORLOVSKY

Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF) will present a chamber concert with Arkady and Tamara Orlovsky themed "From Russia With Love" on Sunday, July 22, at 4:30 p.m. This performance will take place in the Sitzmark Room at Will O' the Wisp at Deep Creek Lake.

The concert will feature selections by Beethoven, Borodin, Mozart, and Liszt. Tickets are $10 for adults, $4 for GCC students, and $2 for youth 18 years and younger. A dinner package is available for an additional $10. Tickets can be purchased through the GLAF office at 301-387-3082, Monday through Friday, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Arkady Orlovsky has been principal cellist with the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra since 1978. Born in Russia, he studied at the Leningrad Conservatory, where he completed graduate studies in 1966 under the supervision of Mstislav Rostropovich. As a member of the Leningrad Philharmonic, he performed with such prominent musicians as Stravinsky, Shostakovich, and Prokofiev, in addition to Rostropovich. Arkady has also performed in past seasons with GLAF's Deep Creek Chamber Players.

Tamara Orlovsky, wife of Arkady, is an accomplished pianist and graduate from the Leningrad Conservatory, where she earned a bachelor's degree and the school's coveted Gold Medal. Performing often as a soloist and with chamber groups at the conservatory, it was while serving as studio accompanist to Mstislav Rostropovich when she met Arkady. After their marriage, Mrs. Orlovsky became a piano instructor at the conservatory and pursued a career throughout the former Soviet Union. Since then, she has played all over the world with a repertoire including concerti by Rachmaninov, Liszt, Tchaikovsky, Brahms, Beethoven, Ravel, and Shostakovich.

This performance is sponsored by David and Irene Eyer and is in cooperation with Music at Penn Alps. GLAF's 2001 season sponsors are Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty, Deep Creek Mountain Resort, and the Sprenger-Lang Foundation. GLAF is also funded in part by the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council, an agency funded by the state of Maryland and the National Endowment for the Arts.

Ray Owen Set To Perform At Truck Show Event

Ray Owen, national recording artist and award-winning songwriter and entertainer, will be appearing at the Western Maryland Truck Show to be held August 25 and 26 in Grantsville.

Owen plays a variety of classic American songs and will add his special blend of humor for all audiences. As a highlight for this event, Owen will feature a special tribute to the American trucker.

His latest album release achieved national airplay and was selected as a candidate for a Grammy nomination, which produced tours with such entertainers as Willie Nelson, Arlo Guthrie, Hank Williams Jr., and Bob Hope.

The Pennsylvania Festival Association recently named Ray Owen the Pennsylvania Songwriter of the Year for his "compelling, original songs," and the Philadelphia Inquirer distinguished him as "one of America's premier outdoor fair and festival performers."

According to Owen's biography, "Ray moves proficiently on stage from guitar and harmonica to banjo and concertina to accompany his rich vocals — the connecting thread is cleverness and his delivery is whole-hearted."

Owen will be taking the stage on Sunday, August 26, from noon to 2 p.m.

Evans Family Art Exhibition Opened At GCC

Currently on exhibit through July 31 at the Art Gallery of Garrett Community College are the artworks of the family of Charles P. (Chip) Evans, longtime resident and renowned artist of Garrett County. The show includes the first display of oil paintings by Susan Evans Perando, daughter of Chip and Mary Evans, and organizer of the exhibit. Oil paintings by Alison Evans and the late Jennifer A. Evans are accompanied by drawings and pastels by Joseph P. Evans, watercolors and pastels by Rebecca McClive, and paintings and charcoal drawing by her daughter Devon McClive.

Commenting on the Evans family exhibit, GCC professor of art Ron Skidmore said, "We can see that artistic talent runs in the family — in this case for three generations."

The public is invited to a reception honoring the artists on Friday evening, July 20, from 7 to 9 p.m.

Chip Evans's long career as an artist includes numerous awards and exhibitions. He studied commercial art at Columbia Tech in Washington, D.C., and more recently had oil painting at Frostburg State University with Dr. Jose Rodiero. He has instructed several courses in watercolor painting at the art department of Garrett Community College. His paintings are realist in style. He served in both the U.S. Coast Guard and the U.S. Navy, and worked locally as an electrician for over 20 years. "All this time," he notes, "I painted and drew as a hobby." He currently resides with his wife Mary on Fairview Church Road.

Susan Evans Perando is a draftsperson at Century Engineering, and just began to produce paintings about two years ago. Her style is also realist and based on observation of nature. She resides near Oakland with her husband, Dale Perando.

Rebecca Evans McClive works in oils, watercolors, and pastels, and is largely self-taught. She practices a realist style based on direct observation, and states, "I'm captivated by the play of light on objects for still life, or capturing a fleeting moment when the light is just right for landscapes." Her work has been shown extensively in the area, including a solo exhibition at GCC in August 1999. She resides near Oakland and works with her husband Doug at McClive's Restaurant.

Devon McClive, daughter of Rebecca and Doug McClive, is pursuing an education and career in art. She will be in her junior year this fall at the Savannah College of Art and Design in Georgia.

Joe Evans is currently studying graphic design at Tidewater Community College in Norfolk, Va. His work involves realistic drawing of still life objects with pencils and pastels on toned paper.

Jennifer Evans studied art at the Maryland Institute in Baltimore and was owner of Art Garrett, an art supply and framing store in Oakland. She was prolific as a freelance artist, and painted murals for businesses and private residences. Her paintings display an interest in fantasy along with local landscape scenes in an impressionistic style.

Alison Evans was formerly an art instructor with the Continuing Education Division of GCC, and worked as a nurse at Garrett Memorial Hospital. Her paintings range in subject matter from abstractions to impressionism and historical images.

The GCC Art Gallery is open to the public from 9 a.m. to 5. p.m. Monday through Friday, and on evenings and weekends during special events. For more information, persons may contact the Art Department of GCC at 301-387-3024.

This exhibition is made possible in part by a grant from the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council.

The third annual Bluegrass Festival, sponsored by Puzzley Run Folklife Center Inc., has been scheduled for July 20-22 at Bietschehof Farm, near Grantsville.

Visitors are invited to come Friday afternoon and set up for the weekend in free campsites for tents, campers, or RVs. There are no hookups, but drinking water and rest facilities are provided.

Herbs Can Help People Fall Asleep

It is reported that about half the US population experiences difficulty falling asleep - insomnia - during any year. And about one-third of us have insomnia on a regular basis. Sometimes sleeping difficulties are caused by using "natural" compounds that can disrupt sleep patterns. These include alcohol and caffeine. Eliminating these substances from the diet may relieve the problem.

Some people use nonprescription medicines to aid rest. These products typically contain antihistamines that cause "drowsiness." Sometimes they are very effective.

Several herbs have been advocated for sleeping difficulty. These include kava, valerian, St. John's wort, skullcap, hops, and passion flower Some also are used for other "nervous disorders" including depression and anxiety. We have decades and sometimes centuries of positive experience using herbs for insomnia.

Four SHS Rams Named To First Team All-Area

Seven Garrett County athletes claimed spots on the All-Area baseball team, with four from Southern High School being named to the first team. Area coaches voted Southern's Brad Palmer, Justin DiSimone, Steve Eiswert, and Chad Panther to the first squad, while Bryson Meyers, also of Southern, received enough votes to earn a spot on the second team. Tobi Stoner of Southern and Greg Whittemore of Northern each received honorable mention.

Palmer, named the All-Area catcher, proved himself both offensively and defensively this past season. A junior at Southern, he was second on the team in batting with an average of .404, had three doubles, one triple, and a team-high three homeruns. He scored 15 runs on the season and was third on the team with 20 RBI. On defense he stopped an impressive 68 percent of baserunners attempting to steal, and controlled a pitching staff that boasted a 0.96 ERA.

A senior infielder, DiSimone dominated Southern's team in six different categories: hits, runs, doubles, RBI, pitching wins, and ERA. DiSimone led area pitchers with a 0.76 ERA. His 8-1 record was third best in the area, and his .500 batting average was enough to place him first in the area in doubles. He also recorded one home run and ran away with eight stolen bases. He was eighth in the area with 27 RBI.

Eiswert and Panther were both named as first-team outfielders. Eiswert, a senior, hit over .400 this season with 30 at-bats or more. He was second behind DiSimone in hits and batting average, with 28 hits in 67 at-bats (.418). Seven doubles on the season put him fifth in the area, along with a fourth place spot in triples with two. He recorded 19 RBI, fifth best on the team, and he scored 22 runs.

Panther, a junior, averaged 10 runs per game and was 15th in the area in batting with an average of .366. He had 26 hits in 61 at-bats. Fifteen stolen bases placed him 10th in the area, and 25 runs scored secured a 13th place finish in the area. He also had five doubles and 16 RBI.

Meyers was named the second-team All-Area pitcher, as he finished second in ERA with 0.84 behind DiSimone.

Josh Dolly, a senior from Frankfort, was named the Player of the Year. Rounding out the All-Area first team were Jeremy Rice, Justin Jenkins, Josh Albert, and Aaron Stonebraker, all of Frankfort, and Tony Peters of Fort Hill, Eric Perlozzo of Bishop Walsh, Gerald Mayhew of Keyser, and Nick Simmons of Pendleton.

Six Sweeps This Week In Softball Action

There were six double-header sweeps recorded this week and one double forfeit victory in the Garrett County Area Christian Men's Softball League.

Glade Mennonite won a pair of games against the players from Oak Park, with Lynn Brenneman pitching both of the games. The 19-15 and 12-9 wins boosted the team's record to 11-7 on the season. A single home run was recorded by Jeremy Brenneman of Glade.

Cherry Glade Mennonite cruised past Cornerstone Assembly of God in the first game, posting a 20-9 win. Then the team just barely squeezed by with a 17-16 victory in the second game. Corey Hershberger pitched both games for the winners, and Brent Maust of Cherry Glade and Rick Durst of Cornerstone each had a single home run.

Easy wins were garnered by Gortner Union over Cornerstone in yet another sweep. Led by pitcher John Sharpless, GU amassed a score of 18-6 in the first game and 20-5 in the second game. The winning team had a pair of homeruns scored by players Michael Petersheim and Terry Chapman.

Crellin United Methodist crushed the team from the Oakland Church of the Nazarene 24-5, and 36-6 in the second game. Mike Fazenbaker hurled both games and smacked a single homer, while teammate Ronnie Murphy collected two home runs. A single home run was recorded by Steve Shaffer from the losing team.

Cornerstone finally came out on top with a pair of wins over Crellin AG. Pitcher Rick Durst led his team to a 15-6, 16-15 victory. Ken Yommer of Cornerstone hit one homer, and John Lease from Crellin Assembly launched two.

The sixth sweep came with Mt. View Mennonite's narrow victory over Pleasant View Baptist. The first game ended in 6-4, and the second concluded in an 8-5 win. Gerald Tice was the winning pitcher, and the single homerun of the double-header was hit by Brian Yoder of Mt. View.

In a double forfeit, Mt. View picked up a couple of free wins over Oakland Church of the Nazarene.

Mt. View remains in the lead with an overall record of 16-2, followed by Crellin UM (15-3), Crellin UB (13-5), Gortner (10-6), Glade (11-7), Maple Glen (9-7), Pleasant View (10-10), Cherry Glade (6-12), Oak Park (5-11), Crellin AG (4-14), Nazarene (3-13), and Cornerstone (2-14).

Sailboat Racing
On Deep Creek Lake

A WEEKEND OF THRILLS...AND ONE SPILL
by Dan Muss

Two weeks ago, KDKA-TV came down from Pittsburgh to do a piece on the Flying Scot, the factory located here in Garrett County, and Harry and Karen Carpenter and their family. After visiting the factory and going for a sail with Harry, they filmed a race that was organized for this occasion. The five-minute special was aired on KDKA-TV last Monday and it was very well done. Several of us made tapes, and I'd be glad to lend it to anyone who missed the broadcast.

The local weather forecast on Saturday was for wind 10 to 15 knots out of the southwest. It never got up to 10 knots, and sometimes it blew from the south and sometimes from the west. A few times it blew from the north. I guess that on the average they were close, but it sure was a fluky wind.

The starting line on Saturday was set up for a west wind, but about 30 seconds before our start, the wind veered to the south, making the pin end heavily favored. I started for the pin end on the starboard tack, but the start sounded before I could get there. There were no other boats near me, so we tacked onto port and the rest of the fleet did the same. We were out in front most of the way to the windward mark, but I sailed into a hole and died.

We were in last place rounding the leeward mark and I was blanketed by most of the Flying Scot B Fleet. One boat was so close I could not tack to get away. So I bore off, jibed, and sailed around to the opposite shore where we got a nice breeze. For most of this last windward leg I was in first place again, but Barbara Elster got a beautiful zephyr coming out of the slot and she beat us.

In the second race on Saturday, Larry and Debbie Anderson won the Flying Scot B Fleet for the first time in their short careers as sailboat racers. And they came in third in the other two weekend races. When I saw them Saturday evening they were still excited. There is really intense competition in this fleet, with the several racing teams in contention for the July-August Series. This includes Meredith and Ashley Dodd, Karl Rath and his crew, Frank and Sheila Vandall, Dave Bertsch and Ronn Downey, and Lee and Joan Coraor.

There were thundershowers that night and Sunday looked gloomy and threatening, but the wind was a nice 5-10 knots, with a few gusts up to 15. We got off to a good start and were sailing well when I made a routine tack. A puff hit us, which caught us by surprise. (I had the mainsheet in its cleat, a real no-no.) We were not able to get to the high side fast enough and over we went. I immediately swam out to the top of the mast to keep it from turning turtle and Marilyn Filemyr, my fearless crew, went to the centerboard... but she couldn't reach it. The rescue boat came up; they threw me an extra PFC, which I put under the top of the mast. Tom Wolffe, in charge of rescue, jumped in the water, got on the centerboard, and up came the boat. Tom climbed into my boat and sailed it over to me. Using the emergency ladder we have on our transom, I climbed back in and so did Marilyn. We dropped off Tom at the rescue boat and off we sailed. Thank you, Tom.

Neither one of us felt tired, so we decided to sail the course for the fun and practice of it. We could not be scored because we had had help righting the boat. It certainly was an exciting day.

Area Speedway Review

by Cheryl Baker-Stasiak

It was an evening of repeat winners in all divisions at the Interstate 79 Speedway last Friday evening. It was a special event for the Pure Stock Division, and it was Jim Byers's fifth visit to the victory lane. He picked up the win after being fast qualifer with a time of 18.704 and finishing second in the dash to James Bendishaw. This gave Byers the outside pole. He managed to get the advantage at the drop of the green and led the entire 20-lap event. Bendishaw was second and Chad Green was third. Jay Martin, Rick Ball, Chuck Bloom, Pat Frazier, Joe Loudin, Dusty Hamrick, and Donnie Lewis rounded out the top 10.

Butch McGill entered the winners' circle for the second time in 2001 in the Late Model division. McGill started from the third spot, passed Bobby Hill on lap 2, and never looked back. Hill held on for the second spot. A hard charging Paul Wilmoth Jr. came from 15th to finish third and picked the Timberwolf Hard Charger award. Scott Miles, Chuck Harper, Gary Dalton, Mark McGill, Chad McDougal, Duke Pratt, and Doug Horton rounded out the top 10.

In the Semi-Late Division, M.T. Hall was first to the checkered flag for the third time this year. Jeff Kesling took the lead at the drop of the green. He held on to the lead until lap 9 when Hall got the advantage. L.C. Powers was second and Steve Wilmoth was third. Stanley Spooner and Roy Gibson rounded out the top five. Duane Moreland, Kesling, Mark Kelly, Chad Forman, and Billy Holbert were sixth through 10th.

In the AMRA Modifieds, Shawn Davis picked up his second checkered flag in as many weeks. Deck Defibaugh took the lead when the green was dropped and led until lap 9 when Steve Cook took over. Cook's lead was short-lived, as Davis headed him off on lap 11. Cook held onto second, while David Defibaugh was third. Deck Defibaugh was fourth and Jerry Haseleu was fifth.

Dave Summers led the entire race to make it five in a row in the four-cylinder division. Thomas Simpson and Mike Lewis followed him across the finish line. Kevin Pifer and Skip Raupach were fourth and fifth.

LOCAL MAN WINS GAME OF LOGGING — Eric D. Glotfelty recently won the Maryland regionals in the Game of Logging during the Western Maryland Loggers & Forest Field Day at the McHenry fairgrounds. The participants competed in several events: chain sharpening, timed cuts-up and down, bore cut, precision buck, precision stump, springpole, and felling. The focus of the competition is to spread the word about chain saw safety, personal protection, and directional felling techniques. Eric, in the center, was presented with a check for $1,000 and a new Husqvarna power saw by Tim Ard, forest applications for the Game of Logging trainer, on the right. Eric's father, Butch, is pictured on the left. This win entitles Eric to compete in Booneville, N.Y., on August 18 at the national competition with a chance to win the first place prize of $10,000. He is the son of Ann and Butch Glotfelty and the grandson of Betty and Don Glotfelty, all of Oakland, and Claudine Calhoun, Mtn. Lake Park. Other local winners are David Opel, Grantsville, second place; David Opel Jr., Grantsville, fourth place; and Kevin Beckman, Oakland, fifth place.

Manta Rays Win Several Races In Backstroke Meet

The Garrett County Manta Rays participated in the annual Cumberland YMCA breaststroke meet this past week at the YMCA pool, and captured a number of first and second places in both A and B flight divisions.

Earning a first place in A flight was Adam Gibson, senior boys, who won the 200-yard breaststroke race.

Placing first in B flight races were the following Manta Rays: Jimmy Carpenter, senior boys, 50 breast; Laura Hollingsworth, senior girls, 50 breast; Julie Holloway, junior girls, 50 freestyle; Lindsey Strubin, junior girls, 50 breast; Matt Damanski, prep boys, 50 free; Andrew Kight, prep boys, 50 free; Alec Holloway, cadet boys, 25 free; Corey Helbig, tyke boys, 25 free; Logan Jenkins, mini-tyke boys, 25 free; and Sara Jones, mini-tyke girls, 25 breast and 25 free.

Earning second places in A flight races were: Adam Gibson, senior boys, 100 breast and 50 free; Jordan Lantz, junior boys, 100 breast; Josh Lantz, senior boys, 200 breast; and Kristen Yant, tyke girls, 25 breast.

Second places in B flight events were won by: Jimmy Carpenter, senior boys, 50 free; Ethan Chorpenning, prep boys, 50 free; Laura Hollingsworth, senior girls, 50 free; Alec Holloway, cadet boys, 25 breast; and Courtney Strubin, tyke girls, 25 breast and 25 free.

Winning a first place in relay competition was the tyke team of Kristen Yant, Katie Anderson, Kurt Gangler, and Courtney Strubin, while the senior team of Josh Lantz, Adam Gibson, Jenny Sisler, and Jordan Lantz won second place.

The next competition for the Manta Rays will be the annual butterfly meet, slated for this Friday, July 13.

ATHLETICS, YES, BUT NEW EXPERIENCES, TOO — The focus of the week was definitely the competition, but Coach Brosnihan said that what was perhaps more significant was the experience of mingling with children from all over the world. The youngsters exchanged pins and cards, and attempted to communicate despite language differences. The competition portion of the week is depicted in the photo above, showing the junior trio team captivating the audience (members Rachel Margroff, Kelsey Jones, and Jessica Warnick). And the life experiences can be seen in the picture at right, as Morgan Brosnihan, her hair decorated with American flags, dances with a gleeful Japanese peer. Photos by Dave Taylor

THE MEDAL CEREMONY -- Alissa Garland, world silver medalist, was all smiles at the medal ceremony as she stood next to the gold medalist from Japan. Coach Brosnihan said the young Garrett Countian, shown at left, was poised and humble about her accomplishment. A thrilling aspect of her achievement was the fact that she out-scored the three-time national champion in her division, Chelsea Sullivan, of North Carolina, shown at right with the bronze medal.

ANOTHER TOP ATHLETE of the Garrett County Sportaerobic Team is Jessie Railey, pictured above as she is interviewed by an ABC affiliate. Because of a contest rule in the world championship that allows only two competitors from the same country in each division, Jessie was edged out of the finals. But Coach Brosnihan has high hopes for Jessie's continued successes. "Jessie has grown so much over the past three years. She is an outstanding athlete and, more importantly, she's a wonderfully mature young person. I'm so proud of her, and of Mariana Beitzel, another star athlete." Beitzel dealt with an agonizing obstacle at the competition, having injured her ankle severely at a practice performance. Despite her injury, she was the number-one seed for the U.S. team after the qualifying round, during which she defeated the current national champion. She placed 11th out of nearly 40 competitors, which Brosnihan said was very impressive considering her injury.

SMILE, YOU'RE ON ESPN! The success of the local sportaerobic team at last week's world championship will be a part of a program to be aired in October by ESPN. The sports network covered the entire event, portions of which will be included in the program. Several of the local athletes were interviewed personally, and the entire group was captured on tape as the members demonstrated their characteristic team spirit.

well, Alayna Gaither, Kelsey Jones, Jessica Warnick, and Rachel Margroff) earned the top spot at nationals, and at the world championships, our other junior team, Spirit (Chelsea Crosco, Morgan Brosnihan, Krista Ridder, Abby Wildesen, Anna Keefer, Brittany Harvey, and Grace Herpel), out-scored Magic, so each team shares in equal accomplishments," the coach said.

Also advancing to the finals was Marlana Beitzel, who ranked in 11th place after the final contest.

"Marlana has had a challenging year with illness and injury. At this competition she was nursing a sprained ankle, and we were very pleased at the performances she was able to deliver," Brosnihan said. "In the qualifying round, she defeated the current national champion and was the number-one seed for the U.S. team."

The coach explained that at the championship contest, only two athletes from each country are allowed to advance to the final rounds of competition.

"Jessie Railey did a fantastic routine, but because of the two-athlete rule, she was unable to advance to the finals. She will be a strong hopeful for next year's events," the coach said. Railey participated in a television interview with an NBC affiliate and the team was interviewed by ABC and ESPN. WHAG in Hagerstown covered performances by the team prior to its departure for competition.

The team will be on a television special slated to air in October on ESPN. The show will cover the adult competition and show introduction of all the youth athletes, Brosnihan said.

In addition to the competition, the young Garrett County athletes went sightseeing in the city and enjoyed some relaxed time with other athletes from around the world. The team members were also included in a special limousine ride for the entire U.S. youth team.

Parent Jane Wildesen said the contest provided more than an athletic competition for the young people.

"They got to experience and enjoy the many attractions of a big city, and they were the most socially interactive group at the event," Wildesen said. "They dominated the energy in the room by cheering, singing, and dancing. Their enthusiasm was contagious. The exchange of pins, cards, and conversation with children of all languages was so much fun to watch."

Brosnihan said the athletes and their parents are grateful to the local businesses who supported the team's fund-raising efforts.

"Their support is what made it possible for our team to represent our county, state, and country at this international event. A special thanks to Uno's and Railey Realty for being our corporate sponsors," said Brosnihan.

For more information about the team's accomplishments, persons may go to the group's web site at www.sportaerobics.org. A commemorative book is also available upon request.

Tryouts for the 2002 team will be held this fall.

Oakland Senior All-Stars Win District; States Next

The Oakland Senior League All-Stars successfully defended their district championship this past week by defeating Clear Spring, 8-7, on Saturday in the title game, played at Broadford Park. The Oakland players topped Clear Spring, 6-2, in an opening-round contest, and earned a spot in the district finals by rolling over Maugansville, 15-2.

The local team will travel to Cambridge for the state tournament, to be played July 21-27.

Tobi Stoner was the winning pitcher in the first game with Clear Spring, as he allowed only two hits, walked just two, and struck out five in going the distance. He also aided his own cause by going 3-for-4 at the plate, with a home run.

Shortstop Bud Fazenbaker gave Oakland a 2-0 lead in the early going with a two-run homer.

"I knew when we arrived at the field that everyone would be ready to play," stated team manager Doug Copeland. "The kids knew their pitcher, Adam Mills, because he had beaten Oakland twice last year. But we were up for the challenge."

Stoner put Oakland ahead early in the game against Maugansville the next day, as he ripped another home run in the first inning. Billy Reams provided two homers, and Bryan VanBogelen smacked a pinch-hit grand slam to break the game wide open.

Dennis Tressler pitched a complete game to get the win on the mound. He allowed only three hits and struck out seven batters.

"Dennis is an excellent pitcher, and he had everything working well today, especially his slider," Copeland said. "Plus, anytime you give a good pitcher four runs in the first inning, you give him a good chance to succeed."

Oakland trailed throughout most of the title game against Clear Spring on Saturday, but then scored three runs in the bottom of the sixth to take the lead for good.

Clear Spring held a 7-5 lead going into the bottom of the sixth. Dan Vagnetti led off with a single for Oakland. The next two batters were retired, but A.J. Bender kept things alive by drawing a walk. Stoner followed with an RBI single to cut the lead to 7-6. Then Fazenbaker plated the tying and winning runs with a two-out, two-strike single, on which Bender scored easily, and Stoner was called safe when he slid into home plate.

Reams, who took the mound for Oakland in the third inning, pitched a perfect seventh inning to secure the win.

"Bill did a great job," Copeland said. "He stepped into the game in a difficult spot and shut them down for five innings, which enabled us to come back."

Reams allowed just one run in five innings of relief.

"I was very impressed when we beat Adam Mills (Clear Spring pitcher) twice in a row," Copeland added, "because he is a fine pitcher."

Copeland said it is because of the "outstanding work ethic" of his coaches and players that Oakland has won three straight district titles.

"I also believe that much of our success is because of Coach Jim Bosley at Southern High School and Coach Phil Carr at Northern," he said. "They teach these kids discipline and baseball so well that we don't have to do a lot of teaching. We have never had a discipline problem with our kids.

"I really feel that we can compete with anyone in the state, and we plan to return to Oakland with another senior league state championship," he concluded.

Oakland Junior All-Stars Cruise To District Title

Coasting to another district championship last week was the Oakland Junior League All-Star team, a squad that crushed Clear Spring, 10-0, in the opening game of the tournament, then manhandled Maugansville, 11-1, and finally rolled over Halfway, 21-4, in the title game.

The team will advance to the state tournament, which will be played at Maugansville (Hagerstown area) beginning Saturday, July 21.

Scott Wildesen was the winning pitcher in the game against Clear Spring, as he struck out nine batters in the contest, which was shortened to five innings because of the 10-run rule.

Meanwhile, the Oakland batters recorded 11 hits, with Andrew VanBogelen, Aaron Louden, Tyler Livengood, and Josh Rodeheaver each getting two hits.

The game against Maugansville was called after six innings because of the 10-run rule, and Louden was the winning pitcher.

The Oakland players were held scoreless until the third inning, when they picked up two runs via hits by Corey Bosley and Louden. They added one run in the fourth and two more in the fifth with a two-run homer by Louden.

Going into the sixth inning with a 5-1 advantage, Oakland ended the contest by scoring six runs on six hits, which included a three-run homer by Jason Weeks.

Oakland finished with 13 hits.

The local team wasted no time taking control of Saturday's title game with Halfway, as the Oaklanders plated seven runs in the first inning on four walks, three doubles, and a single. Andrew VanBogelen accounted for two of the doubles.

Oakland scored three more runs in the second on three hits and a walk, and added nine runs in the third with three walks, four hits, and three Halfway errors. Two more runs were recorded in the fourth via three hits.

Winning pitcher Jason Weeks had four of his team's total of 14 hits, while Brad Reese finished with three and VanBogelen and Louden each had two.

Oakland Oaks Split Twinbill With Rosemont

The Oakland Oaks of the Pen-Mar Baseball League split a doubleheader with visiting Rosemont on Saturday, winning the first game, 3-2, and dropped in the second, 9-5. The split left the Oaks with an overall mark of 4-14.

Jarret Townsend hit a two-run homer for Oakland in the first game, while Joey DiSimone contributed an RBI single. Josh Bosley went the distance on the mound, struck out 10 batters, and allowed just three hits.

Oakland trailed throughout the second game, as Rosemont took a 2-0 lead in the first, was up 5-1 after two innings, led 7-3 at the end of the third inning, and was on top 7-5 after five at the conclusion of the fifth. Frantz went the distance for the win and struck out 11 batters in the process.

There were no other game results received.

Several members of the Oakland team played in the annual all-star game on Saturday at Garrett Community College, a contest that was won by the Pen-Mar team over the Fayette County (Pa.) all-stars, 10-2.

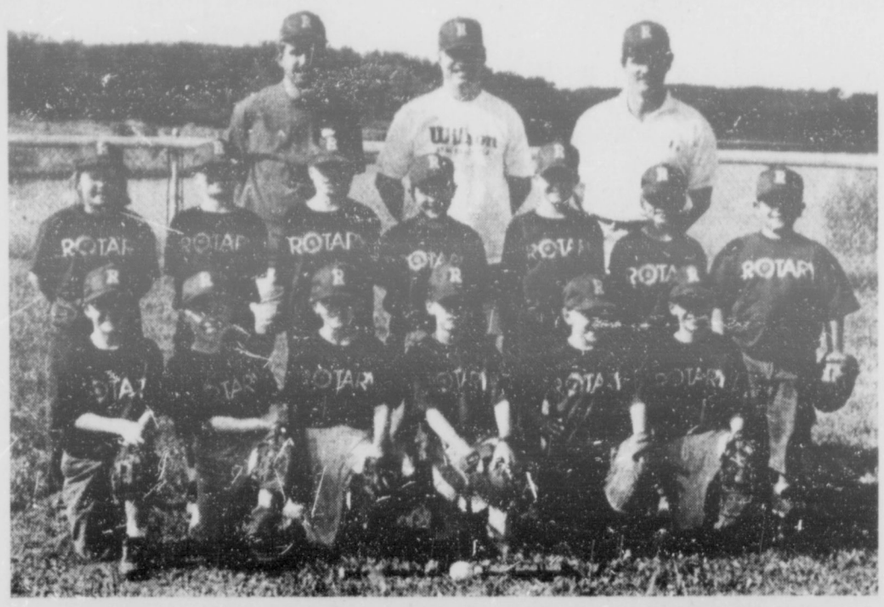
PITCHING HIS WAY TO VICTORY, and aiding his own cause by going 3-for-4 with his bat, was Tobi Stoner, who led the Oakland Senior League All-Stars to a 6-2 victory over Clear Spring in the district playoffs. Stoner allowed just two hits, walked two, and struck out five in going the distance. His team then whipped Maugansville, 15-2, and edged Clear Spring a second time, 8-7, to retain the district title. The local squad will compete in the state championships July 21-27.



CONCLUDING THEIR SEASON recently with a dramatic championship game at Broadford Park were the players in the Oakland Minor League, as the team sponsored by the Oakland Rotary Club rallied to edge the Oakview Motors team, 7-6, in extra innings. The Rotary team knotted the score at 6-6 in the final regular inning. Then in the top of the seventh, Ryan Kroll hit a single to bring home Ryan White with the winning run. Oakview Motors left runners stranded in the bottom of the inning, giving Rotary the 7-6 victory and the league title. Oakland Rotary team members pictured above include, kneeling, from left: Kody Sanders, Michael Crotts, Austin Moon, Ryan Kroll, Blake Dever, and Tyler Sanders. Standing, second row, are: Nicole Sisler, D.J. Ritchie, Sean Sisler, Aron Lipscomb, Seth Hinebaugh, Ryan White, and Ryan Tasker. In row three are coaches Jeff Lipscomb and Tom Crotts, and manager Gary Kroll. Oakview Motors players are pictured below and include, kneeling, from left: Cody Reckart, Chaz Fike, Brandon Burns, Zach Knotts, Kevin Helbig, and Ryan Martin. Doerr's Wins Battle Of Unbeatens; Record Is 14-0

The Hot Stove League team sponsored by Doerr's Construction maintained a perfect record this week, despite facing the only other undefeated team in the league. Doerr's recorded a 6-4 victory over the previously unbeaten Frostburg Eagles in a contest played at Hamilton Field. It was the 14th straight win in as many starts for Doerr's and the first loss in 14 games for the Eagles.

Doerr's spotted the Eagles a 2-0 advantage in the first inning, knotted the score at 2-2 with single runs in the second and third frames, and took a 4-2 lead with a pair of runs in the fifth. The Eagles rallied to tie the score at 4-4 with two runs in the sixth, but Doerr's iced the win with two runs in the bottom of that inning.

Dan Ellis stroked a two-run single for Doerr's in the fifth to give his team a 4-2 lead. Eagle Chris Custer brought his team back in the top of the sixth with a two-run double, but Doerr's won the game in the bottom of the sixth with several walks and a sacrifice.

Jason Rice and Torrey Poholsky combined on a three-hitter, with Rice striking out nine batters in his five innings, and Poholsky fanning out three in the final one and two-thirds innings.

Doerr batters recorded five hits off Custer, including two singles by Preston Sisler.

Doerr's was slated to play Young's Unlimited on Tuesday, but that contest was rained out. They are scheduled to host Barton Mining today and then conclude the regular season on Saturday with a make-up game at G&S Coal in Cumberland. League playoffs will begin next week, but that schedule will not be set until after Saturday's game.

Garrett County Legion Team Falls To Cumberland, Petersburg

The Garrett County American Legion baseball team went 0-3 this past week in Mountain District play, as the local team was swept by host Fort Cumberland on Saturday, 6-4 and 7-0, and then dropped a 6-5 decision to Petersburg on Monday at the Garrett Community College diamond in McHenry.

The Fort Cumberland nine won the district title with its pair of victories, which also upped their district record to 7-1. Their overall record is 9-6. They will next face a team from Montgomery County in a game set for July 23, the winner of which will move on to the Maryland state tournament in Hagerstown.

Chad Keller led Fort Cumberland to its double victory on Saturday, as he hit a home run in each game and pitched a four-hit shutout in the nightcap.

Keller's first homer came in the third inning of the opener, which gave his team a 3-1 advantage. Fort Cumberland added three runs in the fourth and took a 6-2 lead on an RBI single by Justin Mallow and a two-run round-tripper by Bob Crissey.

Also among Cumberland's eight hits were a double and a single by Eric Perlozzo, and two singles each by Mallow and Troy Weisenmiller. Tony Fetters contributed a double.

Mallow went the distance, allowed six hits, and fanned seven Garrett County batters. Bryson Meyers stroked a two-run double for Garrett County, while Justin DiSimone and Steve Skipper each finished with a double.

The second game was a defensive struggle until the fifth inning, as Fort Cumberland went into that frame with a slim 1-0 advantage. But the home team proceeded to score six runs in the fifth to give them the 7-0 shutout. The inning featured an RBI single by Perlozzo, a two-run blast by Keller, a run-producing double by Fetters, and back-to-back RBI singles by Chris Smith and Weisenmiller.

Recording a double and a single each in the 10-hit effort were Fetters and Knots.

Greg Whittemore accounted for half of Garrett County's hits, as he rapped two singles.

Keller struck out five batters and retired the last 13 batters in order.

A two-run single in the top of the ninth by Petersburg Post 78's Nick Simmons cost Garrett County Monday's game, as the local team had a 5-4 lead going into that final frame.

Petersburg took a 3-0 advantage in the first inning, in which Simmons tripled, Tyrone Haines doubled, and Daniel Barb and John Ray Funkhouser each had RBIs.

Garrett County answered with a single run in the bottom of the first, two in the third to knot the score at 3-3, and two more in the fourth to take a 5-3 lead. The runs in the fourth were scored when Josh Fitzwater stole home and Steve Skipper scored on a sacrifice fly by Bryson Meyers.

After cutting the lead to 5-4 with a single run in the eighth, Petersburg won the game in the ninth when Simmons rapped a two-out single with the bases loaded, which scored the tying and what would be the winning run.

Simmons finished with a triple and two singles to lead Petersburg, while Paul Nicol hit two singles and Wes Berg had two RBI. Ricky Reams recorded three singles for Garrett County, and Jared Fike had two singles and three RBI.

The victory improved Petersburg's record to 3-13.

Garrett County Leads State In Turkey Harvest

According to figures released this week by DNR Secretary Sarah J. Taylor-Rogers, Garrett County hunters led the state this spring in number of turkeys harvested, with a total of 541.

Hunters set a new Maryland harvest record for spring turkey hunting in 2001, reporting a harvest of 3,075 wild turkeys.

"Wild turkey populations have been expanding across Maryland," Secretary Taylor-Rogers said. "The high quality wild turkey habitat found throughout Maryland has benefited the species tremendously. We would not be able to sustain this level of harvest without good, quality habitat. Likewise, annual production has been sufficient to sustain turkey populations at levels that can support a continued spring harvest. This is the first time the spring hunting harvest has exceeded 3,000 birds."

Following Garrett County in the turkey count were the counties of Allegany (340), Dorchester (317), Washington (266), Worcester (255), Charles (179), Wicomico (160), Somerset (154), Frederick (154), and Calvert (112).

Garrett County youths also topped the harvest with a total of 26 turkeys, followed by Allegany with 24, and Dorchester and Washington counties with 17 and 12, respectively.

Spring harvests continue to increase in areas where turkey populations were established through the trap and relocation program. Supplemental releases have also boosted turkey flocks in other areas. Turkey populations in southern Maryland and on the lower Eastern Shore continue to increase as turkeys expand into new territories. Harvests in these areas continue to set new records at the county level. The typically thriving population areas in western Maryland have stabilized.

Turkeys have occupied all suitable habitat in western Maryland, and population levels are more a factor of the success of the current year's production. Hatching success and poult production have been below average in Western Maryland for four of the last five years, resulting in a more stable population.

Weather conditions were fairly good for most of the season, except for rains across most of the state during the first several days of the season. Reports received from hunters indicated that turkeys were gobbling early in the season, but then remained relatively quiet for the last several weeks.

Garrett County Outdoors

By Robert Yonke

Weather certainly has been a factor in outdoor sports recently. The week surrounding the Fourth of July holiday went from sublime to ridiculous, sometimes swinging dramatically in the same day. Many local fishermen found a spurt of action toward the end of the week and noticed it slowed significantly in the periods of bright sunshine.

Also, the bass and other game species have moved into deeper water and have to be fished for a bit differently now as compared to early-season technique. Some have found trolling a live minnow some seven to 10 feet below the surface in waters from 12 to 20 feet deep will produce strikes from larger bass. However, this isn't the only way to go after these fish in deeper water. A simple way to reach them is to fish from the many docks that line Deep Creek Lake. A relatively short cast fanned around the ends of the docks can get to perfect depths. The key is to move a bait that isn't getting any attention.

The time to be alert when fishing from the docks is just after the bait has been moved. As the retrieve stops, the bait will settle back to the bottom and this is the time when many strikes come. Fishing from a dock can be a very comfortable exercise and a good way to enjoy the company of wives, kids, friends, and other fishermen. A deck chair, cooler of refreshment, some snacks...now that's tough to beat. Many fishermen are surprised at the variety of game and panfish willing to take minnows, worms, or grubs. Recent dock catches have included largemouth and smallmouth bass, chain pickerel, big bluegill, walleye, and an occasional catfish. It's a great way to spend a midsummer morning, afternoon, or evening, though morning seems to be the most productive.

A WORD OF CAUTION

Over the holiday weekend, a number of kayakers were seen on Deep Creek Lake. When the kayakers are in numbers and using brightly colored craft they are readily visible and motor boaters can avoid them safely. The danger comes when a single kayaker gets visually "lost" in choppy water. It seems that a prudent practice for anyone venturing onto the lake in any small craft such as a canoe or kayak would be to wear brightly colored garments. This would increase their visibility immensely. Avoiding the heavier traffic areas also makes sense.

MARYLAND'S SPRING TURKEY SEASON SETS NEW STATE RECORD

DNR Secretary Sarah J. Taylor-Rogers announced the results of the recently completed 2001 spring turkey season. Sportsmen and women set a new Maryland harvest record for spring turkey hunting in 2001, reporting a harvest of 3,075 wild turkeys. Garrett County led the pack, with a harvest of 541.

This is the first time the spring hunting harvest has exceeded 3,000 birds.

Spring harvests continue to increase in areas where turkey populations were established through the trap and relocation program. Supplemental releases have also boosted turkey flocks in other areas. Turkey populations in southern Maryland and on the lower Eastern Shore continue to increase as turkeys expand into new territories. Property To Be Purchased By Baptist Church

The New Testament Baptist congregation will soon be purchasing the church property at 710 Dung Hill Road, Grantsville.

Pastor Tony R. Wilburn, formerly of Highland Baptist Church in Cumberland, will be residing over the services at the new church.

The previous church that was at the property has been relocated to Accident, and the new congregation is looking for any information concerning the church such as the date it was built and details about the graveyard, which has the graves of many Civil War and World War II veterans.

During the organization of the new congregation, members of Highland Baptist and Dr. Jack W. Lancaster were present to give authority for the new church to operate. New members were received, and everyone signed the bylaws of the church. A fellowship meal celebrating the new establishment followed.

Church services have already been scheduled, and regular church activities are being planned.

The church schedule is: Sunday school at 10 a.m., Sunday morning worship services at 11 a.m., and a service Sunday evening at 7 p.m. There will also be a Wednesday Bible study at 7:30 p.m.

Persons with any information concerning the aforementioned may call 301-895-4001.

Dem Dinner

head table included Thomas Bratten, central committee chairperson; Floyd R. Baker, president of the Garrett County Democratic Club; Speaker of the House Casper Taylor and his wife; and others. Doris Goldsborough and Bratten co-chaired the dinner committee.

Thomas Dabney presented the Garrett County Democrat of the Year award to Rosalee Pratt Finch, the vice chairperson of the central committee and a member of the dinner committee.

Townsend mingled with the crowd for some time before the dinner began, and during the program was presented with a large box of gift items, including a Garrett County afghan, maple syrup, and a Simon Pearce piece. Several individuals at the microphone expressed their hope that Townsend will be the next governor of Maryland.

In her speech, Townsend said she had spent "one of the most inspirational hours as lieutenant governor" earlier that day, having met with entrepreneurs with Garrett Community Action's MicroWorks program. She spoke of Howard Kepple, who reluctantly gave up dairy farming in the mid-1990s but is now successful as a wrought iron builder/artist. She also spoke of Autumn Shay, the young stable owner who initiated her own business as a teenager.

"The success of your MicroWorks program is simply extraordinary," Townsend said. She also praised the successes of the Local Management Board (LMB) and Healthy Families.

The lieutenant governor vacations often in Garrett County and said she feels at home on the mountaintop. "I respect your love of the land, and the fact that you engage in helping each other through so many great programs. I respect Garrett County because you take charge, you say, 'We need results' and you get them. Too often people are afraid of setting goals because they are sure they won't reach them. But not here."

Another feature of the evening was a short talk by an Estonian exchange student, Haiku Sikka, who is enrolled at Garrett Community College. She spoke of being born at a time when her country was behind the iron curtain.

"When I was a child, things like soap and toilet paper were luxuries. My mother stood in line for hours to buy them," she said. When she was 15, the curtain was lifted. "For the first time, we knew our phone was not bugged. My grandparents got their first phone just four months ago. That must seem strange to you," she said. "I am so happy to be here in the United States, here in Garrett County, where I am free, where I am encouraged to pursue an education."

At the end of the evening, Leonard Eiswert sang "America the Beautiful," and Father Feild gave the benediction.

In an interview before the dinner, she said she will continue to make the westernmost county a place for her family to visit and enjoy. "We love it here. How can you not?" she said, gesturing to the Pleasant Valley fields. She and her husband David are the parents of four daughters.

Sheriff's Deputies Make Numerous Drug Arrests

Garrett County sheriff's deputies made several arrests for controlled dangerous substances (CDS) this past weekend.

Deputies stopped Christopher A. Ford for speeding on B Street and discovered his license had been suspended in South Carolina. A subsequent search revealed that Ford was in possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia.

Ford was released from the Garrett County Detention Center after posting $500 bond.

In a separate incident on Saturday, deputies stopped Terry Graybill, 50, Adamstown, who was operating a 1995 Chevrolet Suburban on Route 50, for crossing the centerline.

Graybill was also arrested for driving while intoxicated (DWI). According to police, a search of the vehicle revealed a pipe with suspected marijuana.

T. Graybill and his passenger, Karen Graybill, 42, Adamstown, were both charged with possession of CDS and paraphernalia.

T. Graybill posted $500 bond, and K. Graybill was released on personal recognizance.

While deputies were assisting the Southern Rescue Squad with a seizure patient, a consent search was conducted on passenger Richard Louis Cramer, 43, McCoole, which uncovered a CDS pipe and a quantity of suspected marijuana.

Cramer was arrested and charged with CDS possession and possession of related paraphernalia.

He was released on his own recoginzance.

Two Oakland men were arrested Friday around 9 p.m. for drug possession by the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force and the sheriff's office when they stopped a 1989 Chevrolet for an equipment violation.

A K-9 scan of the vehicle by police dog Tara was positive for the presence of the odor of narcotics. A search revealed that Geoffrey A. Reams, 18, was in possession of approximately two ounces of marijuana and a set of hand scales. Reams was charged with possession of marijuana with the intent to distribute, possession of marijuana, and possession of CDS paraphernalia. Reams was released after posting bond.

A smaller amount of marijuana was found on Scott Kelley, 19. Kelley was charged with possession of marijuana.

A "FOREVER FRIEND"

Scriptures Selected by The American Bible Society

Copyright 2001, Keisler-Williams Newspaper Services,
P. O. Box 8005, Charlottesville, VA 22906, www.kwnews.com

Many of us are fortunate enough to have had at least one really good friend... that person who saw us through good times and bad times. This was the friend we could trust with our innermost desires and secrets ...the one who would love us no matter what we did... a "forever friend".

Perhaps you were not so lucky... an "outsider"... the last one to be picked for the team at recess, but the first one to be "picked on". How difficult that was.

Whether you are surrounded by friends or you are a "loner", you need God to be your constant friend and companion. In Proverbs 17:17 we read, "A friend loveth at all times." God's unfailing love and direction provides peace for the soul as His power gives you courage to live each day.

God, your "forever friend" awaits at your church or synagogue. He wants to be your constant companion. Worship each week.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

AN ADULTEROUS PEOPLE

July 15, 2001

Background Scripture:
Hosea 1 through 2.
Devotional Read:
Psalms 100.

Hosea is a story on two levels. There is the personal marital and parental life of Hosea the prophet and there is also the story of Israel's relationship with the Lord. Hosea's troubles with Gomer, his wife, were symbolic of God's problems with the people of Israel. The problem on both levels is unfaithfulness.

On both levels the outlook is grim and forboding. The problem is not just that Israel has stumbled once or twice, but that it persists in its unfaithfulness despite God's love. It is a resistant unfaithfulness, a repetitious and ruinous behavior. It is much the same with Hosea's marriage. At God's bidding, Hosea married a woman with an undeniable reputation as a prostitute. I assume that, when Hosea married her, she promised to be faithful to him and give up her life of harlotry. In Hosea 1 there is no indication that she continued or even returned to her old ways. But in Hosea 2, the prophet proclaims, "Plead with your mother, plead—for she is not my wife, and I am not her husband—that she put away her harlotry from her face, and her adultery from between her breasts..." (2:1). (Later, in Hosea 3, it will become clear that Gomer did, in fact, slip back into her old ways as a prostitute and adulteress, so that Hosea asserts that, although he is no longer her husband, she is still the mother of Jezreel.)

Our Infidelity

No matter what we may feel for Hosea and Gomer in their troubled marriage, the message here is about Israel's—and our—unfaithfulness to God. Hosea boldly likens the relationship of Israel to God to that of a wife to her husband. This relationship is like a marriage, founded upon mutual promises and the expectation of fidelity. (Hosea's allusion to God as the 'husband' of Israel is the first such allusion in the Old Testament; similar references are made in Idsiah 54:05; Jeremiah 3:20 and Ezekiel 16:32). The charge was not just that Israel sinned against the Lord, but that in doing so Israel was breaking its vows.

We can related to this on both a personal and corporate level. As those who have in some way pledged ourselves to follow Jesus Christ we have made a commitment even more important and binding than the commitments we have made in marriage and other relationships. Our transgressions are double in that we both sin and violate our commitment. I once had a parishioner—a faithful one at that—who refused to join the church because he believed he might not be able to live up to the commitment. He believed it was worse to make the commitment and not live up to it than not to make the commitment at all. I disagreed but I never won the argument.

He was at least correct in his estimation of the seriousness of commitment to the Lord. Israel was inclined not to take their infidelity too seriously; in fact, they probably didn't see it as infidelity. So, God uses Hosea to reach the people of Israeliters with the seriousness of their broken commitments. He instructs Hosea to name his first child Jezreel. You may remember that Jezreel is the name of a place in Palestine where, upon the violent demise of King Ahab, the house of Jehu had been established upon the throne of Israel. Now, by naming his first son 'Jezreel', Hosea is reminding the king of what happened to the unfaithful King Ahab. "...I will punish the house of Jehu (YAY-who) for the blood of Jezreel, and I will put an end to the kingdom of the house of Israel..." (1:4)

The second child of Hosea and Gomer, a girl, is to be named 'Loruamah' which means "Not pitied, for I will have no more pity on the house of Israel, to forgive them at all...I will not deliver them by bow, nor by sword, nor by war, nor by horses, nor by horsemen" (1:6,7). Still, a third child was born to Hosea and Gomer, so we must assume she remained with Hosea long enough to conceive and bear three children—at the very least 27 months and probably more. The third child, a boy, God instructed the prophet, was to be named 'Lo-ammi', meaning: "Not my people, for you are not my people and I am not your God" (1:8).

That's the bad news, but there is also good news if the people, like Gomer, can realize: "I will go and return to my first husband, for it was better with me then than now" (2:7b). Then, God says, "I will have pity on Not pitied, and I will say to Not my people, 'You are my people', and he shall say, 'Thou art my God'" (2:23). That is good news for Israel and for us.

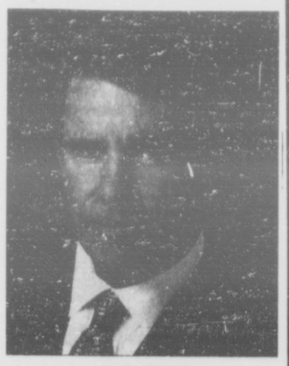
Reader learns she doesn't know Jack (Ford)

By Taylor Michaels
©TVData Features Syndicate



Jack Ford

Q: I always thought Jack Ford, who appears on Good Morning America, was the son of Gerald and Betty Ford. Now I am told I am wrong. Am I? –Arlene Fox, Canandaigua, N.Y.

A: Yes, but it's a common mistake. The ABC News correspondent, who recently delivered the commencement speech at Seton Hall University, is not related to John "Jack" Gardner Ford, the 49-year-old son of former President and Mrs. Gerald Ford.

Q: What has happened to twins Mary-Kate and Ashley Olsen? –Mrs. Walter Lumbeck, Exeter, N.H.

A: How can you miss them? The 14-year-old Olsen twins are a little cottage industry unto themselves, churning out a variety of videos and other products following the failure of their 1998-99 sitcom Two of a Kind. At the moment, they can be seen in Fox Family Channel's Saturday daytime series So Little Time, in which they play a pair of Malibu teens. Eric Lutes (Caroline in the City) plays their dad.

Q: I am at my wits' end! The man in my house insists that Whoopi Goldberg is or was married to one of the men from Cheers. Is this true? –Jean L. Bush, Bethlehem, Pa.

A: Not quite. In the early 1990s, Goldberg was romantically involved for less than a year with Cheers star Ted Danson, who played Sam Malone on the hit NBC sitcom. She subsequently had a five-year romance with actor Frank Langella, which ended last year. Danson has been married to actress Mary Steenburgen since 1995.

Q: Several months ago I read they were going to show Hogan's Heroes in Germany. Did this happen? What was the German reaction to this show? –Mel Nardino, Venice, Fla.

A: Actually, Mel, a TV Pipeline reader in Germany wrote recently to report that Hogan started airing in his country back in the early 1990s under the title Ein Kafig Voller Helden ("A Cage Full of Heroes"). The show has been a cult hit among young viewers, but mainstream audiences reportedly have been turned off by – are you ready? – the terrible dubbing.

To ensure that viewers didn't take the sitcom too seriously, the already broad comedy was made even broader, and references to violence were changed; where an original line might refer to the Allies destroying Hamburg, a revised joke would have the Heroes telling the RAF to drop tons of candy as a propaganda move. Newkirk, the Richard Dawson character, stammered for no good reason in the German version, and bawdy jokes often were inserted about Col. Klink's housekeeper, who worked in the nude (no such character was mentioned in the U.S. version).

New Natural Resources Web Site Available

Information about developing a forest stewardship plan, harvesting forest products, creating a riparian buffer, becoming a forest wildlife volunteer, taking a forestry correspondence course, or managing one's property for wildlife can be found on a new University of Maryland Cooperative Extension "Forestry and Wildlife Education" web site: http://www.naturalresources.umd.edu/.

Designed for forest and farm landowners, natural resource professionals, educators, public officials, and environmentally concerned citizens, the site contains information on managing forest, wildlife, and related water resources. Information on forestry and wildlife training opportunities for youth and adults, a forestry newsletter called "Branching Out," a calendar of educational events, and lists of state foresters, county Extension offices, and publications can be obtained.

"The beauty of this web site is that it combines numerous resources on a variety of forest- and wildlife-related topics in one place," said Jonathan Kays, Extension regional natural resources specialist. "Chances are, you'll find a link to the information you're looking for without having to conduct a time-consuming search in many different places."

Maryland Classified Employees Association

The Maryland Classified Employees Association is the oldest and largest independent labor organization for Maryland public employees, with more than 15,000 active and retiree members. Home-grown and member-run, MCEA was founded in 1935, when a group of state road workers met to fight injustices against employees whose jobs were being threatened because of their political affiliation.

Over the years, MCEA has taken the lead in gaining job protections, pay raises, benefits, and privileges that most state workers still enjoy today. MCEA successfully spearheaded gains in annual leave, accumulated sick leave, the pension plan, state subsidized health care, and even the State Employees Credit Union.

It is no wonder that MCEA boasts the motto "Our most important job is yours!" Our expert grievance and legal representation offer the best job insurance policy. We have had countless terminations, suspensions, and other disciplinary actions overturned. When it comes to benefits, our traditional and unique programs are affordable for members and their families.

With a diverse membership that reflects the workforce, MCEA represents the spirit and voice of Maryland state employees. As an independent union, MCEA is "owned and operated" by our public-employee members. The rank-and-file develops the legislative agenda, elects officers, and even sets the dues. With almost 200 local chapters, our members meet regularly to address their interests and concerns. This grassroots unity is what makes MCEA stand out from the other labor organizations.

State employees interested in MCEA membership or more information about MCEA services should call the union's local Cumberland office at 301-724-8770 or 1-888-614-6232, and ask for Labor Relations Representative Pam Beeman-Albright.

MCEA News was submitted by local Chapter 76 member Dorothy Bittinger.

Eh? Eh?
Didn't hear? Or is it someone you know? Not hearing is such a bother. But where to go for a truly honest, professional assessment of a hearing problem?

Jana Brown
Board-Certified Audiologist

Beware! Our business does have some unprofessional characters. That's why you should know how we do business—we're the oldest firm in the area and we're trusted and respected by a long list of clients, as well as the many physicians who refer patients to us.

Sure. We sell hearing aids. But first and foremost, we're audiologists. At RehabSolutions, we must have at least a master's degree before we can see patients. We don't do free hearing tests! When you see us, you get a thorough and complete professional hearing examination. And you will be billed for this examination.

But this may be the best money you (or your insurance carrier) ever spent! We're not on commission. We don't get paid to push expensive or unnecessary hearing aids on our patients. When you see us, you get an expert evaluation, and we present to you many available options from several different manufacturers. Our recommendations are based on your true needs, not what earns the highest profit! We promise very reasonable prices (if you choose to buy from us) and no high-pressure selling. And we guarantee if you don't like your hearing aid, you can return it for a full refund anytime within 60 days of purchase.

Call us now and schedule your examination! We promise the thorough, professional treatment you'd hoped for.

Healthy-O-Living in Garrett County

Healthy Family Program Awarded Major Funding

The Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families, the administrative arm of the county's Local Management Board, received notice from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services Office of Population Affairs that it has been selected to receive $506,933 over the next four years as part of the national Adolescent Family Life Demonstration Project.

According to a program spokesperson, the Enhanced Teen Services project will build on existing Healthy Families Garrett County (HFGC) health and child development services by adding life and career planning, as well as support and skill development services for adolescent parents. The goal of this project is to improve long-term outcomes for adolescent parents, their children, and their immediate families. Enrolled children will enter school ready to learn, and adolescent parents will become nurturing, self-supporting members of the community, the spokesperson said.

HFGC is a voluntary home visiting program affiliated with Healthy Families America, which incorporates 12 critical program elements (or best practices) that are supported by long-term evaluations of early intervention programs with new parents. Home visiting services may last up to five years and focus on parenting skills, child development, child health, and other aspects of family functioning. HFGC services are offered to all pregnant women and to all families with newborns in the county. In partnership with other community agencies, HFGC-ETS will augment existing HFGC case management services, thereby enabling pregnant and parenting adolescents to become productive, independent contributors to the family and community.

Program interventions focus on: 1) promotion of decision-making and social skills, 2) facilitating access to a continuum of educational and job readiness programs, and 3) strengthening the development of a nurturing environment for pregnant and parenting adolescents and their immediate families.

The Garrett County Health Department administers Healthy Families Garrett County, a universal nurse/social worker home visiting program, one of many GC PCF initiatives born from a five-year state/local agreement. The Garrett program is one of a handful of universal home visiting programs throughout the nation and has recently undergone a rigorous national credentialing process through Prevent Child Abuse America.

For more information about HFGC or to make suggestions about community planning efforts, persons may call GC PCF at 301-334-1189.

Partnership Is Deemed Eligible For New Funds

The Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families, the administrative arm of the county's Local Management Board, received notice from the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene that it was eligible for up to $200,000 in new funds to support tbe county's mental health and violence prevention initiatives.

After review by a panel of state representatives and outside experts from Johns Hopkins University, Mental Health Association of Maryland, and the lt. governor's office, Garrett County's Letter of Interest has been selected from 21 letters submitted to the Mental Hygiene Administration. The other four jurisdictions selected are Baltimore City, Kent County, Montgomery County, and Somerset County.

The GC Partnership submitted the Letter of Interest on behalf of the project's primary partners, the GC Board of Education, the Health Department, and Mt. Top Mental Health Associates. A local team of staff and administrators from the aforementioned organizations has been working on the contents of a draft proposal and will submit its ideas later next week. This team will attend a conference scheduled for mid-July sponsored by the Governor's Office for Children, Youth and Families, Mental Hygiene Administration, Maryland State Department of Education, and Johns Hopkins University Center for Youth Violence Prevention. The goals of the conference are to increase participants' knowledge related to evidence-based prevention and evaluation, and to continue efforts to align resources and to focus upon opportunities to sustain school-family-community partnerships.

For more information about this project or to make suggestions for services to children and families, persons may contact the GC Partnership at 301-334-1189.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On July 16, 1769, Father Junipero Serra, a Spanish Franciscan missionary, founds the first Catholic mission in California, on the site of present-day San Diego. Serra eventually founded a total of nine missions.

• On July 19, 1799, during French Gen. Napoleon Bonaparte's Egyptian campaign, a group of his soldiers discovers a black basalt slab inscribed with ancient writing near the town of Rosetta. Experts eventually determined that the "Rosetta Stone," as it became known, held the key to solving the riddle of hieroglyphics.

• On July 22, 1933, American aviator Wiley Post completes the first solo around-the-world flight when he returns to Floyd Bennett Field in New York after seven days, 18 hours and 49 minutes. Two years later, he was flying across the North Pole to the USSR on a promotional trip with American humorist Will Rogers when both were killed in a crash near Point Barrow, Alaska.

• On July 21, 1949, by a vote of 82 to 13, the U.S. Senate authorizes U.S. participation in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and allocates funds to be used toward the establishment of the military alliance.

• On July 18, 1969, shortly after leaving a party on Chappaquiddick Island, Sen. Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts takes a sharp right turn off the paved road and his automobile plunges off the narrow Dike Bridge into a pond. Kennedy managed to escape from the vehicle, but his passenger, Mary Jo Kopechne, drowned.

• On July 20, 1969, American astronaut Neil Armstrong, nearly 240,000 miles from Earth, becomes the first human to walk on the surface of the moon.

• On July 17, 1996, shortly after takeoff from New York's Kennedy International Airport, a TWA Boeing 747 jetliner bound for Paris explodes over the Atlantic Ocean, killing all 230 people aboard. Flight 800 had just received clearance to initiate a climb to cruise altitude when it exploded without warning.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• Less than one-third of the Earth's landmass lies below the equator.

• San Francisco's Golden Gate Bridge was completed in 1937, and since then, more than 600 people have committed suicide by jumping off it.

• What's in a name? A lot, sometimes. Not many people would probably remember Josef Stalin's name if he had kept his real name — Josef Dzhugashvili. Jules Verne might have had a difficult time with name recognition if he hadn't changed it from L.M. Olehewitz. Americans might have been unclear as to the gender of Voltaire if he became famous as Francois Marie Arouet. The real name of Joseph Conrad, the author of the famed novel "Heart of Darkness," was Teodor Korzeniowski.

• Until 1796, the state of Tennessee was known as "Franklin."

• We live in a media-dominated culture where movie stars are revered and at least half the population harbors a secret ambition to be an actor. Hollywood is not universally admired, though. It has been described variously as "Malice in Wonderland," "Paradise with a lobotomy," and "Siberia with palms." And my favorite: "Where the average actor has more lines in his face than in his script."

Royalty has influenced fashion for centuries. When Queen Victoria went into mourning, she wore black clothing and black jewelry. Elegant women of the world turned to jet necklaces and black silk dresses. Jacqueline Kennedy did not like hats, so she wore a small pillbox hat at the back of her head. That became the rage.

Queen Louise of Prussia, who lived from 1776 to 1810, was a popular monarch. When she first became queen, she had a swelling on her neck, perhaps a goiter, so she always wore a gauze scarf around her neck. Soon every fashionable lady twisted a scarf around her neck. Even after the swelling disappeared, the scarf remained popular. There are many plaques and portraits that picture a woman with a thin scarf around her neck. Most of them picture Queen Louise.

Q. My grandmother has a collection of colorful pots, pans and other kitchen utensils. Most are swirled in blue and white. A few are white with brown, green or red swirls. She calls the pots "graniteware," but she doesn't know why. Can you help?

A. Graniteware is metal coated with one or more layers of enamel glaze. Some collectors refer to the cookware as enamelware. The industry began in the early 1800s in Europe and by the middle of that century here. Many cooks preferred the lightweight, colorful kitchenware to heavy cast-iron. It was also easier to clean. Graniteware is popular with collectors. Reproductions made today are lighter in weight.

Scratching Away

Q. I bought a huge scratching post for my year-old American shorthair cat, but he hasn't touched it. He prefers my couch and the legs of my kitchen chairs! How can I stop him from scratching up everything?

A. Ah, the supreme disappointment of dropping 40 bucks on a beautiful toy, only to have your cat sniff it disdainfully and strut away. I've experienced this many times.

My cat, like yours, prefers furniture to the Ordained Scratching Area. He also loves grabbing the edges of the carpet and pulling the fibers out. So I understand your frustration.

However, you can minimize and redirect his need to scratch.

Don't punish your cat when you catch him scratching the furniture; he won't understand. Just pick him up and carry him to the scratching post. Gently place his paws against the post and simulate a "kneading" action. He may not understand for a while, but eventually he will associate the post with scratching.

Protect your furniture during this association process by placing strips of sticky tape (I use brown packing or masking tape, which doesn't damage furniture) over the areas your cat likes to scratch. The tacky underside makes cats very uncomfortable. In fact, the confused look the cat will give you the first time he sinks his claws into that tape creates a perfect opportunity for you to introduce him to the scratching post.

Be patient and consistent with your training. I had to carry my cat to the scratching post almost every day for three months before he accepted it.

Your cat may relapse occasionally; just carry him to the post. But note the circumstances of his relapse; many times the cat is signaling for your attention. Remember, a scratching post is a nice diversion, but most house cats like a good snuggle, too.

Teacher Attends National Student Council Conf.

Lowell Leitzel, assistant advisor of the student council at Southern Garrett High School, was one of 1,800 student council leaders and student activity advisers in attendance at the recent 65th annual National Association of Student Councils (NASC) National Conference, held at Providence High School in Charlotte, N.C.

NASC, administered by the National Association of Secondary School Principals (NASSP), offers leadership training at its conferences, focusing on turning student leaders into lifelong leaders. Conference participants represented all 50 states, Puerto Rico, Honduras, Canada, and Australia. Twenty-nine students and six adults represented Maryland.

"These young people who attend this conference are school leaders from across the country, as well as from around the world, and they are well-trained through their NASC experiences to lead outside of their schools and communities even before they graduate," said Dr. Gerald Tirozzi, executive director of NASSP. 'We have no doubt that they will be the leaders of tomorrow."

Rocco Marano, director of the NASSP Department of Student Activities, added, "During the NASC Conference and in student activity programs across the nation, these already talented students learn to be better at motivating, organizing, training, and leading others. Each NASC student delegate can be looked upon as a role model."

Leitzel attended a variety of workshops designed for student council advisers. These workshops focused on encouraging student involvement, showing appreciation planning events and projects, and training student government leaders. Conference participants heard and experienced a variety of presentations by featured speakers, including motivational speaker Ed Gerety; U.S. Olympic triathlete Jennifer Gutierrez; Millard Fuller, founder of Habitat for Humanity; and 18-year-old Craig Kielberger, founder of the organization Kids Can Free the Children, based in Ontario, Can.

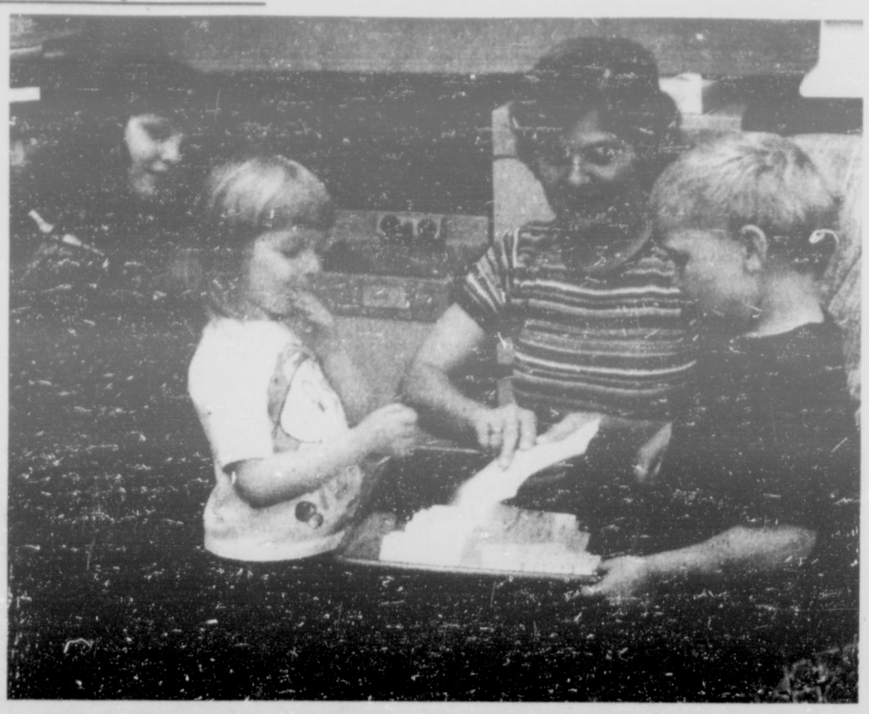
The advisers also had the opportunity to hear from Dr. Winston Doby, vice chancellor for student affairs at UCLA, and Bert Ammerman, principal of Northern Valley Regional High School in New Jersey, whose brother was killed in the explosion of Pan Am Flight 103 over Lockerbie, Scotland, in 1988. Ammerman is also a member of the NASC executive board.

In addition to the workshops and seminars, special events associated with the conference included a barbecue and the "Parade of the States" at Lowe's Motor Speedway, a "faux prom" at Ericsson Stadium, a day of seminars and a "Great Spirit Rally" on the campus of the University of North Carolina at Charlotte (UNCC), a "Carolina hoe-down," and the traditional candlelight ceremony at the Providence High School Stadium.

Student delegates also helped in the completion of landscaping at a Habitat for Humanity house and prepared materials for a literacy program in the Charlotte-Mecklenberg School System. Student delegates were hosted by local families in the Charlotte area, while the advisers stayed at the Adams Mark Hotel.

"Providence High School, the Charlotte Mecklenberg County School System, the NASC executive board, and the city of Charlotte did an excellent job in planning and hosting this national conference," Leitzel said. "I thank Mr. David Mayfield, the Southern High School Student Council, and the Garrett County Association of Student Councils for enabling me to attend this event. Hopefully we can encourage and enable some local student involvement and participation from Garrett County in years to come."

The 2002 NASC National Conference will be held in Virginia Beach, Va., with the theme "Oceans of Leaders, Waves of Success." The 2003 conference will held in suburban Buffalo, N.Y. For more information on the conferences, persons may contact Leitzel at 301-334-2372.



STORYBOARD DRAWING WINNERS — The winners of the storyboard questionnaire competition, sponsored by Garrett County Community Action Head Start and Garrett County Health Department Community Outreach, were selected in a drawing recently. The two agencies undertook a parent training partnership with the assistance of the Alcohol, Tobacco, and Other Drugs prevention grant. Each month an appropriate topic was displayed on storyboards in the Head Start centers, and parents had the opportunity to review the information displayed and answer a questionnaire. Pictured above is Community Outreach coordinator Nancy Brady, seated, as she conducts the drawing with the enthusiastic assistance of Oakland Extended Year Classroom students Evelyn McGehee, Shalyn Stemple, and Ricky Kent Jr. The winners, Dawna Rodeheaver and April Miske, each received dinner and a pair of movie tickets. Persons interested in information about Head Start's parent training opportunities may call 301-334-9431 or 1-888-877-8403 (toll-free), ext. 126.

Funland Holds Annual Fun Night

The Garrett Youth Council and the Garrett County Health Department recently held the second annual Fun Night at Funland, which was attended by 30 youth from around the county. Fun Night is an event for middle and high school students which combines education on health related topics with fun and games.

Youths attending the event visited educational booths with games teaching about topics that included drug and alcohol prevention, teen pregnancy prevention, tobacco prevention, and AIDS prevention. After they played at least three of the booths, they would receive passes for go-carts, bumper cars, the climbing wall, water wars, and mini-golf at Funland.

Sam Moon, coordinator of the Garrett Youth Council, said this event has proven to be effective and popular with the youth and their parents. He added that the hope of the council members is that the incentives of the Funland games will bring youth out for the event, and the requirement to play with educational games will increase awareness and knowledge of the youth about these important health issues.

The council is planning another event like this for next year.

RED HOUSE
by Ryann Friend
reporter

Before the monthly meeting of the Red House 4-H Club began, a demonstration was given by Steven Friend involving his adopted lamb, Ellen. Amanda Uphold also gave a demo involving her market lamb.

Aliza Green then called the meeting to order. Allison Friend led the pledges, and Stephanie Brenneman took roll call.

The club leader asked who would be going on the scheduled farm tour on the 21st of this month. The club then voted on what day we should go to Idlewild amusement park. The club decided the best day to go would be August 5.

We then discussed the fair week. We asked everyone in the club if, during the week of the fair, they would like to have a club meal at the end of the week. Everyone decided we should, so it will be held at Vonda Moreland's camper at 4 p.m. Everyone is to bring a covered dish, dessert, and a drink of some sort.

More demos took place after the meeting by Nathan Sines and Brittney Green with their cows.

GRANTSVILLE
by Kris Knox

The July 2 meeting was held at the Sportsman's building. The pledges were led by Adam Lytle and Janine Beachy. We discussed the food booth at the overlook and the trip to Six Flags. We also talked about the Grantsville Days food booth.

Under new business, we discussed a web site page set-up for 4-H groups countywide. Karen Smith will be offering computer classes for club members through MicroIntegration.

We also talked about fair books.

The refreshments were provided by Ashley Beitzel.

The next meeting is scheduled for August 6 at 7 p.m.

Plans Being Finalized For Third TriState Relief Sale

The third annual TriState Relief Sale, a large benefit auction, will be held Friday and Saturday, July 20 and 21, at the Garrett County Fairgrounds, Deep Creek Lake. Locally made quilts and wallhangings, handcrafted furniture (bent oak rockers, cherry hall tables, oak postmaster's desk), and glassware from Simon Pearce and Lenox will be among the several hundred featured items of Saturday's auction. Artwork includes that of Spruce Forest artisans Lynn Lais (pottery), Gary Yoder (5-time International waterfowl carving champion), Jody Best (ironworks), and P. Buckley Moss (prints).

Vacation opportunities being auctioned include a weekend in ski season at Deep Creek Lake in a 3-bedroom condo, overnight in a Victorian bed & breakfast inn at Georgian Place, family vacation time at Laurelville Church Center, and lodging and tea at the International Guest House, Washington, D.C.

The grounds will open Friday at 4:30 p.m. with a silent auction featuring over 100 items — from handmade furniture to an airplane ride, a weekend in a log cabin, and Hummel figurines. A highlight will be a 1926 Indianhead $10 gold piece (MS63) and a blackboard from the old Meyersdale High School framed with oak trim. A silent auction has no auctioneer, as bidding is done on paper. Results will be announced at 8:30 p.m. A puppet show and music will be featured at 7:00 p.m.

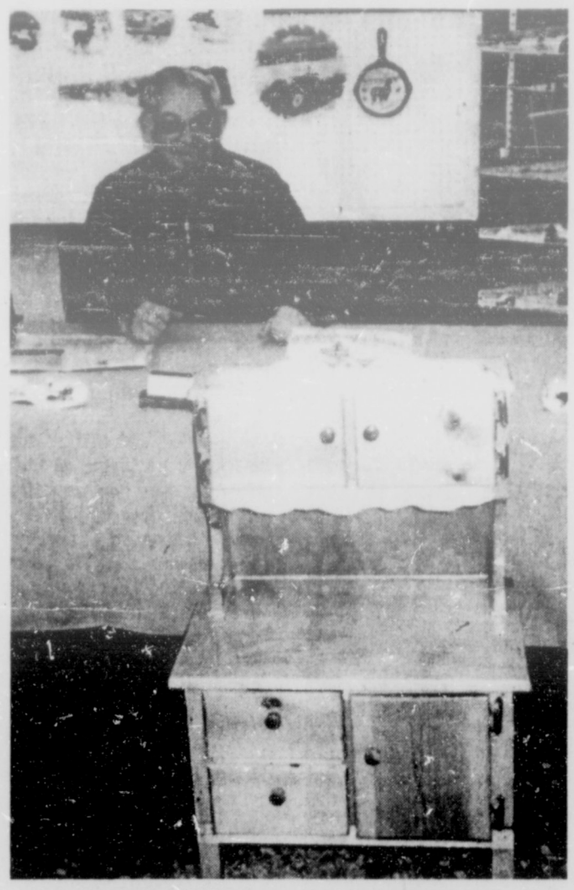
A market place featuring home-baked pies, crafts, houseplants, books, baby quilts and many other items will be open both days. Ten Thousand Villages will have crafts available from around the world.

Hands-on entertainment for children will include a human gameboard, climbing vines, and a child-size mover theater. A special auction for children under the age of 12 will begin at 11 a.m. Children of the Springs Mennonite Church helped to construct a 6'x8' playhouse with cedar shakes and porch, which will be auctioned off on Saturday.

Homemade foods will be available as well, such as pancakes and sausage, barbecued chicken, and homemade ice cream. The grounds will open at 6:30 a.m. on Saturday for a pancake and sausage breakfast, and the main auction will run from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The TriState Relief Sale is one of 45 relief sales in the U.S. and Canada held by Mennonite and Brethren in Christ churches, contributing 88 cents of every $1 raised to food relief, treatment of mental illness, and agriculture and education needs in the United States and worldwide. Mennonite and Conservative churches of Garrett County are participating by hosting the event.

For further information or to make donations, persons may telephone 814-445-6945 or 724-864-2037, or check the following web site: www.deepcreektimes.com/reliefsale.html. Admission is free.



HANDPAINTED SAWS and this children's hutch, painted/made by Raymond Bender of Springs, Pa., (pictured) will be among hundreds of items available for purchase at the third annual TriState Relief Auction, slated for Friday and Saturday, July 20 and 21, at the Garrett County Fairgrounds in McHenry. Proceeds from the event, sponsored by Mennonite and Brethren in Christ churches, support food relief efforts and various other charitable programs. See story for details.

Information about a new state scholarship for disabled public safety employees, military personnel, and their family members has just been received by Pat Bennett, director of financial aid for Garrett Community College. According to a release from the State Scholarship Administration, the deadline for applications is July 15.

The Edward T. Conroy Memorial Scholarship award covers full tuition and fees, not to exceed the cost of tuition at the University of Maryland, College Park, and is available to the children or spouses of public safety employees or select members of the armed forces whose death or disability was directly caused in the line of duty. Eligible persons include the children or spouses of military personnel serving after December 7, 1941, or a POW in the Vietnam War; one surviving spouse, who has not remarried, of a state or local public safety officer; a person who was a POW; or a son or daughter of a state or local public safety officer killed in the line of duty.

To qualify for the scholarship, the applicant's parent or spouse must have been a Maryland resident at the time of death or disability, and the applicant must enroll for at least six credits each semester in a degree program at a Maryland college or private career school.

The Edward T. Conroy Memorial Scholarship was named for the late Sen. Edward T. Conroy, a decorated veteran of the Korean War who was active for 20 years in the politics of Prince George's County.

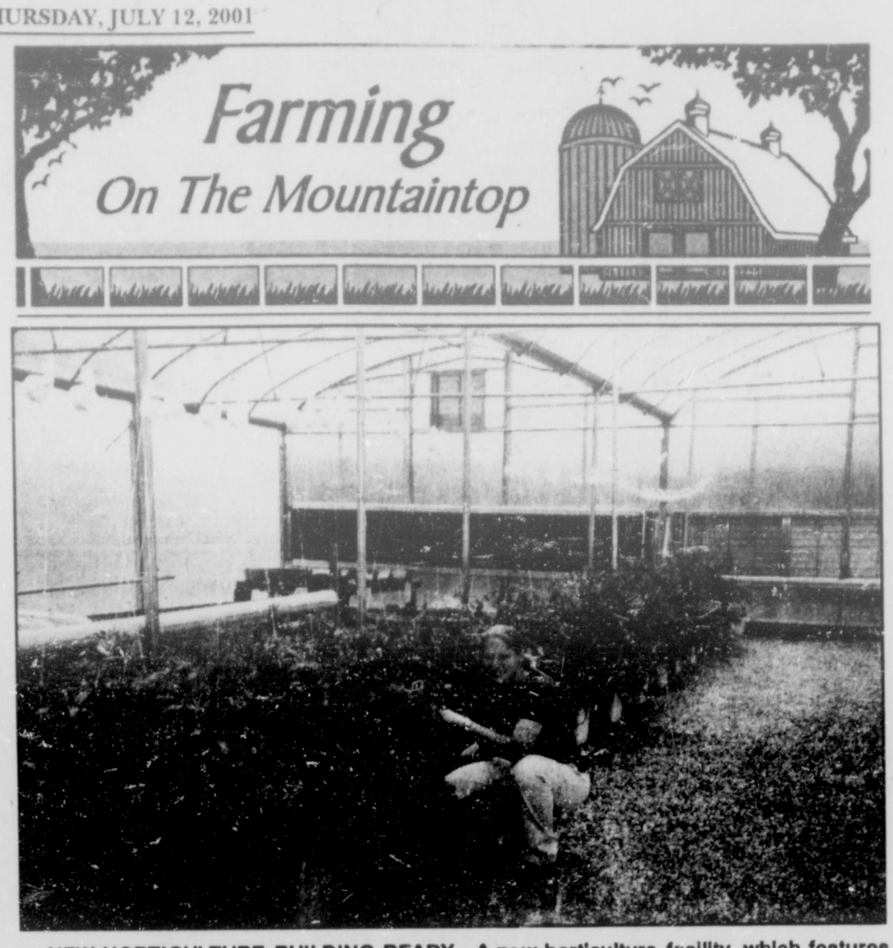
Farming On The Mountaintop



NEW HORTICULTURE BUILDING READY - A new horticulture facility, which features a classroom and laboratory for agricultural research, will be opened this fall on the campus of Garrett Community College. Pictured above in the greenhouse section is Laah Broadwater, coordinator of the GCC horticulture program. See story for details.

New Horticulture Building At GCC To Open This Fall

The new horticulture facility on the Garrett Community College campus will become both a classroom and laboratory for agricultural research when fall semester starts in September. Laah Broadwater, coordinator of the horticulture program, has already begun to grow vegetables in the greenhouse and will be teaching the horticulture course in the fall.

Students in the course will have classes in a room adjacent to the greenhouse, where they will be able to grow plants and experiment with various types of fertilizer and growing conditions. At the present time rows of bibb lettuce, red oak lettuce, and purple ruffle basil plants are growing in waist-high panels containing a sponge-like rock wool that holds water.

"These plants are being grown hydroponically without soil," explained Broadwater. "We will add fertilizer to the water in this one section and effluent from the fish tanks to the water in the other section, and then compare the growth." On the floor beside the raised panels are tubs of perilite, where tomato and cucumber plants are growing.

"We keep styrofoam on top of each pot," Broadwater said, "and we measure the fertilizer in the water every day. These have been grown from small plants and we will probably be getting other plants in the future. Next spring semester we will be growing flowers and will be offering a greenhouse production course."

She pointed to the shade cloth covering part of the greenhouse ceiling and explained that lettuce can not endure the same degree of heat as tomatoes. "This is really neat," she said of the new facility. "We can control the temperature and the pests. There are no soil diseases because there is no soil."

Broadwater, a graduate of the GCC agricultural management program, holds a B.S. degree from West Virginia University in agricultural education and is currently working on a master's degree in the same program.

The Introduction to Horticulture (HORT 101) course, scheduled for Mondays and Wednesdays from 9 to 11 a.m., will present a general overview of the horticulture industry, including hydroponics and landscaping. Introduction to Plant Science (BOTN 101) is scheduled for Tuesday and Thursday from 3 to 4:30 p.m., with a lab on Thursday from 9 to 11 a.m. This course includes the anatomy and physiology of plants, their growth and function, and the uses of fertilizers.

Anyone desiring further information about these horticulture courses and the agricultural management program at GCC may call Broadwater at 301-387-3329 or Willie Lantz at 301-387-3331. Students may register for these and other courses at the Student Assistance Center weekdays during business hours from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Census Bureau Urges Rural Participation In New Survey

In an effort to better grasp the ever-changing population, lifestyle, employment rates, income, and needs of rural America, the Census Bureau is launching a new yearly survey that will dig much deeper than the brief census the government conducts every 10 years. The American Community Survey (ACS), scheduled to be officially be introduced in every county in the United States in 2003, was developed in response to requests from policymakers and community leaders for more accurate and timely information.

The new format will be beneficial for farmers, ranchers, and other rural residents who face unique challenges, according to Dr. Nancy Torrieri, program analyst at the Census Bureau.

"The information will be used by federal, state, and local leaders to look at available resources," Torrieri said. "You can look at these data, see what's going on in your community, and ask 'What plans need to be made?'"

Torrieri pointed to the distinct transportation and infrastructure challenges facing residents in rural areas across the country.

"People don't understand that distance itself is such a problem," Torrieri said. "Can we get a basic service? Can we get the people to it?"

Rural counties, which account for nearly 75% of all counties, are "almost always underserved by policy analyses," according to a 1999 report by the Rural Policy Research Institute.

The report attributed this to the lack of "accurate and timely data" available from rural communities.

Torrieri said the new survey is designed to remedy such inaccuracies.

Some residents of rural Fulton County, Pa., are already well aware of the Census Bureau's new endeavor. The residents of that county participated in the survey's trial run starting in 1999. There were 30 other diverse communities that also were used as test sites. Among other things, the test results will be used to compare the data from the new survey with those from the 2000 census long form, which the ACS is designed to replace in the 2010 census. Just like the traditional short form the Census Bureau distributes nationwide, the ACS also will be mandatory.

The bureau hopes the new survey will simplify operations so that the focus of the 2010 census is solely on counting people. The bureau assures that this information, just like information garnered from the traditional long form, will be kept confidential and used only for statistical purposes. The data will be released as profiles of groups of individuals within broad geographic areas.

With the billions of government dollars that are allocated for different regional, state, and local programs, the new survey will not only provide much-needed statistical updates, but allow policymakers to more accurately assess the populations' needs, according to the Census Bureau.

"The information will be constantly refreshed," Torrieri explained.

The bureau said it will be able to offer statistics for larger areas and population groups first. Beginning in 2004, the ACS intends to have information available every year for areas and population groups of 65,000 or more. For smaller population areas, it will take three to five years to accumulate information to provide accurate statistics. It is estimated that data for areas of 20,000 or more people will be available starting in 2006 and will be updated every year thereafter. Information for areas below 20,000 in population will be released in 2008.

In addition to tracking the well-being of children and families, the census data are used to determine where to locate new schools, hospitals, and highways; to show a company that a region or town has the work force it needs; and to evaluate all types of government programs.

Through the ACS, towns, cities, and counties also will be able to keep a running tally on new streets and residences.

Heavy Rains Slow Harvesting

Heavy rains on the 4th of July saturated fields throughout the state, drowning crops in some low-lying areas and hampering hay harvest. Nevertheless, Maryland farmers had an average of 4.8 days suitable for field work to continue harvesting activities. Small grain harvesting continues with winter wheat and rye harvests progressing 25% and 12% ahead of the previous week, respectively. Barley harvest is virtually complete. Cucumber, sweet corn, and tomato harvests are running 9%, 6%, and 3% ahead of the five-year average, respectively.

While the precipitation may have slightly damaged corn in low-lying areas, the moisture was needed to alleviate heat stress from the previous week. Corn conditions improved with 10% of the crop rated in excellent condition, 64% good, 22% fair, 3% poor, and 1% very poor. Soybean conditions are also being maintained with 8% rated excellent, 55% good, 31% fair, 5% poor, and 1% very poor.

Soil moisture surplus levels increased over the previous week because of the rain received last week. Topsoil moisture was rated 1% very short, 12% short, 80% adequate, and 7% surplus, while subsoil moisture was 11% short, 85% adequate, and 4% surplus.

Md. Farmers Optimistic About '01 Crop Yields

"For a second year, Maryland farmers have a reason to be optimistic about good crop yields, as Mother Nature has contributed by delivering timely rains, high heat, and good soil conditions," noted a spokesperson for the Maryland Grain Producers Association (MGPA).

"At this point in the growing season corn and soybeans are looking very promising," stated Phil Councell, a grain and vegetable farmer in Talbot County and member of MGPA. "I like to use the term 'cautiously optimistic' when asked about how crops are progressing. Right now things look great. However, we all know that there are many days ahead until harvest time."

Maryland's corn crop has been planted for several weeks, along with many acres of soybeans. Late soybeans will be planted at the completion of the wheat harvest. As is the case most years, several areas in Maryland are a week or so later in their harvest, thus pushing their late planting dates back slightly.

"If rains can continue to come throughout the growing season, we will be thrilled. Commodity prices are still greatly depressed, so we cannot expect big profits, but high yields will certainly help balance things out," added Drew Stabler, also a member of the MGPA and a farmer in Montgomery County.

There are certain times during the maturing stages of corn and soybeans when rain is essential for good development. If the moisture is not received at these times, the plant risks not growing to its fullest potential. "As in years past, you end up with crops that produce very low yields, and consequently profits are extremely low or nonexistent," Stabler said.

"As any farmer will tell you, all you can do is work hard, work smart, and hope that Mother Nature can work in your favor. It is quite a satisfying feeling to look over a healthy grain field and see that crop make it to harvest time," Councell added.

Applying Boron on Alfalfa

A common "insurance" recommendation is to apply 2 pounds of boron per acre whenever the alfalfa is top-dressed with fertilizer. With a coarse textured soil this should be an annual application, but on finer textured soils applying boron every 2 or 3 years should be adequate. Although little research has been done on boron fertility in alfalfa in Maryland, this latter program has been followed for many years in the state and consequently boron deficiencies are rare. Also, another important source of boron is manure. Typically, manure contains between .02 and .12 pounds of boron per ton of manure. Thus, for a 20-ton per acre dairy manure application, between .4 and 2.4 pounds of boron would be applied per acre.

Home and Garden Tips

Mow 'em high and let 'em lie. Cut your turf to a height of 3-4 inches and leave the clippings on the lawn where they will decompose naturally. Mowing at the proper height and grass cycling your clippings will help keep your lawn healthy and minimize pest problems. Grass cycling does not lead to thatch build-up problems. This is also a good time to sharpen or replace worn lawn mower blades. Dull blades tear turfgrass and can lead to disease problems.

Avoid over-mulching your trees or mounding the mulch up around the trunks. Mulch should be no more than 2-3 inches deep and should be kept away from trunks.

Monitor rhododendrons, azaleas, and mountain laurel for lace bug damage. Lace bugs commonly feed at night. Any of the common garden insecticides will control them.

Many fruit plants have shallow root systems that are easily damaged by cultivation. Do not cultivate or dig into the soil around small fruits or tree fruits. Use organic mulches to control weeds.

Japanese beetles are very active on bramble plants and most fruit trees. Handpick where appropriate or sweep the adults off foliage and into a bucket of soapy water. Avoid using Japanese beetle traps because they may attract large numbers of beetles to your yard.

Tomato plants may be exhibiting symptoms of various leaf spot diseases such as early blight. Remove badly infected lower leaves, keep thick organic mulch around plants and avoid overhead watering. I would recommend a preventive spray program using a fungicide such as mancozeb (Manzate).

Groundhogs can be destructive around the home and garden. They feed on a wide range of vegetables and ornamental plants, and will gnaw and chew on wooden boards and siding. They dig large nests in soil or may inhabit areas under decks and porches. The best solution for controlling groundhogs is to set out a large live trap baited with apple pieces.

Ag Committee Limits Farm Aid To $5.5 Billion

The House Agriculture Committee has limited this year's farm aid to $5.5 billion after paring down a Farm Bureau-supported proposal by committee chairman Larry Combest (R-Texas) to set the funding at $6.5 billion.

The aid is part of the fiscal 2002 budget resolution that provided for $5.5 billion in agricultural assistance for fiscal 2001, $7.4 billion for fiscal 2002, and an additional $66.2 billion in the agriculture budget baseline for fiscal 2003 through 2011.

Rather than supporting Combest's proposal, the committee voted, 24-23, in favor of a plan pushed by Reps. John Boehner (R-Ohio) and Charlie Stenholm (D-Texas).

American Farm Bureau Federation president Bob Stallman said the committee's decision "is disheartening and will not provide sufficient assistance needed by many farm and ranch families."

Stallman noted that conditions in the farm economy justify the higher level of funding. "The fact is, agricultural commodity prices have not strengthened from last year when Congress saw fit to provide more aid."

The Boehner-Stenholm plan would provide:

- $4.622 billion in supplemental market loss assistance payments;
- $423.5 million to oilseed producers;
- $54.21 million to peanut growers;
- $16.94 million to wool and mohair producers;
- $84.7 million to producers and first-handlers of cottonseed;
- $169.4 million in assistance to specialty crops; and
- $129 million in supplemental payments to 2001 tobacco quota holders.

Stenholm played down the differences between his version and the chairman's.

"The only major difference between this substitute and the bill offered by the chairman is the billion dollars," Stenholm said.

Earlier last week, AFBF and six commodity groups sent a letter to House Agriculture Committee members urging them to exceed the $5.5 billion limit the administration was supporting because it would jeopardize the committee's ability to "fully address the chronically ailing agriculture economy if no more than $5.5 billion in assistance is provided."

The groups argued that the Office of Management and Budget's assessment that the additional $5.5 billion would increase farm income by $1.2 billion over last year was incorrect.

"Our analysis indicates that even with the additional $5.5 billion, 'real' net cash income would rise only $900 million," the groups wrote.

"Further, producers continue to face historic low prices and income as well as increased input costs," the groups added. "In 2000, farm expenditures for fuel and oil, electricity, fertilizer and crop protection chemicals are estimated to increase farmers' cost $2.9 billion. This year, USDA estimates those expenses will rise an additional $2 billion to $3 billion while farm income continues to decrease."

The additional $1 billion Combest wanted would have been drawn from funds allocated in the budget resolution for fiscal 2002. Under Combest's plan, the Agriculture Department would have distributed the $5.5 billion in assistance using the formula for farm bill transition payments.

The additional $1 billion would have been allocated as follows: $500 million for oilseed producers; $220 million for specialty crop purchases; $57 million for peanut producers; $10 million for wool and mohair producers; $44 million for sugar producers; $129 million for tobacco growers; $24 million for milk producers; $5 million for wheat, oat, and barley growers who abandon their fields in favor of livestock grazing; and $40 million in additional funds for loan deficiency payments.

House members were scheduled to vote on the $5.5 billion in emergency assistance. The Senate has yet to write its version of the bill.

Horses At Risk For Mosquito-Borne Diseases

Concern about mosquito-borne disease infecting Maryland's equine animals, ostriches, and emus is mounting among Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA) veterinarians, according to a department spokesperson. Conditions are favorable for appearance of both Eastern Equine Encephalomyelitis (EEE) and West Nile virus in Maryland this summer. Both viruses are spread by mosquitoes from infected birds to humans, horses, and various species of birds.

Mosquitoes trapped recently on Chincoteague Island, Va., were found infected with EEE. Five dead crows in Baltimore City tested positive for West Nile virus, and it has also been found in New Jersey crows and mosquitoes, as well as in mosquitoes trapped in Delaware. Experts predict large mosquito populations this summer in all Mid-Atlantic states, which could increase the risk of infection.

Horses, ponies, donkeys, and mules can be protected from EEE by vaccination for a period of 6 to 12 months. Dr. Roger Olson, Maryland state veterinarian, urges owners of equine animals, ostriches and emus to take precautionary measures against the diseases and to consult their local veterinarian about EEE vaccination. A vaccine for West Nile virus will hopefully be available for horses later this year, he added. Meanwhile, the risk of horse infection by either virus can be reduced by avoiding exposure to mosquitoes and by helping to eliminate breeding sites (standing water) of mosquitoes.

Recommendations, which can be adapted to protect horses and humans, include avoiding outdoor activities after dusk, using insect repellents, eliminating standing water, installing fine mesh screening in windows and doors of homes and stables, and avoiding marshes and wetlands. People are advised to wear light-colored, long-sleeved shirts and long pants. Bird baths, used tires, rain gutters, tarps, and grill covers, or any other containers should be emptied or flushed to minimize mosquito populations.

Maryland horse owners should be alert for any of the following symptoms in their animals: apprehension, depression, listlessness, trembling, head shaking, lower lip or tongue paralysis, lack of coordination or staggering, weakness of hind legs, or paralysis. If any of these symptoms are observed, a veterinarian should be contacted immediately. More animals recover from West Nile virus than from EEE, but some do not.

Should a horse exhibiting symptoms of encephalomyelitis die, MDA's five Animal Health laboratories will perform free post-mortem examinations, including testing for rabies, EEE, West Nile virus, and other neurological diseases.

Citizens can obtain further information about West Nile virus or can report dead crows, blue jays, or raptors (hawks, owls, etc.) by calling 1-866-866-CROW (2769) weekdays from 8 a.m to 3 p.m., or weekends from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. For information regarding either disease in domestic animals, or to arrange for post-mortem examinations of horses, persons may contact the nearest MDA Animal Health Laboratory by calling 301-334-2185, or Dr. Olson at 410-841-5810. MDA's Mosquito Control Program can be reached at 410-841-5870.

USDA ANNOUNCES NEW PROGRAM FOR CROPS NOT COVERED BY CROP INSURANCE

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has announced details for the Noninsured Crop Disaster Assistance Program (NAP) on 2001 eligible crops.

NAP is available for any commercial crops or other agricultural commodities grown for food or fiber for which catastrophic risk protection crop insurance is not available. This program is like the Federal Crop Insurance's Catastrophic Risk Policy in that the first 50% of a farmer's loss is not eligible for payment.

Eligible forage includes forage intended for animal consumption, or production of forage for animal consumption. Any acreage of forage intended to be mechanically harvested but grazed instead must be appraised before grazing.

Ineligible crops include, but are not limited to, crop by-products, crops grown using practices not considered good farming practices, crops not being produced for commercial market, experimental crops, volunteer stand, or garden crops for home use.

There is a service fee applied by producer for the eligible crop in an amount that is equal to the lesser of $100 per crop per county or $300 per producer per county, but not to exceed a total of $900 per producer. A waiver of the fee is available for low-income producers.

For crops that have suffered damage or loss, producers must have timely filed a report of acreage, notice of loss, and application for coverage with the applicable service fee.

The final date for filing an NAP application will be 30 calendar days after the date the regulations are published in the Federal Register.

If a producer is eligible to receive NAP payments and benefits under any other program administered by the agriculture secretary for the same crop loss, the producer must choose whether to receive NAP payments or benefits from any other program. A producer is not eligible for both NAP benefit and an insurance indemnity.

Interested persons may visit the Preston County FSA office in the Corner Mall of the Kingwood Plaza or telephone 304-329-1923 for additional program information.

Garrett Comm. College Foundation Awards $70,000 In Scholarships

The Garrett Community College Foundation Inc. has awarded $70,000 in scholarships to 86 individuals for the 2001-2002 academic year at Garrett Community College. These scholarships were funded with donations from individuals, businesses, organizations, college employees, and the Garrett Community College Board of Trustees.

The community members who served on the board of directors for the fiscal year ending on June 30 included Ann M. Smith, president; William G. Weissgerber Jr., vice president; Jeffrey S. McCauley, treasurer; Phyllis K. Vitez, secretary; and members Annette M. Chapman, Charles C. Bender, Virginia M. Clutter, James M. Cornelius, Colleen G. Nordeck, Philip L. Rodeheaver, Walter E. Schoenian, Donna G. Sites, and Dr. William R. Yant. Bretta Reinhard is the executive director of the Garrett Community College Foundation.

The scholarship committee, which is composed of members of the board of directors of the Garrett Community College Foundation, selected the scholarship recipients. Virginia M. "Ginnie" Clutter chaired this committee.

The competitive scholarships were awarded on the basis of merit and need. The majority of scholarship recipients are residents of Garrett County and nearby counties in Pennsylvania and West Virginia. These scholarships were awarded to individuals of all ages who wished to study at GCC, and who represent a wide variety of majors. GCC scholarship recipients pursue transfer programs (two-year programs of study which prepare students for transfer to four-year colleges and universities) or career advancement programs (two-year programs of study which prepare students for employment), as well as certificates (one-year programs which prepare students for employment).

The scholarship support of Daniel Edward Offutt III, a native of Garrett County who resides in Connecticut, was significant, according to Reinhard. He was the lead contributor of scholarships for students at GCC in the 2001-2002 academic year.

There were three new scholarships this year. The Dorothy Brock Leighton Scholarship was established as an endowed scholarship by Dr. Herbert H. Leighton and his family, as well as by Barbara and Eugene Flinn. The Jeffrey Kirk Roszell Scholarship was initiated by Bill and Sharon Roszell in memory of their late son. The late Amy Mildred Sharpless bequeathed funds for scholarships at GCC.

In addition to those mentioned, scholarship donors are the American Association of University Women, the Honorable Roscoe G. Bartlett, the family of the late Fred Clark Carroll, the Civic Club of Oakland, the family and friends of the late Bill Crawford, Deep Creek Lake Lions Club, Ann Digard, Friendsville Rotary Club, GCC Continuing Education Division, GCC employees, GCC Student Government Association, the late Honorable Stuart F. Hamill, Edward B. Hinebaugh, Gary and Luanne Ruddell of Hobby House Press/Total Biz Fulfillment, Junior Woman's Civic Club, Knights of Columbus—Oakland Council #1771, Maryland Municipal League, McDonald's, Mildred Schmidt Nethken, Mrs. James H. Nordeck, Oakland/Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club, Oakland Rotary Club, Railey Realty, the family of the late Helen B. Glimpse of The Past . . .

AN OAKLAND INSTITUTION — The Oak-Lee Dairyland, better known to natives as the "custard stand," has been an institution in Oakland since the 1950s, providing sweet treats to millions of people over the past 40+ years. This is a shot taken at the stand when it was a new addition to the town. While the building has been expanded and the parking lot improved, the popular stand remains basically the same 1950s-like community meeting place, thriving every summer. It is under the management of Chris and Deborah (Dixon) Crabtree.

Envirothon Team Competes At Md. Championships

Northern Garrett High School's Envirothon team recently traveled to the William S. Schmidt Outdoor Education Center in Prince George's County to compete in the Maryland State Envirothon Championships.

Team members included Danny Gallagher, Will Gallagher, Michael Guard, Mitchell Guard, Jordan Halsig, and Vicki Schlosnagle.

The "Northern Lights" traveled with other envirothon teams from the western region, arriving at the Schmidt Center on June 21. That evening the students were treated to a DNR Scales and Tails program, dissected owl pellets, and impersonated birds and frogs on a night hike.

The following day, team members received last minute training on the various natural resources topics they had studied throughout the year.

Specialists in soils, wildlife, forestry, aquatics, and non-point source pollution from various state and federal agencies (DNR, Maryland Department of Education, SCD, and NRCS) provided additional facts and clarification on issues specific to the coastal plain.

Team members also spent several hours working on their oral presentations. The problem they had to address was how to design a home that minimizes no-point source pollution in the environment.

The competition was held Saturday, June 23. The young sophomore team from Garrett County faced older teams composed mainly of juniors and seniors.

Every 45 minutes, they rotated between stations testing not only their memorization skills, but also their ability to apply what they had learned. They were tested on such things as their ability to age deer, calculate board feet, identify fish, and texture topsoil.

The "Northern Lights" ended up placing 16th of 20 teams, with their best events being wildlife (5th place) and soils (8th place).

According to their coaches, Liz McDowell and Ron Boyer, the "Northern Lights" have made "great strides" since last year. "Considering their knowledge bases, their age, and the fact that three of the team members are new this year, we are quite pleased with their showing," McDowell said. "We also gained several insights at the competition that should help us do a better job of coaching."

The Northern Garrett Co. Rescue Squad held its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday, July 10, at the Grantsville Squad.

Following a brief report by squad secretary and treasurer, a representative from each station reported on their activities. Walt Fearer of Friendsville's Station 3-1 reported the following: Squad 3-1 attended the parade in Markleysburg and won the trophy for "best appearing ambulance." They also assisted with the Neighborhood Crime Watch's "Picnic in the Park" on Saturday, during which time they also responded to four runs.

Mary Yoder announced that the NGCRS picnic will be held on August 26 at the New Germany State Park, beginning at 4 p.m.

A nominating committee was appointed since two members of the board will be leaving their seats in August. The committee consists of Mary Friend, Maxine Hetz, Joe Uphole, Ed Shoemake, Linda Leasure, and Hilda Wilburn.

Keith Bowman, a representative of Professional Associates from the new billing service, informed members regarding documentation procedures of run sheets to better assure that payment of services will be received by insurance companies.

Chairman Danny Durst informed members present that any further business items will be tabled until the next meeting in August. Many squad members were concerned that meeting procedures were not followed.

At the completion of the presentation by Mr. Bowman, no motion to adjourn the meeting was entertained, as Chairman Durst left the building immediately after the presentation.

Because of the abrupt close of the meeting, there was no discussion about the new station house in McHenry.

Notes from Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

One hundred persons were present at the annual reunion of the late Ed and Bess Buckel family at Harvey's Peninsula at Deep Creek Lake on July 4th. Max Buckel served as master of ceremony and called the meeting to order with prayer and greetings. Three new babies have been added to the family members during the past year: Annie Charlene, daughter of Jay and Charlene Moon, Amber Brooke Grimm, daughter of Cindy and Cheri Grimm, and Teagan Virginia, daughter of Brent and Kelly Beachy.

The 10th anniversary of the late Silas and Mary Alice (Bowser) Beachy and Cornelius and Lucinda Bowser families was held at the Bittinger fire hall on Sunday, with 85 people present. Glen Bowser of Mims, Fla., opened with prayer and greetings. Family members attending were from California, Ohio, Florida, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, and Maryland. Plans are to meet at the same place and same time on the second Sunday in July 2002.

The late Isaac Metzler family reunion was held recently at Mt. Pleasant Mennonite Church Camp. About 90 were in attendance. Attending from here were: Kathryn Bowser and her family, Henry, Bonnie, and William Bowser, Harrisonburg, and Hazel and Wayne Gomer from Hagerstown. Mary Stephen and son Dale and wife Betty, Bel Air, also attended and following the reunion spent the week at the Stephen farm along Peat Moss Road.

There will be a chicken barbecue this Saturday, July 14, at the Bittinger fire hall from 4 to 7 p.m.

Adam Brenneman, son of Rick and Connie Brenneman, received serious injuries in a car accident, but is now recovering at home.

MY NOTES

I am sorry to report that I do not have any real hot news from Bittinger, except that maybe it is hotter than usual. I did not check out the size of the crowd at Pleasant Valley/Cunningham Lake/Western Maryland 4-H Center public swimming area, but imagine that, in spite of the unusually high level of seaweed and algae, it is quite busy. It is such a lovely setting and the water is cool and refreshing, but sometimes the deer fly population makes sun-bathing a bit painful.

The traffic report on Rock Lodge Road is that it is busy with farm machinery going back and forth from farm to farm trying to make hay while the sun shines. The worst problem recently was a lot of rain over Saturday and Sunday. Luckily, Rodney took the advice of Kevin Bass and did not mow any hay on Thursday. It is always interesting to try to decide whether to cut or not to cut by the committee. So far no one shows any unusual talent for weather forecasting, and not even the cable weather channel really helps much.

I believe the best bet is to go with the Johnstown forecast.

You never know what you may see or what you may find out at a yard sale. One of the best yard sales around is the annual one held by Lottie Brenneman and her clan. One year I got the most enchanting German Christmas decoration, a merry-go-round with little angels, and it chimes when it turns, powered by the heat from the candles. This year I got the right-size candles for it. Birthday candles were too small. But I was astonished to learn who had the initials J.L.B. Would you believe it is Lottie herself? It turns out her real first name is Julia, Lottie being her middle name. Now, I have known Lottie my whole life and never knew her first name.

Good news for the coming weekend since it is the second Saturday of the month and the Bittinger Fire Department will hold its chicken barbecue. If you happen to be in our "neck of the woods," you should check out the best chicken dinner around. But don't wait until closing time, which is 7 p.m. because they often are sold out long before closing.

Oakland Child Killed In W.Va. ATV Accident

A 5-year-old Oakland boy was killed in nearby West Virginia last Thursday evening, July 12, in an all-terrain vehicle accident in northern Tucker County, according to the Tucker County Sheriff's Department.

Jaron Fulmer was riding on the ATV along with his twin brother and his paternal grandmother, Susan Fulmer, who was operating the vehicle along Lead Mine Road when the accident occurred at approximately 7 p.m. Deputies said that in attempting to turn around, the driver had put the vehicle in reverse and it rolled backward over an embankment and flipped.

Jaron Fulmer was pronounced dead at the Tucker County Community Care Facility in Parsons, W.Va., while the woman and the other boy were treated for their injuries at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

The accident is still under investigation by Tucker County authorities, although the lead detective said yesterday it is unlikely that charges will be forthcoming.

NEW COUNTY MAP AVAILABLE — A new full-color, glossy street map and resource guide for Garrett County is now available at the Visitors Center in McHenry. Produced by the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce and self-supported through member advertising, this free durable map is complete with detailed insets of each municipality and a map of the Deep Creek Lake area on the reverse side. As a new added convenience, a street name index is also included. According to chamber president Ken Wishnick, the mapping project has been in process for over six months. "We started with digital maps provided by the county planning office and then worked extensively with local realtors, town officials, DNR, the county roads department, and other officials to make this a far more accurate map than was previously produced," he said. The chamber received 31,000 copies of the new map, which is about a year's supply, Wishnick said. The map was designed by CommunityLink and printed by Morgantown Printing and Binding, both chamber members. The chamber board noted its appreciation to Lance Bell of AAD Inc., Cumberland, for donating the use of his photos on the map. Above, Visitors Center staffer Laura Reilly, left, shows Mary M. Johnson of Beltsville the route to Maryland's high point on Backbone Mountain, where Johnson and her family plan to hike.

Oakland Man Sentenced For Assault Charge

An Oakland man was sentenced recently by Garrett County Circuit Court Judge Jim Sherbin to five years at the Department of Corrections for a first-degree assault charge and to a concurrent two years for a reckless endangerment charge.

Matthew Lewis Best, 19, pleaded guilty to these charges in May, and Judge Sherbin requested a presentence investigation report be completed.

Best was arrested last October by Garrett County sheriff's deputies, who responded to a residence along Steyer Mine Road after Best called the sher-

Blaze Damages One-Story House Near Grantsville

The investigation continues into the cause of a fire that caused an estimated $50,000 in damages to a house near Grantsville last Friday morning.

Volunteer firefighters from four area departments were summoned at 7:32 a.m. to respond to the home of James and Nancy Thomas, located at 1050 Fosters Inn Road. Upon arrival of the first units, heavy smoke was coming from the one-story, wood-frame dwelling. The fire was brought under control in about 15 minutes; however, there was considerable heat and smoke damage done prior to the discovery of the fire.

According to a report from the office of the Maryland State Fire Marshal, the Thomas couple were on vacation at the time of the fire. Their son, Kenneth Thomas, arrived at the house to attend to the family dog, and noticed the odor of smoke. He called 911 for assistance.

Responding to the scene were approximately 50 firefighters from the Grantsville, Bittinger, and Salisbury, Pa., departments, along with the county air cascade unit, which is housed by the Deep Creek

Pa. Man Charged With Assaulting Family, Troopers

A 60-year-old Pennsylvania man was arrested over the weekend on charges of assaulting his wife and her adult son Saturday evening, and assaulting a pair of Maryland State Police troopers and resisting arrest as he was being apprehended the following afternoon.

Ernest Carl Slonaker, Greencastle, was riding in a vehicle with his wife, Sharon Lynne Slonaker, 54, and her son, Dean Richard Jones, 32, Cartersville, Ga., as the three were returning to Greencastle from another son's wedding. Mrs. Slonaker, who was driving, stopped at the Grantsville Holiday Inn to spend the night. Ernest Slonaker, reportedly intoxicated, told his companions that he refused to stay at the hotel and was going to drive himself home at that time.

A pushing match ensued between Mr. and Mrs. Slonaker, and the husband was able to wrestle the car keys away from his wife. Jones intervened, and the two men began fighting. The woman's adult son was reportedly struck several times in the face before he was able to retrieve the keys from Slonaker, who then walked away from the scene after allegedly threat-

A traffic stop in Accident Tuesday night led to the arrest of a Friendsville man for suspected distribution of marijuana and ketamine, according to a spokesperson for the McHenry barrack of the Maryland State Police. Earlier that same day state troopers arrested a pair of out-of-state residents for methamphetamine possession after a search of their tractor-trailer cab at the Finzel weigh station.

Joseph Paul Otto, 19, who also resides part time in Morgantown, W.Va., was stopped at the Amoco station along Garrett Highway at 10:05 p.m. for a seatbelt violation. Tfc. J.P. Grinnan reported that the odor of suspected burnt marijuana was emanating from the car and that Otto

Local Resident Sworn In As State Trooper

Brian Blocher, son of Ron and Denise Blocher, Grantsville, became a Maryland state trooper on June 29, graduating from the 116th trooper candidate class of the Maryland State Police at Pikesville.

The graduating class of 25 was one of the school's smallest candidate classes.

Issuing the oath and presiding over the ceremonies were State Police superintendent Col. David B. Mitchell, along with guest speaker John W. Marshall, former director of the United States Marshals Service.

The Maryland State Police Academy consists of six months of classroom study and physical training, followed by eight weeks of working on the job with a seasoned trooper before beginning patrol.

Blocher, grandson of Olen and Louise Brenneman, Patsy Blocher of Grantsville, and the late William Blocher, is a 1994 graduate of Northern High School and is married to Sarah (Bosley) Blocher. He began his assignment as a state trooper on July 3 in Rockville.

Camp Escapees To Be Tried As Adults In Court

The two 16-year-old youths who escaped from the Backbone Mountain Youth Camp in April and allegedly tried to carjack a Deer Park woman's vehicle will be tried as adults in Garrett County Circuit Court.

District Court Judge Ralph Burnett found probable cause in a preliminary hearing to forward the case of Devon Adams, District Heights, and Andrew McLean, Bowie, to circuit court.

Both youths are charged with various offenses, including attempted carjacking, burglary, escape, and assault charges. No trial date has been set.

Adams and McLean have been incarcerated in the Garrett County Detention Center in lieu of $100,000 bond each since their arrest April 27, according to police.

SHA Selects Route For Proposed Oakland Bypass

The Maryland State Highway Administration has announced its selection of a route for the proposed Oakland bypass, according to project director Carmeletta Harris. The selected roadway corresponds with the "Alternative 3—Option A/A-1 Hybrid," a combination of several other proposed bypass routes discussed by local, state, and federal officials, with input from the public, over the past two years.

The hybrid route (see SHA-supplied diagram) takes an eastern swing around downtown Oakland. Beginning at its southernmost point, the roadway will commence with a sweep connection at the existing junction of Rt. 219 and Rt. 135, where a stoplight is already in place. The bypass will proceed north through at-grade intersections, both controlled by stoplights, at both Dennett Road and Memorial Drive, and from Memorial Drive will curve toward the northwest to rejoin with existing Rt. 219 approximately 3,000 feet north of Old Rt. 219 in a second sweeping connection

EMBARKING ON MANY NEW EXPERIENCES can be scary for these New York City youngsters as they arrive in the area to spend two weeks with area host families as part of the Fresh Air Fund. Many have never traveled out of the city, but others have returned to visit the same host families from past summers. Darkness and animals are two of the things most children comment on while visiting such a different place. They often comment on how dark it is in the area compared to the bright lights of the big city. Seeing cows and other farm animals is also a new and exciting experience for these 6- to 18-year-olds. The Fresh Air Fund is an independent not-for-profit agency that has provided free summer vacations for more than 1.7 million children since 1877. Photos by Jeremy Carr

Adult, Youth Charged In BB Gun Incident

A Mtn. Lake Park man and an Oakland juvenile were arrested recently by the Oakland Police Department on charges stemming from an incident where the two reportedly shot each other with a BB gun "for fun."

Officers learned of the incident shortly after 11:30 p.m. Wednesday, July 11, when the juvenile sought treatment at the emergency room of Garrett County Memorial Hospital for a BB pellet wound to the side of his face. An investigation revealed that he and Randy Lee Walters, 19, had allegedly shot each other one time each "for fun." The BB gun shootings had reportedly taken place outdoors along Fourth Street, and the juvenile had been shot in the cheek while Walters had been wounded in the leg.

Both subjects have been charged with second degree assault and reckless endangerment. Walters was subsequently released from the Garrett County Detention Center after he posted a $500 bond set by a district court commissioner, while the juvenile's case is being processed by the Department of Juvenile Services.

In other Oakland police activity, a 22-year-old man was arrested Friday night for allegedly entering unlocked vehicles in the parking lot of Garrett Memorial Hospital.

Melvin Lee Minnick, Oakland, faces three counts of rogue and vagabond behavior stemming from a 2:36 p.m. report of a suspicious person in the parking lot. The suspect was reportedly observed searching the interiors of three vehicles.

In the course of the investigation, Minnick was identified as the subject and an arrest warrant was obtained. He was released after the arrest when he posted a $200 bond.

OAKLAND BYPASS ROUTE SELECTED — The Maryland State Highway Administration has made its choice of a route for the proposed Oakland bypass. The "hybrid" alternative is shown above in a map that was mailed by the SHA to local residents this week. The proposed two-lane road project will allow for a future upgrade to a divided four-lane highway if needed, according to state officials. At present no funding is available for the $38 to $40 million project.

Traffic Stops Result In DWI Arrests

Garrett County sheriff's deputies made numerous traffic stops which resulted in the drivers being charged with driving while intoxicated (DWI) this week.

Deputies stopped a vehicle on Maryland Highway near Oakview Motors Monday around 6:15 p.m. Darrell Ray Ravenscroft, 26, Loch Lynn, was arrested and charged with DWI, driving on a suspended license, driving without a license, and failing to drive right of center.

He was released from the Garrett County Detention Center on $500 bond.

Later that evening, deputies stopped another motorist on Route 219 in the area of Deep Creek Lake for failing to drive right of center.

Annette W. Choate, 60, McMurray, Pa., failed field sobriety tests and was arrested for DWI. Choate was later released after her initial appearance before a district court commissioner, police said.

Two other motorists were stopped by deputies on Garrett Highway this week and face DWI charges.

Those arrested and charged were Geraldine Marie Birachland, 43, Accident, and Richard Michael Kendall, 43, Uniontown, Pa.

Task Force Busts, Arrests Group For Suspected Drugs

Members of the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force, assisted by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office and the Oakland City Police, executed a search and seizure warrant at 301 South 2nd Street in Oakland around 6:30 p.m. Thursday, July 12, which resulted in the arrest of seven adults and two female juveniles, according to a spokesperson for the task force.

As a result of the warrant, a quantity of suspected LSD, a small quantity of suspected marijuana, and several pieces of drug paraphernalia were discovered.

All were charged with possession with intent to distribute LSD or possession of marijuana and paraphernalia.

The adults arrested were Geoffrey Allen Reams, 18, Oakland; Benjamin Joseph Farmer, 18, Oakland; Jonathan Casey Moriarity, 19, Mtn. Lake Park; Adam E. Smith, 20, Oakland; John S. Peterson, 20, Oakland; William Michael Dillon II, 20, Oakland; and Tanya Marie Shrout, 18, Wagsborgh, Ohio.

Farmer and Smith were released after posting a $1,000 bond, and Moriarity, Dillon, and Shrout were all released after posting a $5,000 bond each. Reams and Peterson are still incarcerated in the Garrett County Detention Center each on a $20,000 bond.

Many Charges Stem From Single Vehicle Accident

Garrett County sheriff's deputies responded to a motor vehicle accident on Hutton Road near Ashby Ellis Road early Friday morning, which resulted in the driver being arrested for numerous charges.

Frederick Edward Helbig Jr., 21, Oakland, was charged with driving while intoxicated (DWI), failing to drive right of center, negligent driving, and failing to return and remain at the scene of an accident.

Helbig was released from the Garrett County Detention Center after posting $1,000 bond.

An Oakland woman was also arrested by deputies for DWI early Friday morning after deputies made a traffic stop on Garrett Highway near Arrowhead Market, and arrested Elizabeth Lascaris McDonald, 18, Swanton.

She was charged with DWI, failing to drive right of center, violating a license restriction, and possession of an alcoholic beverage under the age of 21.

McDonald was later released, police said.

Another woman was arrested by deputies after a traffic stop early Sunday morning on Sand Flat Road near Boy Scout Road.

Hope Louise Bolyard, 52, Morgantown, was arrested and charged with DWI and failing to drive right of center.

Bolyard was later released.

iff's office to report he was the victim of an assault. While speaking with the dispatcher, Best reportedly made statements that he was going to get a gun and shoot the person he alleged had assaulted him.

He was located shortly thereafter at the residence of the victim, with a shotgun in his hand. Witnesses reported shots had been fired, and deputies found holes in the side of the victim's residence, according to the Garrett County State's Attorney's office. Alcohol was reported to have played a role in the incident.

Best has been incarcerated in the Garrett County Jail since his arrest.

In another case, Kenneth George Wiley, 32, Cumberland, was also sentenced to five years at the DOC for violating his probation, which he admitted to the court. Wiley was originally sentenced in 1999 by Judge Sherbin to five years for second-degree assault, one year for driving while intoxicated (DWI), and one year for driving while revoked.

Those sentences were consecutive to each other, and Wiley was to serve 18 months. The remaining 6½ years were suspended, and he was placed on supervised probation for three years upon his release, according to Lisa Thayer Welch, state's attorney.

In March of this year, Wiley was charged with numerous motor vehicle violations in Allegany County. In May, he appeared in the District Court of Maryland for Allegany County and pleaded guilty to two of those charges, DWI and driving while revoked. Based on these subsequent charges, as well as his consumption of alcohol, the Division of Parole and Probation had reported violations to the circuit court that resulted in the hearing.

A former resident of Grantsville was also sentenced by Judge Sherbin on a second-degree assault charge. Tracy Eugene Suter, 30, was given a one-year sentence in the Garrett County Jail, which was suspended, and Suter was placed on supervised probation for that year.

A fine of $200 was also imposed. Suter had pleaded guilty to the assault in May, and a pre-sentence investigation report was requested by the court.

Officers with the Garrett Bureau of Investigation charged Suter in December with child abuse and second-degree assault upon a 5-year-old boy who had been struck in the face a number of times by Suter, leaving bruises on his cheek and eye area, according to the state's attorney.

Suter had explained to officers that he had reacted when the child cursed at him when being disciplined. Workers of the Garrett County Department of Social Services participated in the investigation.

in the form of a modified T-intersection.

The bypass is initially planned as a two-lane undivided roadway, with additional right-of-way to allow for an upgrade to a four-lane divided highway with partial control access, if deemed necessary in the future. From Rt. 135 north beyond High Street, a reduced median strip with curb and gutter will be in place, and sidewalks will be constructed between Oak Street, the southern terminus, and Dennett Road. Shoulders on the outside edge of the roadway from Dennett Road to the northern terminus will be available for use by bicyclists and pedestrians.

Although the bypass has been designed to handle traffic traveling up to 55 miles per hour, SHA representatives said that the posted speed will be lower to reflect the neighborhood surroundings the road traverses. Harris could not specify what the speed limit would be at this point.

Harris said that a Finding of No Significant Impacts (FONSI) document is being finalized and could be approved before the end of the month by the Federal Highway Administration. Following approval, the FONSI document will be described in another SHA mail flyer, which will contain more detailed information on the selected alternative. The project will then join the list of other state highway projects awaiting future funding.

The total cost of construction, for which no timetable has been set, ranges from $38 to $40 million, according to Harris.

Changes In Scholarship Funding Noted By Financial Aid Director

Legislative changes that benefit students applying for scholarships have been announced by the Maryland Higher Education Commission in a release received by Pat Bennett, Garrett Community College director of financial aid.

To address Maryland's teacher shortage, eligibility has been expanded under the Maryland Teacher Scholarship Program to include graduate students enrolled part time in an academic program leading to a Maryland teacher's certificate. The award amount for eligible part-time students is $2,500.

Undergraduate students currently enrolled in college may now apply for the Maryland Science Technology Scholarship. In the past only high school seniors were eligible to apply.

Students enrolled concurrently in high school and college may be eligible for a grant under the Maryland Part-Time Grant Program. This program is an incentive for high school students to take college courses and would apply to students in the Early College Admissions Program, as well as to other high school students who take college courses.

Two additional changes have been announced. The grant award available under the Maryland Nursing Scholarship to students pursuing a career in nursing has been raised from $2,400 to $3,000. Maximum family income for eligibility for the Maryland HOPE scholarship and the HOPE Community College Transfer Scholarship Program has been increased from $80,000 to $95,000.

These legislative changes are now in effect for the next academic year, according to Bennett. Anyone desiring further information may contact the State Scholarship Administration at 800-974-1024.

Texas Trucker Injured In I-68 Crash Thursday

A tractor-trailer operator was seriously injured last Thursday evening, July 12, when he lost control of his rig along westbound Interstate 68 halfway between Keysers Ridge and Friendsville at 6:58 p.m. The truck driver, who was hospitalized for several days in Cumberland, was not wearing his seat belt and was ejected from the cab at the time of the crash, according to the McHenry barrack of the Maryland State Police.

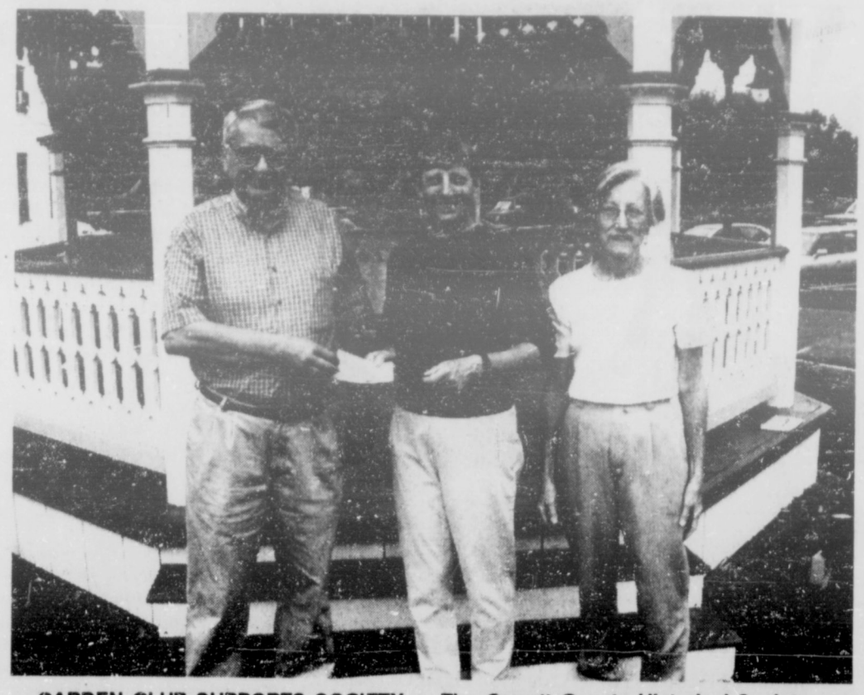
Wayne Delwood Kelly, 33, of Nevada, Texas, was hauling a pair of 20,000-pound steel coils on a flatbed trailer when the payload shifted while the truck was navigating a curve at the nine-mile marker. His 1994 Kenworth C600 cab and the trailer both overturned, crashed through a guardrail, and went over an embankment and down the other side before coming to rest.

Kelly was ejected clear from the cab, partially because he was not wearing a seatbelt. He was transported by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad to Cumberland Memorial Hospital. The Friendsville Volunteer Fire Department also assisted on the scene. No charges were filed by the investigating state trooper.

In a separate accident investigation, state police reported that another Texas man sustained minor injuries when he wrecked his pickup truck Saturday along eastbound I-68 in approximately the same location.

John William Schelter, 26, Houston, reportedly fell asleep at the wheel of his 1998 Toyota Tacoma at 9:57 a.m. The vehicle ran off the roadway and struck a guardrail. The truck's momentum carried it onto the top of guardrail, where it came to rest.

The Northern Rescue Squad transported Schelter to Cumberland Memorial, where he was treated and released. The Friendsville VFD assisted, and no charges were filed by state police.



GARDEN CLUB SUPPORTS SOCIETY — The Garrett County Historical Society was the recipient of a $100 donation from the Mountain Laurel Garden Club to be used toward the purchase of flowers that will be planted around the restored Deer Park Hotel gazebo in downtown Oakland. The donation came from proceeds generated during the club's second annual garden tour, "Secret Country Gardens." Plans are underway for next year's tour in June. Pictured above are Bob Boal, president of the GCHS, Susan Welsbrod, chair of the garden tour, and Louise Wilson, president of the Mountain Laurel Garden Club.

Friendsville Man Faces Charges After Collision

A Friendsville man faces several charges, including driving while intoxicated (DWI) after his vehicle struck a parked car Sunday evening at the Citgo station along Route 42, according to a spokesperson for the McHenry barrack of the Maryland State Police.

Craig Edward Stanton, 29, was arrested after the 6:14 p.m. crash and charged with DWI, negligent driving, and driving on a revoked license. He is accused of driving his 1993 Ford Escort into a parked 1999 Chevrolet Geo. No injuries resulted from the mishap. Following his arrest Stanton was released from the Garrett County Detention Center when he posted a $1,000 bond as set by a district court commissioner.

Another Friendsville man was arrested on a DWI charge early Saturday morning by a state trooper checking on a suspicious vehicle with its engine running. The car was located along Maple Street at 4:05 p.m.

Robert Tressler, 41, was discovered sitting in the driver's seat of his vehicle with the engine running and the transmission in drive. He was arrested after field sobriety tests were administered, and later released on his own recognizance.

all the programs, Brode said. This past fiscal year there was a weekly average participation at the centers and sites of 225. Brode added that they have served 260 unduplicated seniors this year to date.

Home-delivered meals is another of the nutrition services provided. According to Brode, the program serves meals five days a week, but the federal and state funding only allows for three meals a week. She added that the Area Agency on Aging (AAA) has requested financial aid to decrease delivery costs, but have not yet received an answer.

"This is an expensive program to operate, but it is the most needed by a very vulnerable population," Brode said.

In-home services are also provided including personal care, prescription assistance, and medical transportation. Brode reported that 86 seniors received in-home services last year, and 167 received case management services.

The agency serves approximately 1,300 persons age 60 and over each year, which is 20% of the 60+ population. These services include recreation, preventive health, continuing education, information and assistance, telephone reassurance, physical fitness, and legal services.

The AAA also provides long-term care to seniors. Currently the agency serves as legal guardian to five individuals. Brode said this number used to be much higher, but many seniors have done such things as assigning their own guardian or signing living wills.

The agency serves as a liaison between long-term care facilities and residents and/or their families, assisting in addressing complaints, and assuring adequate quality of care is provided to all residents.

Brode noted the senior health insurance program is a major issue for seniors. The agency provides counseling plus information and assistance regarding health insurance, among other issues.

The Community Action owned facility, Rose Terrace, currently provides care to 10 elderly, Yoder said. The AAA also monitors all licensed Assisted Living facilities with 4 to 16 residents.

Yoder also mentioned the fitness center which will be built in the Flowery Vale Senior Center in Accident.

"We are really excited about this," Brode said. "We wanted to target people who may not be real comfortable going to other places with much younger people. This will be a place where seniors can feel comfortable."

She added that they are currently looking for a personal trainer who will provide individual programs for those people age 55 and over. Brode added that the cost will be $10 per month and/or $100 per year, and will include access to the trainer, classes, and all equipment.

appeared to be acting in an unduly nervous manner. A search revealed two bags of suspected marijuana, along with small quantities of suspected ketamine and oxycontin.

Otto was arrested on charges of possession of marijuana and ketamine, and possession of marijuana and Ketamine with intent to distribute. He was detained at the Garrett County Detention Center on a $10,000 bond as set by a district court commissioner.

Earlier that same afternoon, a K-9 vehicle scan conducted during a truck inspection at the Finzel scale house along Interstate 68 resulted the arrest of the truck's two occupants on drug charges.

Michael Poland, 29, West Moreland, Tenn., and his passenger, Sheryl Harmon, 38, Alan Reed, Texas, both face charges of possession of methamphetamine and drug paraphernalia stemming from the 2:17 p.m. search of Poland's 1999 Peterbuilt truck tractor. The pair were released from jail after each suspect posted a $1,000 bond.

Ketamine is a prescription veterinary anesthetic, and oxycontin is a powerful prescription pain medication for human patients. Methamphetamine is a homemade drug. Persons with information regarding suspected possession, manufacture, or distribution of these or any other illegal drugs are encouraged to contact the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force at 301-387-9566 or 301-895-5589, or any other law enforcement agency.

Tip of an Iceberg...

The never-ending, unresolvable debate over abortion is becoming still more complicated, with the recent advancement of something called stem cell research. The exciting news about progress in stem cell research is that the resulting treatment/therapy offers new hope for persons who are living with chronic, or even fatal, illnesses, paralysis, and a host of other physical maladies. What has always been incurable now may be curable. The catch is, stem cells are harvested from what are, at least technically speaking, human beings, resulting in the death of that being.

This is, of course, the crux of the abortion debate. Those adamantly opposed to abortion say that life begins at the moment of conception, and regardless of the circumstances, the decision to terminate that pregnancy is an act of murder and assuming the role of God. Those on the other end of the argument maintain that no one, including the government, has a right to make such decisions for an expectant mother, and the decision to abort an unwanted pregnancy is private business. Most agree that at least basic life begins at conception, but many disagree with the notion that a fertilized egg should immediately be regarded as a human being.

Frankly, stem cell research has thrown the prolifers into a bit of a quandary. The preservation of life is paramount to them, yet the use of stem cells could save literally thousands of lives, lives of people who are already here among us. Conversely, outlawing the use of stem cells could, in a number of cases, equate to a death sentence.

Already there are literally millions of human eggs and sperm kept in storage in various labs and clinics that are routinely and ultimately just poured down the drain. It is no wonder that those suffering from one or more of the aforementioned health problems, and their loved ones, see this as a terrible waste of hope.

Somewhere in all of this there must be a compromise, and there is most likely a silent majority that would be willing to accept compromise. While we are usually opposed to a lot of government regulation and control, we believe there must be strict government controls over whatever is ultimately determined to be legal in this arena, because the stem cell debate is just the tip of the iceberg. Throw in cloning and genetic engineering, which are also upon us or just around the corner, and the ethical and moral ramifications are staggering.

To the Editor:

I was passing through Oakland on Tuesday, July 10, when I carelessly locked my keys in the switch of my car. Fortunately, there are many kind people in Oakland. The ladies who were working in the Starlight Motel (next to Denny's) were kind enough to call the city police for assistance. Thank you, Carol and Amy. Corporal Alexander was on duty and responded promptly to our call for assistance. Thanks to Amy and Corporal Alexander, we were promptly on our way home.

I have always thought that Oakland was a nice town to visit — Now I have proof.

Thank you,
Faith Moore
Parsons, W.Va.

To the Editor:

The League of Women Voters of Garrett County will hold its annual picnic on July 24 at Broadford Park's pavilion #1, beginning at 6 p.m. We have invited most of the elected officials and have been told that Sen. John J. Hafer plans to attend. Several county and town officials from throughout Garrett County also plan to attend, including County Commissioners Gregg and Beitzel.

We want to extend an invitation to members of the general public to join League members for this opportunity to discuss state and local issues while enjoying good food, good conversation and the lovely, cool setting of Broadford Park.

As always, at any of the League's events, the press is also invited to join us.

To the Editor:

Although a few weeks have gone by, I just wanted to let the folks know who were involved in the 4th of July fireworks display at Broadford Park, you folks did a fantastic job this year. They were absolutely beautiful.

To the Editor:

That was a wonderful article (two weeks ago) about your retiring farm editor, Bernice Kepple. She has touched so many people in many different ways.

Bernice is definitely a hard-working woman, my friend, and also my past 4-H leader. I think everyone at The Republican office will miss her, but we at the Garrett County Farm Bureau will miss her, too. She has always been the behind-the-scenes newswriter for the Farm Bureau, and the farm queen contest and other events. She has always been there to write an article, lend a camera, and to share her advice on a farming topic or event.

We at the Farm Bureau will truly miss you, Bernice. We thank you for all your help over the years. May God bless you, and may you have a very happy retirement.

View From My Window

by Jeffrey Wilson

I hate weddings so much myself that I count it a sign of sense and sanity in anyone else who hates them. My prejudice began to be formed at the age of 5 when I got a paddling from my father at the first wedding I ever attended.

The paddling, only one of two I can ever remember receiving from my father, was itself a sign that I had already developed a negative opinion of weddings. I was an amazingly well-behaved little boy. That I had misbehaved at the wedding is clear evidence that I did not like what was going on.

This prejudice has been reinforced at most of the weddings I have attended since then. I refuse to officiate at weddings outside of my congregation, and I avoid attending all other weddings whenever possible. As a cousin of mine says, "I think I'm going to be busy that day — when is it?"

What higher compliment could I pay to Jan Karon than to say that I like her latest book, even if it is about a wedding. A Common Life is, like all of Ms. Karon's other books, lovely from the first word to the last.

Ms. Karon has created a town in North Carolina called Mitford, whose Episcopal priest is the hero of her series. Though A Common Life is the most recent of Ms. Karon's Mitford books, it is not about the most recent events in the life of Fr. Tim. Ms. Karon's last book, A New Song, tells a story chronologically after the wedding, after Fr. Tim's retirement, in fact.

I suspect that Ms. Karon has some trouble with this book. It is her shortest novel (186 pp). In fact, it is such a quick read that those buying the hardback version ($24.95 from Viking) might feel that they have to read it twice to get their money's worth.

A Common Life reads like a long vignette rather than a novel. As I tried to imagine how the author might have put more stuffing into the book, the dilemma became clear. Either much too much would have to be said about the wedding or the wedding would lose its centrality in the novel.

There is real wisdom in this book, as in all the volumes of the Mitford series. "There will be many times when fear breaks in;..." the priest says to his future bride, "we can never be taken prisoner if we greet it in prayer." (p. 118). There is the wonderful image of a woman "peeling potatoes with a knife too dull to cut butter." (p. 125)

There are frequent occasions when A Common Life is laugh-out-loud funny. There are also passages that brought tears to, at least, one reader.

Anyone who has not read all of the other Mitford books should read the others before reading this one, though some argument could be made for inserting A Common Life in its chronological niche.

The one exception to that advice would be persons planning weddings. One of the subtle strengths of A Common Life is the way that Ms. Karon makes clear how different the experience of a wedding is for each person having something to do with it. She has a gift of getting inside people which, in this instance, illuminates the lives of those who make a wedding happen.

Perhaps the most poignant of these differences is that the thing the groom hates most about a wedding is something the bride really enjoys. That is consistent with my own professional experience with weddings. How odd that an event which has as its purpose the uniting of two lives should have as a fundamental characteristic the pointing out of how differently bride and groom see the world.

Everyone and everything in Mitford makes an appearance in A Common Life, though most often only a cameo appearance due mostly to the book's brevity. For the aficionados of Mitford, Uncle Billy has a joke or two, and the orange marmalade cake has its place. Fr. Tim's bishop comes in for a strong supporting role, and even the Presbyterians get to play their part.

What is most refreshing about this book and all the books in the Mitford series is that they are explicitly Christian without being preachy or just plain icky, as most other intentionally Christian novels are. Ms. Karon depicts real people praying from the authenticity of their lives in sincere faith. At a time when Christianity is driven from the public square and what public Christianity there is often seems phoney, Ms. Karon's achievement is considerable. She has my enduring gratitude.

Generousity Unleashed As Humane Society Benefit Raises Over $6K

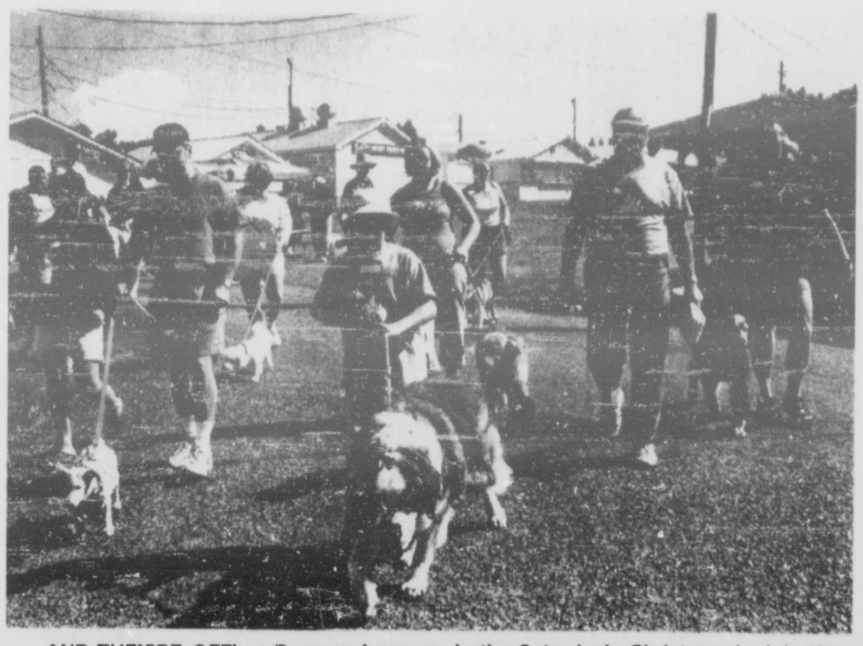
by Annette Robinson
GC Humane Society

Glorious morning sunshine set the tone for Saturday's "Christmas in July" fund-raiser for the Garrett County Humane Society. By 9 a.m. the Garrett County Fairgrounds was alive with activity for the third annual event, as dogs and their owners from around the county and beyond began arriving for the event.

The "Strut Your Mutt" walkathon got underway at 10 a.m., lead for a short while by Deb Clatterbuck of the chamber of commerce and her dog "Luna," the chamber's new four-legged ambassador. In all, 27 enthusiastic walkers and their dogs were joined by spouses, family members, and friends. They filled the morning air with a melody of enthusiastic chanter, the panting of excited dogs, and the beat of human footfall, accompanied by canine paws crunching in the gravel. The strutters and their mutts were able to garner more than $2,000 in pledges for the Humane Society.

Prizes were awarded to the individual walkers and their dogs who brought in the three highest pledge amounts. Clatterbuck and Luna received first place recognition and a prize of dinner for two at the Will O' the Wisp Four Seasons Restaurant for raising $340 in pledges. Jane Avery and "Max" received a second place prize of Sunday brunch for two at Taste Unlimited Lakeside for raising $260, and Kathy Taylor and her Akita "Magic" received a certificate from Brenda's Pizzeria for raising $155 in pledges. Free T-shirts were given to walkers who raised $50 or more, and free gift bags were given to all participants.

At 11 a.m. the "Fido Costume Contest" got underway. A large audience was entertained as dogs in various outfits paraded across the stage. First place recognition went to cowboy-clad "Pretzel" and "Rascal," two Yorkshire terriers owned by Donna Paul. They received a $50 gift certificate to dine at The Silver Tree center. Second place, and a certificate for dinner at the Point View Inn, went to Amorette Hughes and her dog "Lady." They were both dressed in poodle skirts and ready for the sock hop. Jennifer Donham and "Muffy" took third place, and two free dinners at Denny's, with their "tourist" ensembles complete with "real cool shades."



AND THEY'RE OFF! — Dogs and owners in the Saturday's Christmas in July "Strut Your Mutt" walkathon fund-raiser for the Garrett County Humane Society are shown above at the left embarking on their stroll. The third annual GC Fairgrounds benefit raised over $6,000 for the Humane Society's local chapter, with the 27 walkathon participants raising over $2,000 of that amount. Contestants in the "Fido Costume Contest" are shown above right awaiting the judges' decision. From the left are Kathy Taylor and "Magic," her ballet tutu-wearing Akita; third place winner Amorette Hughes and "Lady," who are dressed in matching 1950s poodle skirts; Lauren Jolles and her Yorkshire terrier "Corky," dressed in khaki pants and a T-shirt; and contest winner Donna Paul with her two lasso-toting cowboy Yorkies, "Pretzel" and "Rascal." Below left is Deb Clatterbuck of the GC Chamber of Commerce, and her French bulldog "Luna," as they prepare to kick off the Strut. Clatterbuck's sandwich board names the pet-friendly businesses that helped her raise $340 for the walkathon, the highest amount of pledges for that event. It was one of those dog days of summer in the finest sense, as the two canines in the foreground of the lower right photo would attest. Every dog had his day, even if there weren't any cats to chase.

Seven people entered their dogs in the first "Doggie Talent Show" of the annual benefit. First prize and an Uno's dinner certificate with movie tickets to the Garrett 8 Cinemas went to Paul Fabish and his dogs "Nikita" and "Cisco." Besides doing standard dog tricks, Nikita, a large Husky, wowed the audience with his ability to say "hello," high five, and play dead when "shot." Cisco, a black Lab, was able to retrieve three balls at one time.

The talent show's second place honors, and a certificate to McClive's, went to Lauren Jolles and her Yorkshire terrier "Corky" for performing a variety of basic dog tricks. Adrian Amrine and her 12-week-old puppy "Baily," showed that even a young puppy can master "sit, down, shake, and dance." They received a third place prize of a gift certificate to Annie's Kitchen.

Throughout the day bids were accepted on items in the silent and Chinese auctions displayed in the 4-H building, and winning bids were announced toward the end of the afternoon. Members of the Mountaineer Kennel Club of Morgantown were on hand during the afternoon to entertain visitors with their dogs' agility and obedience demonstrations. Members of the public were also invited to test the dogs' agility skills.

The day concluded with the drawing of a winner in the Humane Society's 50/50 Raffle. The winner, who wished to remain anonymous, generously donated his nearly $800 in winnings back to the Humane Society in memory of his dog "Winston."

The Christmas in July fund-raiser enabled the Garrett County Humane Society, with the support of many individuals and local businesses, to raise over $6,000. A big "Thank You" goes out to everyone who helped make the event such a success.

OTT ONE-ACTS HIT THE STAGE TONIGHT — Our Town Theatre's one-act play series will be presented tonight through Saturday, July 19-21, at 8 p.m., and again on Sunday, July 22, at 2 p.m. A one-act titled A Device Out of Time, written by Ray Bradbury, is directed by Richard Hill. The second play of the evening, under the direction of Mikey Virts, is based upon a Kurt Vonnegut Jr. short story and is titled Long Walk to Forever. Closing out the evening's performances will be a production of An Actor's Nightmare, directed by Alex Hill. This outrageous comedy, written by Christopher Durang, offers a glimpse into the mind of George, an actor who perhaps embodies the fears of every actor...at least according to Durang. Pictured from left to right in the second row are players Sue Harkins, Josh Elmlinger, Barbara Ann Reed, and Brandon Mason. In the second row are John Armstrong, Fern Otero Wroten, and John Wilson. On the floor are actors Nathan DiSimone and Catherine Donaldson. Not present for the photo was actress Molly McGowan. All three one-acts will be shown at each performance, and reservations can be made by calling the OTT box office at 301-334-5640. The theatre is located at 121 East Center Street in Oakland.

Fiddler... Will Be Next Offering Of West Va. PT

West Virginia Public Theatre will present the family classic Fiddler on the Roof at the Creative Arts Center in Morgantown July 24-29.

Fiddler on the Roof takes place in Anatevka, a small turn-of-thecentury peasant Jewish village in Czarist Russia. The story revolves around the poor milkman/philosopher Tevye (Spiro Malas), who schemes to marry off his five daughters according to his family's "traditions." When his eldest daughter, Tzeitel (Alison Cimmett) begs him to let her marry a poor tailor with whom she has fallen in love, rather than the middle-aged butcher (Joel Kramer) that he has already chosen for her, Tevye must choose between his own daughter's happiness and his beloved beliefs. Meanwhile there are oppressive forces at work in Anatevka, which force Tevye and his fellow villagers from their homes. When they realize that their world has changed, they set out to find new lives in a new land, taking with them their few possessions and their abiding faith.

Malas, a world-renowned opera star, was last seen on the WVPT stage as Tony in The Most Happy Fella (summer 2000). He has also appeared in numerous commercials and on such TV series as Law and Order, Spenser for Hire, The Equalizer, and One Life to Live. He has also recorded with Kiri Te Kanawa, Dame Joan Sutherland, Luciano Pavarotti, and Beverly Sills.

Cimmett has appeared in recent New York roles, which include the Telephone Girl in Manchinal, and Gymnasia in A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum. Kramer has appeared on Broadway in Candide, Slab Boys, and Animals. He has also appeared in the national tour of Passion of Dracula and Fiddler on the Roof.

Fiddler features such hits as "Tradition," "Matchmaker, Matchmaker," "If I were a Rich Man," and "Sunrise, Sunset." It is based on the short story "Tevye and His Daughters" by Sholom Aleichem.

West Virginia Public Theatre will also be presenting Carousel July 31 - August 5. Grease will run Oct. 15-20 at the State Theatre in Uniontown, Pa. The holiday favorite A Christmas Carol is slated for December 16-23, also at the Creative Arts Center.

Reserve tickets to WVPT performances can be obtained by calling the WVPT box office at 304-599-6785. The box office is open Monday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Tuesday-Friday, 9 a.m. to intermission; Saturday and Sunday, noon to intermission. Persons may also visit the WVPT web site at www.wvpublictheatre.org.

Pepper Extract for Pain: Capsaicin

Many people use capsaicin for chronic pain. Capsaicin is the active component of the common cayenne pepper. The pepper it produces technically is a berry. Capsaicin causes the capsicuin berry to be "hot," pungent, and irritating.

Topically applied capsaicin has been studied in many types of pain, incluuding post-herpetic neuralgia (shingles), trigeminal neuralgia (tic douloureaux), rheumatoid and osteoarthritis, and psoriasis. Typically, creams containing less than 1 part per 1,000 capsaicin are applied to the skin up to 4 times a day.

Capsaicin may relieve pain by directly affecting pain fibers. A chemical called substance P is responsible for transmitting pain impulses to the brain from the periphery (e.g., skin or joints). Capsaicin first stimulates pain fibers and then depletes them of substance P. As a result, pain "messages" cannot be sent to the brain, where they otherwise would be sensed.

Watercolors By Sue Arnson On Display At Center

The Garrett County Arts Council is exhibiting the watercolors of local resident Sue Arnson at the Visitors Center in McHenry. Her paintings feature local scenes and flowers. The paintings at the Visitors Center represent new work that Mrs. Arnson has completed during the past year.

Arnson is a native of Bellevue, Wash., where she lived until she moved to New York City in 1965. In 1972 she moved to Bethesda, where she raised two sons and was a special education teacher in Montgomery County public schools. She and her husband Alan own and operate the Loft Shop in Bittinger.

They opened the shop in the summer of 1987, after moving to Garrett County from Bethesda. The Loft Shop began as a craft shop and has evolved to featuring fine arts and unique handcrafted works of local artisans. Approximately 20 artisans show their work at the shop each season. The shop is open Thursday through Sunday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. from June 30 through Autumn Glory weekend.

Arnson began watercolor painting a few years ago, studying with noted Allegany County artist Alexis Lavine. Sue has gone on to study with Jim McNeil of Garrett County and David Daniels of Takoma Park. Her studio is located next to the Loft Shop, where she works in several media.

The paintings at the Visitors Center are for sale and can be purchased at the center or through the Garrett County Arts Council.

Susan Greenbaum Featured Artist At Tomorrow's Yough Music Fest

Susan Greenbaum, a national runner-up in the annual John Lennon Song Writing Contest two years ago, will be the headline performer at tomorrow night's free Little Yough Summer Music Festival concert set for tomorrow, Friday, July 20, at the Mountain Fresh Pavilion in Oakland. Greenbaum will take to the stage at 7 p.m. after a 5:30 p.m. opening act appearance by the Accident-based blues, funk, and reggae youth band Eclectic Flow, composed of Josh Friend, Shawn Bittinger, Nathan Friend, and Matt Stieringer.

Greenbaum's second and most recent CD, Wake Up!, is a "polished and professional [production] that also overflows with the love of life and music," according to a Richmond Music Journal review. "It is an outstanding accomplishment in singing, songwriting, and performing, coupled with an acute sense of timing. The melodies are superb, [but] what makes the album so special is the lyrics. They are sublime, intricate stories that interweave layers of meaning all at the same time. [Wake Up!] is invigorating lyrics coupled with a beautiful, powerful, dynamic voice that is full of life and emotion. It's a powerful combination."

A Richmond, Va., resident who grew up in Kansas City, Greenbaum's introduction to music came in her church choir and as a member of a harmony group. After graduating from Harvard with an English degree in the early 1980s and working first as a marketing manager, then as a marketing executive, Greenbaum entered her song "Dead End Main Street" in the folk category of the 1999 John Lennon Song Writing Contest. The contest judges, who included artists such as Elton John and Joan Osborne, selected her composition as one of the top 10 entries in the nationwide competition, just behind three finalists and the grand prize winner.

"Dead End Main Street" appeared on Wake Up!, which followed Greenbaum's debut recording, Actual Size, released in late 1997 shortly after one of her brothers died of a brain tumor. "That changes the way you look at things," the musician observed afterward. "I just realized I needed to be more giving to the world."

Greenbaum, whose singing is accompanied by her own acoustic guitar playing and her band, has shared stages with John Fogerty, the Allman Brothers, Three Dog Night, Livingston Taylor, and Sister Hazel.

Tomorrow's free installment of the Little Yough Summer Music Festival Series is being sponsored by Uno Restaurant and Bar.

Young Artists Complete Camp; Work On Display

The first in a series of three weeklong workshops for young creative talent, funded by the Sprenger-Lang Foundation, ended last Friday. Twenty-four young artists ranging from grades 7 through graduating high school seniors participated in an aggressive curriculum of both drawing and painting at Garrett Community College. The public can view a selection of their work at The Gallery along Alder Street in Oakland.

Featured in the display is a collective work painted by each of the students. Artists were asked by painting instructor Laura Stutzman to paint only one portion of the overall work in the shape of a square. Each of the 24 painted squares were then assembled to make one overall image, titled "Eye Candy." This project teaches students to closely follow parameters and still maintain their creative edge. The week provided students with lessons in color theory, composition, drawing and painting techniques, anatomy, and working with live subjects.

Many drawings are also on display that explore disciplines in light and shadow, contour, life drawing, and drawing in more than one color. Instructor Mark Stutzman teaches drawing using conventional techniques. The Stutzmans developed a course of study that they believe "broadens the students' interpretive skills and makes a blank page seem less intimidating."

The Young Artists' Workshop is one of three consecutive creative workshops offered by GLAF. Additional workshops are in place for writers and actors. Anyone interested in these workshops is invited to contact the GLAF office at 301-387-3082 for information. All programs are cur-

CONCERT BENEFITS LIBRARY PROJECT - The "Concert in the Park" held last Friday evening at Grantsville Park was deemed a success by organizers, as an estimated 300 people came to the park to enjoy live music, tasty food, and good company. Providing the entertainment for the evening were the Garrett Community Concert Band (above), under the direction of Dr. Jerry McGee, and a Grantsville area chorus, directed by Ken Miller (below), which presented a cantata titled Liberty. The event was held as a fund-raiser for the Grantsville Library project, for which approximately $2,000 was raised via food sales, the sale of Leo Beachy prints, and "the passing of a hat" for donations. Jack DuBose, representing the Grantsville Lions Club, also presented a check for $5,000 to Sheila Miller, chairman of the library project fund-raising effort. Over $150,000 has been raised to date for the construction of the new Ruth Enlow branch in Grantsville, which will also receive various matching governmental funds. Photos by Lisa Broadwater.

"Old-Time" Music Festival Set At Deer Park VFW

An "Old-Time Music Festival" is set for Saturday, July 28, at the VFW social hall located along Maryland Highway in Deer Park. The event will get under way at approximately 10 a.m., with musical performances slated to take place from 12:30 to 6 p.m. Several groups from Morgantown, W.Va., Meyersdale, Pa., and Nashville, Tenn., as well as other local entertainers will perform. Seating and food will be available.

Sponsored by Hammers & Strings, the event is funded in part by Manor Home Center and John Deere Sales and Service of Mtn. Lake Park, plus the Maryland State Arts Council and Garrett County Arts Council. Persons interested in further information may call Betty Mattingly at 301-334-4468.

A COLLECTIVE WORK by a number of young artists who just completed a week of art camp, pictured above, (sans one of the squares) is among the pieces of original art that are currently on display at the Gallery of the Garrett County Arts Council, located along Alder Street in downtown Oakland. Twenty-four budding artists ranging in age from 14 to 18, under the tutelage of professionals Mark and Laura Stutzman, studied color theory, composition, drawing and painting techniques, anatomy, and working with live subjects. Each of the students did one of the 24 squares in the collective piece pictured above. Below are drawings by Jason Afable, left, and Matt Burner. The work will be on display until next Wednesday, after which the gallery will house an exhibit of artwork by Ken Bauer. See story for details.

The Gallery is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday. Other works by local artisans are currently on display and available for purchase.

The Stutzmans noted their appreciation to the following organizations that made the workshop possible: the Sprenger-Lang Foundation for funding the program, GLAF for sponsorship and promotion, GCC for hosting the workshop, and The Gallery for displaying student work.

Orlovsky Couple Will Be Next Music At Penn Alps Performers

Arkady and Tamara Orlovsky, both originally from Russia, will be the featured performers on July 21 as a part of the music series offered at Penn Alps in Grantsville.

Arkady is principal cellist of the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra and conductor of the Columbus Symphony Orchestra of Indiana, while Tamara frequently appears as a soloist. The Orlovskys also perform with the New Russian Trio, which includes Albert Igolnikov of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, and with the Grammy-winning ensemble Pro Musica of Chicago. Both earned graduate degrees and taught at the Leningrad State Conservatory and have a wealth of internationally acclaimed performance experience.

At the Conservatory, Arkady studied under the supervision of Mstislav Rostropovich. As a member of the Leningrad Philharmonic, he performed with Stravinsky, Shostakovich, Prokofiev, and Rostropovich. For 13 years Arkady served as first cellist with the Kirov Theatre of Opera and Ballet. In 1978 he left his position as first cellist with the Rome Opera Theatre in Italy to come to the U.S., where he has worked to bring Russian culture and music to his adopted home of central Indiana. He has recorded a CD of cello sonatas by Borodin and Rachmaninoff.

Tamara, a winner of Leningrad Conservatory's Gold Medal, has performed as a soloist since the age of 6. A child prodigy, her musical education in a school for gifted children was fully supported by the government. While serving as a musical accompanist to Rostropovich at the Conservatory, she met Arkady.

Since their subsequent marriage, she has built an international career as a soloist with a large repertoire of classical concertos, after teaching at the Conservatory and the Leningrad Philharmonic. She is a regular soloist with the Columbus Symphony. Harold Schonberg of the New York Times called her "an amazing pianist" after hearing one of her performances.

Music at Penn Alps is sponsored by Sinceil Publishing Inc., Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop, and the support of various individuals. This concert is sponsored by Frank Gerwig and Associates.

Cpl. A.B. Powers investigated the domestic assault, and both Sharon Slonaker and Jones traveled to the Garrett County District Court commissioner's office in Oakland. The commissioner issued an arrest warrant charging Ernest Slonaker with two counts of second degree assault.

At approximately 2 p.m. the following day, Tfc. Matthew DeValk observed a male pedestrian standing at the end of the entrance ramp to eastbound Interstate 68 just east of the Grantsville Holiday Inn. According to the police report the subject, Slonaker, was acting in a suspicious manner, and a routine computer check conducted at the scene revealed that an open warrant for his arrest was on file.

As the troopers attempted to take Slonaker into custody, he reportedly struggled with them, allegedly kicking Broadwater. He was subsequently served with the warrant charging him with assault on his wife and her son, and was also charged with two counts of second degree assault on the arresting troopers and one count of resisting arrest. He was later released from the Garrett County Detention Center after posting a $9,000 bond as set by a district court commissioner.

Doerr Caps Perfect Season With Shutout; Sweeps Playoff Debut

Doerr Construction's Hot Stove Baseball League team continues to cook, as the squad concluded a perfect 16-0 season last Thursday with a 10-0 shutout of Barton Mining, then swept the first two games of a best-of-three playoff series with the Keyser Yankees, 12-2 on Monday and 3-1 yesterday. The Accident-based Doerr unit is poised for a Monday showdown with the winner of the Frankfort—Frostburg Eagles three-game playoff series, currently knotted at one-all.

Hitting on all cylinders, as it has all year, Doerr showed its strength in all phases of its game this week. Torrey Poholsky got things started in Thursday's season finale with an outstanding two-hit complete game shutout over Barton. The lefty struck out eight batters and issued just four walks over his five innings of work in the mercy rule-shortened outing.

Poholsky got more than enough runs in the first inning as Doerr's patient lineup exploited the opposition's weaknesses for four early runs. Poholsky and Derek Workman drew walks at the outset, then Jason Rice's single loaded the bases. Dan Ellis drew a walk to send Poholsky home from third with the first run, then Jason Thomas drove home Workman on a fielder's choice. Mike Wolf drew a walk to force Rice home with run number three, then Preston Sisler drove home the stanza's fourth run on a fielder's choice.

Doerr scored its fifth run in the second inning, took the score to 8-0 with three fourth-inning runs, and slammed the door shut with two runs in the final inning.

Rice doubled and singled, accounting for two RBI, while Workman doubled and singled and drove home one run. Mark Logsdon singled twice and had one RBI, and Ellis ripped a double.

Doerr got off to a blazing start in Monday's playoff opener against Keyser, scoring in each of its four innings on offense en route to another mercy rule-abbreviated victory. The firepower was matched on the mound by a superb pitching performance by Jason Rice, who uncorked a two-hitter (both singles) of his own by striking out nine Yankees. Rice aided his own cause at the plate by driving in five runs on a double and a single.

Doerr took control early, scoring four runs in the first inning and five in the second. The latter stanza's scoring flurry was highlighted by a two-run Ellis home run. The victors added two runs in the third and one in the fourth before sending Keyser packing.

Ellis added a single to his home run, Poholsky smacked three singles, and Chad Carr singled twice. Doerr stroked a dozen hits in all.

Yesterday's series-clinching win was Doerr's closest scare of the year, even though the squad scored three times as many runs as Keyser in the 3-1 victory. Showing they weren't going to go down without a fight, the Yankees took a 1-0 lead in the first inning when a bases loaded fielder's choice scored a run.

Doerr manager Jamie Workman stuck with his starting pitcher, however, and Poholsky responded to take control of the game en route to a masterful four-hit (all singles) over seven complete innings.

Poholsky's teammates brought him back into the contest in the second inning by scoring twice. Sisler singled to start the rally, then stole second, getting into scoring position for Robert Stark to stroke an RBI single. Stark then stole second himself, and Darrick Lowdermilk followed with an RBI single to score Stark. Doerr added another run for good measure in the fourth when Poholsky knocked in Jason Thomas with an RBI single of his own. In addition to the aforementioned hits, Wolf added a pair of singles of his own, and stole three bases. Doerr ran wild on the base paths, stealing seven bases in all.

"It was a great team effort," manager Workman commented of his team's play. "We played our best defense of the year, as Preston Sisler made some great plays at third base, including a slow hopper that he charged, gloved, and fired to first for the out. If he had waited for a second hop instead of charging the ball, it would have been a hit. Jason Thomas made some great plays at second base, too."

Workman said he expects to start Rice, his top right-hander, in Monday's playoff game at the Hammer Complex. Rice brings a regular season mark of 6-0 into the contest, a record matched for the regular campaign by Poholsky, his lefty counterpart. Ellis was 2-0 on the year.

Ellis also paced Doerr's batting lineup for the regular season, stroking 17 hits in 33 at-bats for a .515 average. Logsdon batted .414, Wolf recorded a .412 average, Sisler batted .407, and Workman batted .404. Workman led the squad with 16 RBI, followed by Rice and Ellis both with 14, and Wolf with 12. Poholsky stole 15 bases on the year.

Oaks Sweep Cumberland In Pen-Mar Play At GCC

The Oakland Oaks swept visiting Cumberland, 4-1 and 14-6, in a weekend doubleheader at Garrett Community College to inject some life into what has been a rather sluggish 7-19 Pen-Mar season. An outstanding pitching performance by Josh Bosley got the Oaks off to a good start in Game 1, and the momentum carried through a nightcap win that opened with Oakland mounting a 10-run leadoff inning.

Bosley hurled a three-hitter in the opener, giving up just a trio of singles and striking out nine batters in the three-run win. He got all the runs he needed in the third inning when Jared Townsend stroked a two-run single, and the Oaks added single scores in the fourth and the sixth innings. Cumberland's lone run came in the top of the sixth. In addition to Townsend's pair of RBI, Mickey Chapman drove home a run and singled three times as part of Oakland's eight-hit output.

Although Cumberland managed to score once in the top of the first inning of Game 2, the Oaks roared unchecked around the bases in the bottom of the stanza to tally 10 runs. The visitors scored three times in the fourth before Oakland added a run in the bottom of that stanza and a pair of scores in the next inning to take a 13-4 lead. Cumberland scored twice in the top of the sixth, but the Oaks added insult to injury with their 14th and final score in the bottom of the inning.

Dan Kochenderfer drove in two runs on a double while Bosley and Jay Bruckey each doubled in a run. Townsend drove in two runs with a single. Jeff Carr pitched the first five innings before Joey DiSimone was summoned for relief duty in the sixth. Each team tallied six hits apiece, and Cumberland's fielders committed eight errors during the nightcap.

Oakland is slated to host Pleasant Valley of Hyndman, Pa., in a 2 p.m. doubleheader this Saturday at GCC.

League Leader Crellin UM Wins Two Twinbills

Crellin United Methodist solidified its grip on first place in the Garrett County Area Christian Men's Softball League by recording a pair of doubleheader sweeps in action this past week. Crellin UM took two from Cherry Glade Mennonite, 15-9 and 19-2, and from Crellin Assembly of God, 20-11 and 9-2, with Mike Fazenbaker the winning pitcher in all four. The only home run in the two twinbills was rapped by Jeff Martin of Crellin UM against Cherry Glade.

In other sweeps, Gortner Union topped Oak Park Church of the Brethre twice, 18- and 23-5, wi John Sharpless the winning pitcher in both; Crellin United Brethren took two from Cornerstone Assembly of God, 19-7 and 25-6, with Farron Hershman and Ray Hershman the respective winning pitchers; and Oak Park topped Oakland Church of the Nazarene, 14-9 and 21-11, as Don Welch earned both wins on the mound.

Michael Petersheim stroked a grand slam, Jason Barnard hit two homers, and Terry Chapman and Josh Petersheim had one each for Gortner Union, while Kevin Artice and Ron Gnegy hit one apiece for Oak Park.

In Oak Park's sweep of Nazarene, Don Welch and Kevin Artice each hit one round-tripper, while the following Nazarene players each had one homer: Steve Shaffer, Dave Stephens, Tim Upton, Nathan Murphy, and Lawrence Dawson.

There were also two splits recorded this week. Glade Mennonite topped Crellin UB, 26-22, with Lynn Brenneman on the mound, and Crellin UB won the second game, 14-6, behind the pitching of Farron Hershman. Donnie Horner smacked four home runs, Jay Bolyard hit two, and Roger Bowman added one for Crellin UB. Ryan Brenneman stroked three homers, and Jeremy Brenneman and Terry Brenneman hit one each for Glade.

Second-place Mt. View Mennonite rolled over Maple Glen Mennonite, 22-5, with Gerald Tice the winning pitcher. Maple Glen then came back to take the second game, 7-6, with Laban Tice on the mound for the winners. Merle Beachy hit two homers, including a grand slam, for Mt. View, while teammate Millard Schrock hit one home run. Derrick Moser had a homer for Maple Glen.

Crellin UM leads the league with a 19-3 mark, followed by: Mt. View, 17-3; Crellin UB, 16-6; Gortner, 12-6; Glade, 12-8; Maple Glen, 10-8; Pleasant View, 10-10; Oak Park, 7-13; Cherry Glade, 6-14; Crellin AG, 4-16; Nazarene, 3-15; and Cornerstone, 2-16.

Garrett Legion Closes Year By Dropping Two Of Three

The curtain came down on a disappointing American Legion Baseball League season this week for the Garrett Legion squad. The local team wrapped up a 6-16 year by losing to Fort Cumberland Post 13 5-4 in a hard-fought opening to a Saturday doubleheader, triumphing 6-5 in the nightcap, and falling 9-6 to the same squad Tuesday. Fort Cumberland advances to a state tournament play-in game this weekend, while Garrett's players have hung up their spikes for another summer.

"Sure, it's been a long year," Garrett head coach Jim Bosley commented, "but we gained a lot of experience as the season went on. I attribute a lot of our problems to our lack of practice; we only meet for actual games, and don't practice on a day-in-day-out basis. While we had some great pitching, our fielding was average and our batting production was poor, and that can happen without consistent practice."

During Saturday's opener at Garrett Community College, a fine performance on the mound and at the plate by Garrett's Bryson Meyers was negated by five Garrett fielding errors. Despite the poor defensive showing, Garrett was still in the game until the last out. Garrett went up 2-1 early in the contest, but found itself down by three as the seventh and final inning opened. The squad put together a rally that made the score 5-4 before the final out was recorded.

Meyers held Ft. Cumberland to five hits, and on offense he tallied two RBI on a pair of singles.

The nightcap was a pitched battle as well, with the teams trading runs to go into the bottom of the eighth inning tied at five, with Garrett at the plate. Bryan Hauser reached base on an error and advanced to second after Justin DiSimone was struck by a pitch. Greg Whittemore stroked a single to load the bases, then Joel Helbig was hit by a pitch to send Hauser home with the winning run.

For the game, Whittemore doubled and singled to drive in a run, and Tobi Stoner recorded a double and a single as well. Whittemore pitched the first seven innings, and Stoner's eighth-inning relief work at the top of the eighth afforded him the pitching victory.

Garrett fell behind early Tuesday at Cumberland's Legion Field, but valiantly attempted to catch the hosts throughout the contest. Cumberland was up 4-0 after one inning, but Garrett rebounded with one run in the second and two in the third to pull within one run, 4-3. The two teams traded one run each before Cumberland put three runs together in the sixth inning, after which Garrett scored once in the seventh and once in the ninth, with Cumberland tallying a run in between during the eighth.

Bryan Lenhart and Helbig each doubled and singled for Garrett, and Nathan Fitzwater added a pair of singles. DiSimone tossed the first five innings, then Josh Fitzwater took over in the sixth.

"It was a long but a valuable season for us," Bosley remarked. "We fielded a very young team that had a lot to learn. Out of our 20-player roster, 17 boys will be playing baseball at either Northern or Southern High School next spring, and they'll take this experience with them and learn from it."

Sailboat Racing
On Deep Creek Lake

REAL TROUBLE FOR SAILBOATS ON DEEP CREEK LAKE
by Dan Muss

There have been two recent incidents on the lake that were profoundly disturbing. The first resulted in a fatality; the second missed being fatal by a hair's breadth.

A Flying Scot came into a dock for a landing and apparently got blown in toward shore where there were power lines out over the water. This happened a few hundred yards south of the Glendale Bridge on the west shore of the lake. The mast apparently hit the power line, and the current ran down the mast and through the shrouds, punching through the chain plate and into the water. A father and son were rendered unconscious when they jumped into the water. Ed King was able to resuscitate the son, but the father died.

Now the top of the Flying Scot mast is just over 28 feet from the water. This means that the power lines were less than that height from the water. While it's true that the lake was probably a foot over its maximum allowable level, it means that sailboats have to be aware of this clear and present danger. And we do not know how many other places around the lake have this same dangerous condition.

I would like to appeal to the DNR to generate a map of the lake that shows where these distribution power lines go over or near the water's edge so that we could warn sailboaters about the danger.

The other incident is even more disturbing because it involves reckless motorboat operation, and that is something that sailboaters need to deal with every minute they are on the water.

Keith Spinnenweber was sailing his Laser when his sailboat was cut in two by a speeding motorboat. Keith was thrown clear and rescued by another motorboat operator. Keith sustained serious injury, but he's going to be all right. He could have just as easily been killed. I've heard that the motorbat driver said that he didn't even see the sailboat!

We require licensing for all automobile drivers, why shouldn't we require training and licensing for all motorboat operators? Americans are the best and the most courteous automobile drivers in the world. That is because driver training and licensing is a right-of-passage for our youth. Why not do the same for motorboats?

This past weekend my fearless crew and I were the Race Committee. Saturday there was a beautiful 5-10 knot wind that was puffing to 15 and relatively steady out of the NNW. We set windward, jibe, and leeward marks for both races and that was that. Back at the club I was amazed to hear not one complaint about the course.

Sunday was a different story. When we went out about 11 a.m. there was little wind, and what there was came from everywhere. So we set a bunch of marks, hoping to pick a short course by race time. Then the wind seemed to pick up out of the north out in the main section of the lake, so we picked a straight windward-leeward course that held up fairly well.

There was an amazingly close finish among the Lasers for this third race. Eric Silverman and Chris Drury were battling for the lead when Chris over-stood the finish line by a bunch. Eric was steaming for the line, close-hauled, and it seemed like he had it when Chris came in on a reach, headed up at the last second, and beat Eric by inches.

Coach Gibson Gives Report On Successful Camp

Dennis Gibson, men's head basketball coach at Garrett Community College and coordinator of the recent 17th annual GCC basketball camp, described this year's camp as a success, as over 70 area boys and girls participated, learned a variety of skills from a large coaching staff, and received many words of wisdom from several guest speakers.

Those guest speakers included Web Hatch, coach at Frostburg State University; Tom Bosley, head coach at Southern High School; and VaShawne Gross, assistant coach at Patuxent High School and former GCC standout.

"It turned out to be an excellent week of camp," Gibson said. "The weather was almost too hot, and I was proud of the way the kids worked hard despite those conditions.

"We had another very good staff, and our guest speakers were interesting, as Coaches Hatch and Gross gave the campers some insight into the demands of playing college basketball," he said.

Besides Gibson, the staff included: Dave Martin, assistant GCC coach; Bobby Shaffer, coach at Union High School; Tracey Feather, girls' coach at Union; Rodger Bowman, coach at Preston High; Russell Lawson, Mike Saturday, Andrew Wass, Michael Ward, Jeremy Rice, and Oliver Jones, all of GCC; and Seth Hanson, GCC athletic trainer.

Named all-stars were: Lindsay Wolf, Jeffrey Stem, Kory Gibson, Jordan Pacella, and Amy Lander, NBA; Adriene Yoder, Courtney Smith, Tim Wass, Eric Blamble, and Nathan Glass, NCAA; and Corey Tressler, Matthew Liller, Amanda Frantz, Nick Chambers, and Ashley Umstot, NCAA Div. II.

Three-on-three champs were: Kory Gibson, Jeff Stem, and Alex Smith, grades 5-6 boys; Tim Wass Drew Glover, Matt Gallo, and Zack Keefer, grade 7 boys; Chris Speicher, Jason Wakefield, and Clay Johnson, grade 8 boys; Nick Chambers, Shane Bobo, Issac Riggleman, and Corey Tressler, grade 9-11 boys; Adriene Yoder, Sarah Stephens, and Ashley Kalasky, grade 6-7 girls; and Ashley Umstot, Molly Wolf, and Jenette Augustine, grade 8-12 girls.

One-on-one champions were: Alex Smith, grade 5; Jeffrey Stem and Amy Lander, grade 6; Tim Wass and Adriene Yoder, grade 7; Jason Wakefield and Jeseca Gibson, grades 8-9; and Corey Tressler and Amanda Frantz, grades 10-12.

Free-throw champs included: Chris Schad, grade 5; Alex Stuck and Lindsay Wolf, grade 6; Patrick Fischetti and Sarah Stephens, grade 7; Jason Wakefield and Amanda Hanft, grade 8; Corey Tressler and Jenette Augustine, grade 9; and Alex Carr and Ashley Umstot, grades 10-12.

"I want to commend four campers, all 8th graders, who moved up into the 9-12 division to help strengthen the teams," Gibson said. "They are Joey Tressler, Jason Wakefield, Evan Lantz, and Chris Speicher. They are all good players and sacrificed some individual goals for the good of the camp."

Local businesses that supported the camp were: Coca-Cola Bottling; Pepsi-Cola, 7 Up, and Dr. Pepper Company; Short Stop; McHenry Beverage Shoppe; Lohr Distributors; Midway Discount Beverages; Get 'n Go Market; McDonald's; CBIZ Benefits & Insurance; and M&T Bank.

Cylinders, taking the heat and feature races. Spade beat out Mike Howell, Rabbit Frazee, Pat Livingston, and Chad Livingston.

John Adams, Hermitage, Pa., stopped in at the raceway and took top honors for the Sportsman Sprints. Darcy Taylor finished a strong second, followed by Craig Shaw, Troy Miller, and Chris Best.

Steve Sickles of Uledi, Pa., took the Demolition Derby sponsored by Sandy's Stylin' of Markleysburg, Pa.

The Modified and Stock 4 bangers will again take part in the Tri-State Shootout, the finale of which is scheduled for July 21.

Friday, August 10, marks the return of Friday Night 4- and 6-cylinder action.

Mid-season champs were crowned, with Danny Leonard in 4-Cylinder Stock, Frank Spade in 4-Cylinder Modified, Chad Livingston in 6-Cylinder, and Craig Shaw in the Sportsman Sprints.

Jeff Ferguson of Brownfield, Pa., staked his claim as the green dropped on the Ken Nicholson and Sons Late Models Saturday night. Ferguson led every circuit on the mountaintop oval in taking his third win. Hard, clean racing over the entire distance saw several drivers advance six or seven positions. When the checkered was displayed, it was Ferguson over Gary Tonkery, Garry Sisson, Chuck Clise, and Wayne Johnson, who came from 11th on the grid to finish fifth. Thirteenth starter Shane Beegle made a fine sixth place run, with Jesse Guseman, Bob Neratka, Billy Eash, and Dwane Shultz rounding out the top 10.

Cautions kept the field bunched up in the Caney Valley Sport and Marine AMRA Modifieds. When the dust settled, it was Dilliner, Pa.'s, Wayne Jordan taking win number four. Over the course of the event, as Jordan would build a lead, the caution would fly. Jordan fought off furious charges by Mark Baylor, Shawn Davis, and Renee Dean. Dean took the runner-up spot, with Mike Altobelli, Baylor, and Doug Glessner as the rest of the top five. The event saw six cautions.

The VitaLink-QCOL Classic Lites always put on a top-notch show. Saturday night was no exception, as their entire event was run caution-free. Young Mike Hay of Somerset, Pa., and Pennsboro, W.Va.'s, Bob Bolin raced hard for the point, with Hay taking possession for good on Lap 7. It was win number four for Hay. Bolin lost several positions when he spun out in turn 1, but gathered it up and sliced his way back to second. Lynn Knepper came in third, followed by Eric Hay and John Cogar.

The fans' favorite division, the Country Charm Hot Stocks, is arguably the toughest division at the raceway in which to score a victory. Over the first nine circuits, a blanket could have covered the top five. But then, John Redshaw and Jim Byers pulled away after a lap 11 caution. There was electricity in the air as the "Farmington Fireball" and the "Candyman" displayed their skills on the wide 3/8-mile oval.

Side by side through the turns, Byers would inch ahead on the back chute, and Redshaw would have the advantage at the stripe. On the final circuit, Redshaw took the checkered for his third of 2001, with Byers close behind. Jim Bendishaw, Sam King, and Denny Bennett made up the rest of the top five. There were only three cautions in what is normally a rough-and-tumble event.

On July 21, Roaring Knob Raceway Park will present the third and final installment of the TriState Shootout Series. More dough and more distance only means more excitement, with 40 big laps for the flagship Late Model division. A check for $3,000 awaits the victor. Appalachian Timber Products will hold an "Eat It Up" contest for the youngsters.

Roaring Knob Raeway Park is located two miles west of the Youghiogheny Lake, just off Route 40 along Fearer Road. For more information, persons may call the raceway office at 724-329-0306 or 724-329-8196, or visit www.roaringknob.com on the Web.

INTERSTATE 79 SPEEDWAY
by Cheryl Baker-Stasiak

Butch McGill was not superstitious on Friday the 13th as he picked up his third feature, and second in a row feature, in the Late Model division at Interstate 79 Speedway. The West Union, W.Va., driver started on the pole and literally smoked the field. McGill said in his winner's interview that he had burned a piston at the start of the race. Paul Wilmoth was second and Gary Dalton third.

Oakland Man Handed Seven-Month Jail Term For Assaults, CDS Charge

An Oakland man will serve a jail sentence of more than seven months after being convicted of two domestic-related assaults and a drug charge in Garrett County District Court recently. Judge Ralph M. Burnett presided at the hearing.

Timothy Wayne Walden, 25, Oakland, pleaded not guilty to two second degree assault charges, but was convicted on both. He also entered a guilty plea to a charge of possession of marijuana, which also drew a conviction. His total combined sentence came to 19 months, all but seven months and one week of which were suspended, and two years of supervised probation.

Walden's initial arrest came in December of last year when sheriff's deputies responded to a domestic altercation in Mtn. Lake Park, during which he grabbed the victim by the hair, banged her head against a wall, and pushed her to the floor and threatened to punch her. His second arrest came after an April domestic altercation in Mtn. Lake Park, when deputies arrived to find the same victim suffering from wounds that included a black eye and a broken finger. The drug charge stemmed from his April arrest by deputies serving a warrant, when a search at the jail uncovered a smoking pipe bearing burnt marijuana residue in his pocket.

Karen Ann Harms, 34, Petersburg, W.Va., was handed a two-week jail term after she pleaded guilty to driving while intoxicated (DWI) and resisting arrest. The balance of her 90-day sentence was suspended, and she was fined $300 and placed on one year of supervised probation. Additional charges of second degree assault, destruction of property, disorderly conduct, failure to obey a lawful order, and driving on a suspended license were not prosecuted.

Harm's March arrest stemmed from a March motor vehicle incident during which she drove a car into the side of a house along Garrett Road. Deputies noted that she was drunk at the accident scene, and she initially denied that she was the driver, claiming her boyfriend had been behind the wheel. After learning otherwise, they placed her under arrest, and she struggled as she was being handcuffed, kicking a deputy.

David Allen Everett II, 29, Md., pleaded guilty to failure to obey a lawful order and received a 30-day sentence, 16 days of which were suspended, and was placed on one year of supervised probation. His April arrest came after he refused to stop harassing another citizen who was being questioned by a deputy after a routine traffic stop in Loch Lynn. An intoxicated Everett walked up to the pair and subsequently refused to comply with the deputy's requests not to interfere with the investigation.

Robert Lee Stark, 35, Mtn. Lake Park, pleaded guilty to non-support of a minor child and was handed a three-year suspended sentence, placed on two years of supervised probation, and ordered to make a $500 payment to the victim. His May arrest by sheriff's deputies came at the request of the state's attorney's office.

Ian Thomas Meeks, 21, Salisbury, pleaded guilty to DWI and received a one-year suspended sentence and was fined $305, while additional charges of possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia were not prosecuted. Deputies filed the charges after an April traffic stop along Deep Creek Drive, when a vehicle search stemming from the DWI arrest uncovered a quantity of suspected marijuana and a smoking device and rolling papers.

Ronald G. Brooks Jr., 28, Alexandria, Va., pleaded guilty to possession of fireworks without a permit, while additional charges of possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia were not prosecuted. His August 2000 arrest came after a traffic stop along I-68, when a state trooper noticed the odor of suspected burnt marijuana emanating from his vehicle. A search uncov-

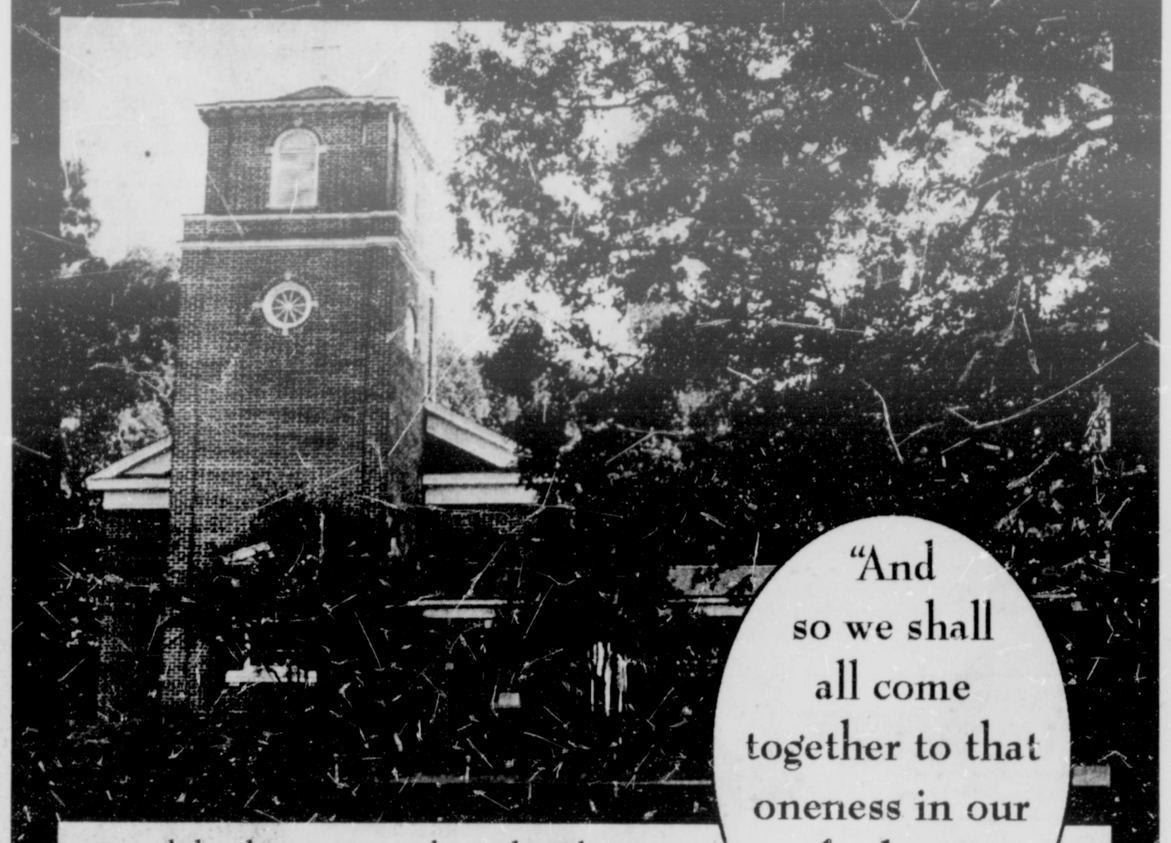
Attend Church This Week



"And so we shall all come together to that oneness in our faith..."
Ephesians 4:13

"Attend church or synagogue this week." Why? Is it just a time-consuming, outmoded ritual that has no place in the fast paced, high-tech world of today? Why not just check out www.interdenominational.com instead...and stay home.

God has established the Sabbath day for our benefit...not for His own. Certainly the Creator is not subject to the human weaknesses of ego or insecurity. Of course, some of us have physical frailties that prohibit attending Sabbath services; but those of us who can attend have the opportunity to take advantage of peaceful surroundings, prayer and meditation, joyful song, and fellowship with family and friends. We have access to a positive network of like believers where we may strengthen our spirits for the combat that awaits us on Monday.

Do yourself a favor. Attend your church or synagogue this week. God can change your life. Just ask Him.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

WHY LOVE HURTS

July 22, 2001

Background Scripture: Hosea 11
Devotional Read: Psalms 103:8-14

Pain almost always accompanies love. Some people choose not to let themselves love so that they will not experience its pain. Others keep themselves from loving too much so that their pain may be minimized. Yet, it is inescapably evident that, if we will not risk pain, we will not know love—and to miss love is much worse than escaping pain.

We see this demonstrated in both the divine and human planes of love. God had every reason in the world to stop loving Israel for they rejected his love. Hosea masterfully compares God's love for them and for us with the grace-filled love of a parent for a child. "When Israel was a child, I loved him, and out of Egypt I called my son. The more I called them, the more they went from me" (11:1,2).

Anyone who is or has been a parent can understand what God is saying through Hosea. True love is given as a gift, not as a reward. Parents give love, not because they are assured of getting love back, but because it is in the nature of love to give without guarantee—even though the children may not recognize and respond to it.

No Guarantee

There is no guarantee in loving that the one to whom we give our love will respond to us in love. If you expect to receive back the love you give, what you are giving is not love. It is not the love that the parent God gives his children. "Yet it was I who taught Ephraim [Israel] to walk, I took them up in my arms; but they didn't know that I healed them. I led them with cords of compassion,...and I bent down to them and fed them" (11:3,4). No child can fully knows or appreciates the love of parents. So it is with us and God.

We hope our children will respond to us with love and gratitude, but it is not part of the contract. We may find that our children fail to respond, just as God finds us failing to respond to him. "My people are bent on turning away from me; so they are appointed to the yoke, and none shall remove it" (11:7)—except the Lord himself.

The consequences we bring upon ourselves in rejecting the Lord's love is misery we bring upon ourselves. It is our bent in turning away from the Lord—whether or not we recognize it—that is our own undoing. We sell ourselves into captivity: "They shall return to the land of Egypt [where they had been slaves], and Assyria shall be their king, because they have refused to return to me" (11:5).

Good Grief!

No matter how often or far we run from God, it is his love for that offers us a way back. "How can I give you up, O Ephraim!; How can I hand you over, O Israel!...My heart recoils within me, my compassion grows warm and tender" (11:8). God grieves over the loss of us and that grief is more powerful than his anger. Mortal parents may say, 'Go and never come back,' but God says: "I will not execute my fierce anger, I will not again destroy Ephraim; for I am God and not man...and I will not come to destroy" (11:9).

So Hosea tells us that God grieves over our conscious or unconscious rejection of him. He promises us that God never stops loving us and always, like the Prodigal Son's father, holds open the door for our return—and, in fact comes out and looks for us. Furthermore, if God's love for us surmounts the pain we cause him, so we are called to love others with the same open-door policy.

The very last we hear of Gomer is when God says to the prophet: "Go again, love a woman who is beloved of a paramour and is an adulteress; even as the Lord loves the people of Israel, though they turn to other gods." (3:1) So Hosea, puts aside the pain she has caused him and buys her out of servitude, once again bringing her home—just as God does with us and we are called to do with others.

The Snowy Creek 4-H Club held its monthly meeting on July 12 at Betty Guard's home. This month's program was presented by the Northern Rescue Squad. Walt Fearer, Mary Friend, and Regina Johnson were here from the squad to talk to the members.

The meeting was then called to order by Mark Wolf. There were 21 members, 10 adults, and two visitors present. Lincoln Lowdermilk and Lindsay Wolf led the pledges. The treasurer's report was read, and we now have $350.96 in our account.

The members who attended the June Adopt-A-Highway were Randall Frantz, Randi Rodeheaver, and Molly and Michael Wolf. Those who attended weigh-in were Shelby Glover, Lincoln Lowdermilk, Molly, Lindsay, Mark, and Michael Wolf, Randi Rodeheaver, Jeremiah Guard, Hannah Sines, Randall Frantz, and David, Henry, and Cindy Smearman. Members who attended the District Show were Shelby Glover, Jeremiah Guard, Randi Rodeheaver, Hannah Sines, and David, Henry, and Cindy Smearman.

4-H camp was held this month and Will Gallagher attended. Michael Wolf had the 4-H sign done, and it will be hung at the welcome sign in Friendsville. Shelby Glover announced that a club workshop will be held July 22 from 1 to 4 p.m. at Glover's Farm. We decided to have a float in the Friendsville Days Parade on August 4. Members who are doing Adopt-A-Highway this month are Drew, Stacey, and Shelby Glover, Nathan Glass, and David Smearman.

A reminder was given to members with market animals that they have to attend 75% of club meetings held from August 2000 to August 2001 to participate in the GC Fair.

The club decided to give a $50 donation to the Northern Rescue Squad.

The next meeting will be held August 16 at the Fair.

Maryland Classified Employees Association

The Maryland General Assembly considers most changes to state benefits and personnel regulations, and the Maryland Classified Employees Association is on the job in Annapolis to protect employees' interests. When detrimental legislation is on the line or positive bills need a boost of support, MCEA is there to lobby.

MCEA won significant increases in pension benefits, which were ranked among the lowest in the nation, and stopped an attempt by the international unions to force state workers to pay a $200 annual fee for collective bargaining. Without MCEA on the front line, employees would have lost their choice of grievance representation. Most recently, we won retired state employees the right to go back to work for certain counties without incurring a penalty in their pensions.

State employees interested in MCEA membership or more information about MCEA services should call the union's local Cumberland office at 301-724-8770 or 1-888-614-6232, and ask for Labor Relations representative Pam Beeman-Albright.

MCEA News was submitted by local Chapter 76 president Donna McClintock.

GCC Foundation Announces Offutt Scholarship Recipients

MELISSA UPOLE

TERRY BEACHY

A total of 86 scholarships have been awarded for the 2001-2002 academic year by the Garrett Community College Foundation, according to GCCF executive director Bretta Reinhard. Among those are 14 scholarships that have been funded by Daniel E. Offutt III, a native of Garrett County who now resides in Connecticut.

Each of the following recipients of a Daniel E. Offutt Achievement Award scholarship must have maintained high school and college cumulative grade point averages of least B+ and be full-time GCC students. Two of the Offutt scholarships are designated for students who plan to continue their education at four-year colleges in the specified programs of agriculture management and computer science.

Melissa Upole, daughter of Donald and Shelly Upole of Oakland, who is majoring in agribusiness and farm management, has received the Offutt scholarship for agriculture management. She has been president of the GCC Ag Club, a four-year FFA member, a member of the vegetable judging team, and a youth leader at Shady Dale Chapel. A graduate of Pleasant Valley Christian Academy, Upole said that living on a farm has taught her to "appreciate every little thing and not to take anything for granted." Her interests include astronomy, horseback riding, hunting, and photography. Her career goal is to represent agriculture in a way that will benefit others through education.

Terry Beachy, a 1979 graduate of Northern High School, has received the Offutt scholarship designated for a computer science major. A member of the Phi Theta Kappa national honor society, she was named Outstanding Career Student at GCC's recent commencement exercise. Last year Beachy served as a technical assistant to the GCC faculty through the Why Tech Grant, which had been implemented at the four western Maryland colleges. She was appointed coordinator of GCC's new Grantsville Outreach Center recently, and plans to continue her education at Frostburg State University and eventually teach computer science to children. Beachy and her husband Keith have two children, Sandra and Andrew.

Adam Schoch, son of Dale and Debra Schoch of Oakland, has also received an Offutt Achievement Award scholarship. A recent Southern High School graduate, Schoch served as vice president and president of the SHS Christian Club during his junior and senior years, respectively. He will enter GCC in the fall and major in early childhood education as he pursues an associate of arts degree. He plans to transfer to FSU to obtain a bachelor's degree and eventually become a teacher. Schoch said his interests include singing, playing sports, and reading and writing poetry. He is a member of "The Rock," a youth group at the Loch Lynn Church of God.

Michael Saturday, a recent SHS graduate, has received an Offutt Achievement Award scholarship and will enter the GCC math/science transfer program this fall with a career goal of working in the engineering field. Saturday is following a family tradition at the college as both of his parents, Michael and Fayann, and his sister Jessica are GCC graduates. Saturday was a member of the SHS varsity basketball team, and his interests include camping, fishing, hiking, mountain biking, and working with electronics. He is a member of the Oak Grove Church of the Brethren.

HEATHER MILLER

JOANNE ABE

Heather Miller, daughter of Craig and Carla Cumberworth of Grantsville, has received an Offutt Achievement Award scholarship and will continue her education at GCC as an elementary education major. A 2000 graduate of Northern High School, Miller was a member of the NHS newspaper and yearbook staff, the Northern Students for Christ Club, and the National Honor Society, and was elected 2000 Homecoming queen. She is a math tutor and mentor at GCC, and she plans to transfer and complete a bachelor's degree and then become a teacher in a small elementary school, where she hopes to have an impact on the life of at least one child.

Joanne Abe, daughter of Stephen and Susan Abe of Oakland, has received an Offutt Achievement Award scholarship. She is a graduate of the New Life Christian School in Elkins, W.Va., where she was a member of student council and the volleyball team, and received Who's Who Among American High School Students recognition. She is enrolled in GCC's general studies program. Abe is a member of the Oak Park Church of the Brethren and participated in a youth mission trip to Mexico last summer. Her interests include reading and surfing the Internet.

Redistricting To Be Addressed In Public Meeting

The Governor's Redistricting Advisory Committee (GRAC) has slated a public meeting to solicit citizen input on Maryland's redistricting process for 7 p.m. Thursday, July 26, at Allegany College of Maryland in Cumberland. The redistricting process will reshape the state's eight U.S. congressional districts and 47 state legislative districts in accordance with the state's changing population densities, as revealed by the 2000 U.S. Census.

During the meeting, individuals will be invited to comment on any facet of the redistricting process and offer their suggestions. Guidelines for the submittal of redistricting comments and suggestions will be provided, and input collected will be considered by the GRAC in making legislative and congressional district recommendations to Governor Parris Glendening. The GRAC has slated 12 such public meetings throughout the state this summer, and the Cumberland location, the fifth of the series, will be the westernmost meeting site.

Accommodations for individuals with disabilities may be requested by contacting public information officer Nikki Kassolis of the Maryland secretary of state's office at 410-974-5521, ext. 476.

TV PIPELINE

Sex-y Cynthia Nixon was a 'Little Darling'

By Taylor Michaels
©TVData Features Syndicate

Cynthia Nixon

Q: I recently caught Little Darlings, the 1980 movie starring Kristy McNichol and Tatum O'Neal. One of the other actresses looked a lot like Cynthia Nixon, who plays Miranda on HBO's Sex and the City. Could it have been her? –Julie B. Hoggatt, Grand Junction, Colo.

A: Yes, it was, Julie (good catch!). Nixon, now 35, has been acting on stage and screen for more than two decades. Little Darlings was Nixon's feature debut, made the same year as her TV movie The Private History of a Campaign That Failed.

In case you haven't heard, Nixon, a very smart actress who doesn't get nearly enough credit in my opinion, has just been cast as the lead, Mary Haines, in an upcoming Broadway revival of the vintage comedy The Women. Her co-stars include Emmy winners Kristen Johnston (3rd Rock From the Sun) and Rue McClanahan (The Golden Girls) and Oscar nominee Jennifer Tilly (Bullets Over Broadway).

Q: Why has there been no video release of the 1997 TV adaptation of Stephen King's The Shining? The Stand is available in video stores. –Katie Reilly, Sandwich, Mass.

A: "If you find out, will you let me know?" replies director Mick Garris, who says he deliberately shot extra footage for a DVD release and cannot get Warner Home Video to explain what the problem is. Garris' Shining has been released in other countries, and he speculates the U.S. release is ensnared in some provision of the deal that was struck to secure the rights from Stanley Kubrick, who helmed the 1980 feature version. "That deal may prohibit a U.S. video release of our version," he says.

Q: What happened to the actor who played Dimitri Marick on All My Children? –R. Weisen, Jasper, Ind.

A: Former Dynasty co-star Michael Nader was dismissed from the show after he was arrested and charged with allegedly trying to sell drugs to an undercover cop earlier this year. It's not Nader's first brush with the law. In 1997, he was arrested for driving under the influence and charged with child endangerment, since his young daughter was in the car with him.

Q: Back in the 1960s, Gary Collins and Jack Warden starred in a sitcom called The Wackiest Ship in the Army. Any chance it will show up on TV Land or Nick at Nite? –R. Harding, Lancaster, Pa.

A: It's not on the upcoming schedule, but you're right that these two channels would be the logical place to watch for it. Ship, adapted from a fact-based 1960 movie comedy, only ran during the 1965-66 season, which wouldn't be enough episodes to attract a general syndication deal.

Moments in time

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On July 24, 1567, during her imprisonment at Lochleven Castle in Scotland, Mary Queen of Scots is forced to abdicate in favor of her 1-year-old son, later crowned King James VI of Scotland.

• On July 25, 1832, the first recorded railroad accident in U.S. history occurs when four people are thrown off a vacant car near Quincy, Mass. The victims had been invited to view the process of transporting large and weighty loads of stone when a cable on a vacant car snapped on the return trip, throwing them over a 34-foot cliff.

• On July 26, 1908, the Federal Bureau of Investigation is born when U.S. Attorney General Charles Bonaparte orders a group of newly hired federal investigators to report to Chief Examiner Stanley W. Finch of the Department of Justice.

• On July 23, 1967, one of the worst riots in U.S. history breaks out in the heart of Detroit's predominantly African-American inner city. By the time it was quelled four days later, 43 people were dead, 342 were injured and nearly 1,400 buildings had been burned.

• On July 28, 1976, at 3:42 a.m., an earthquake measuring between 7.8 and 8.2 magnitude on the Richter scale flattens Tangshan, a Chinese industrial city. There is speculation that the death toll from the quake was much higher than the official Chinese government figure of 242,000. Some Chinese sources have spoken privately of more than 500,000 deaths.

• On July 29, 1981, nearly 1 billion television viewers tune in to witness the marriage of Prince Charles to Lady Diana Spencer. Married at St. Paul's Cathedral in the presence of 2,650 guests, the couple's romance was, for the moment, the envy of the world.

• On July 27, 1996, in Atlanta, Ga., the Summer Olympics is disrupted by the explosion of a pipe bomb in Centennial Olympic Park, killing a mother and injuring more than 100 others.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• When a turn-of-the-century French foundation put up a prize of 100,000 francs for the person or persons who made the first contact with extraterrestrial life, they excluded Mars from the offer. Apparently they thought that Martians were way too easy to find.

• At one time, all Russian men who had beards had to pay a special tax.

• Hedgehogs, those little animals covered with spiny quills, are becoming a hot new designer pet. One reason, perhaps, is their odd behavior, which, I understand, is very amusing to watch. For example, whenever a hedgehog comes to the edge of a small "cliff" — or if you leave your hedgehog on a table — it will roll itself up into a ball and roll off. When it hits the next level, it will simply bounce. The hedgehog's quills act as tiny shock absorbers, and once it hits bottom, it just unrolls and goes on its way.

• During World War I, Woodrow Wilson's wife let her sheep graze on the front lawn of the White House.

• What do you have planned for your summer vacation? Every summer in Edirne, Turkey, more than 1,000 people come to participate in the Kirkpinar Oiled Wrestling Festival. Oil-coated wrestling, or "Yagli Gures," was used to train troops 500 years ago, but now it's an event that draws spectators from far and wide. During the weeklong competition, competitors don leather trousers and a liberal coating of olive oil, and try to flip their opponents and pin them to the ground. Maybe you should start making travel plans for next year.

• The starfish can turn its stomach inside-out.

Antiques

by Ralph and Terry Kovel

Coffee has been a popular drink for centuries. It was introduced to England, Holland, France and Germany during the 17th century. At first, brass or bronze spice grinders and mortars and pestles were used for grinding the coffee. In 1620, the Mayflower carried coffee and a wooden mortar and pestle to grind coffee beans.

Coffee grinders or mills for individual use were used a few years later. The first patent for a mill was issued in 1798. It was not until about 1873 that roasted and packaged coffee was offered for sale in stores. The Enterprise Manufacturing Co. began making large coffee mills for stores as well as small ones for home use. Electric motors were added to the coffee mills about 1900.

Hand-operated mills continued to be made for use in areas with no electricity into the 1930s. Enterprise was one of the largest companies that made coffee mills. They usually had the name "Enterprise" molded on the base or on the large wheel that was turned to grind the coffee. The counter and floor-standing machines were made with a number that helps to indicate the date of manufacture.

The price today depends on rarity and the condition of the painted surface. Most of the mills were painted red and black with gold trim. Store mills range from $400 to more than $4,000.

Q. What is a butler's desk?

A. The term "butler's desk" is not found in most furniture dictionaries. It refers to a piece of federal furniture that looks like a chest of drawers. What appears to be the top drawer is actually a fall-front writing surface. A butler's desk was originally used as a sideboard or storage piece in a dining room or butler's pantry. The butler used the fall-front desk to handle the household's accounts.

Plain Old Horse Sense

Q. I'm 10 years old, and for as long as I can remember, I've always wanted a horse. My mother says we can't afford to buy one. Are horses expensive to take care of?

A. Horses can be quite expensive to own, and they require a lot of care. They have to be fed, ridden and groomed regularly, and they have to be kept in a good stable where they can receive this care on days when you're not there to provide it.

However, riding a horse can be a lot of fun, too. I was fortunate enough to live in the country when I was younger, and many of my friends had horses. Very few people are so lucky these days.

So your mother is right — owning a horse costs more than most people can afford.

But maybe the two of you can compromise. Why not take riding lessons for a few months? You'll learn how to ride a horse properly so that you don't fall off, and you'll learn how to take care of the horse — because most schools require that you groom the horse and take care of the riding equipment, like the saddle and bridle, after class.

Riding classes are affordable, and you can stop taking them if you don't like them — much better than being stuck with a big, hungry horse that you're tired of caring for.

Talk to your mother about taking riding classes. If you really enjoy riding, and you stick with the classes, perhaps she'll let you take steps toward owning a horse.

Mt. Storm Lake Setting For Novel By Local Native

Divine Waters, a young adult novel authored by Elk Garden native Stacie Patterson, has been released by America House Publishing and is available for purchase in local book stores and on the Internet. The novel is set in the Mt. Storm lake area, where Patterson's family owned a campground during her youth.

Divine Waters tells the story of a 15-year-old girl's struggle through her teen years while staying at her parents' lake cabin. The girl must learn how to acccept her mother's death, while at the same time establishing a friendship with a boy her age. The novel addresses issues of family and friendship, pain and denial, and acceptance and healing, according to the publisher.

Currently residing in Carmichaels, Pa., with her husband Robert and two daughters, Patterson was born in Cumberland and reared near Elk Garden. She graduated from West Virginia University in 1993 with a double bachelor's degree in secondary education and English, and earned a master's degree in reading from WVU in 1996. She has taught in public schools in West Virginia, Pennsylvania, and Virginia.

Divine Waters is available at the Book Mark'et in Oakland, and Main Street Books and Linda's Hallmark store, both in Keyser, and on-line through Amazon.com, Barnesandnoble.com, and Publishamerica.com.

Farming On The Mountaintop

BOARD RECOGNIZES FFA STATE WINNERS — The Garrett County Board of Education recognized the FFA state winners at a recent monthly meeting. Southern High School had three individuals and a team, who all received medals. Chase Ashby placed first in agricultural mechanics, Sarah Pysell placed sixth in dairy foods, and Nick Rush placed 12th in agricultural mechanics. The team of Chase Ashby, Nick Rush, Nick Sines, and Rex Hoalcraft placed third in agricultural mechanics. Pictured above, from the left, are Madeleine Collins, board president; JoAnn Vent, Career Technology Education supervisor; Pysell, Sines, and Ashby; and Dr. Wendell Teets, superintendent. Not present for the photo were Nick Rush and Rex Hoalcraft.

Weather Provides Excellent Week For Field Work

With the exception of a few scattered showers, last week was characterized by warm, dry weather that was ideal for working in the fields. Maryland farmers took advantage of the 5.9 days suitable for field work for activities such as harvesting small grains and cutting hay. Currently, 84% of the winter wheat crop has been harvested, 24% more than the previous week. Rye is 77% harvested, progressing 7% over the previous week. The dry weather also promoted hay harvest, which is continuing ahead of schedule. The second and third cutting of other hay, for example, is 8% and 3%, respectively, ahead of the five-year average. Alfalfa second and third cutting also follow this trend, progressing 6% and 10%, respectively, ahead of schedule.

Fruit and vegetable harvesting continues, providing fresh markets with adequate supplies. Peaches are 14% harvested, matching last year and the five-year average. Cucumbers are 47% harvested, running 3% over last year and 11% ahead of schedule. With 29% of the crop harvested, sweet corn is 9% ahead of last year and the five-year average.

The dry weather experienced last week decreased soil moisture levels from the previous week. Topsoil moisture was rated 3% very short, 21% short, 72% adequate, and 4% surplus, while subsoil moisture was 2% very short, 16% short, 80% adequate, and 2% surplus.

2001 Agriculture Hall Of Fame Nominees Sought

The Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA) is now accepting nominations of leaders in the agricultural community for the Governor's Agriculture Hall of Fame.

"We are looking for those Marylanders who have shown a high level of leadership and accomplishment in agriculture," said Secretary of Agriculture Hagner R. Mister. "I encourage all Marylanders to identify the people who have strengthened agriculture in the state and to nominate them to the Hall of Fame."

Any farm family which derives its income principally from farming is eligible for the award. Since 1991 when the Hall of Fame was established, 22 farm families from 15 counties have been honored for their high standards of conduct, personal values, contribution to community, and performance, leadership, innovation, and achievement in agriculture.

Local residents Oren and Fannie Bender were inducted into the Hall of Fame in 1994.

Each local nominating committee, which is made up of the County Extension director, county Farm Bureau president, county fair representative, and county soil conservation district chairman, reviews a pool of candidates from its county and forwards a selection to the Governor's Selection Committee.

Nominations are due by September 4, and will be reviewed by the Governor's Selection Committee in October. Inductees will be honored at the Maryland Agricultural Dinner in February.

Persons wanting a nomination form or further information may contact MDA at 410-841-5891 or www.mda.state.md.us.

Western Maryland Ag Field Day

The Western Maryland Ag Field Day will be held at the Western Md. Research and Educational Center, Keedysville (south of Hagerstown), on August 2. The gates will open at 8 a.m. Tours and seminars will take place from 8:30 a.m. until 1 p.m. Wagon tours will visit sites dealing with nutrient management, weed control, biosecurity, raspberries, grapes, and turfgrass. The Family and Consumer Science program has a full plate of eight speakers from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m., covering subjects on diet, health, and money management.

The hog roast luncheon will be at 1 p.m. Reservations are due for the luncheon by July 30, and the $5 lunch fee is to be paid at the gate. Call my office for details and reservation forms.

Nutrient Management Update

The December 31, 2001, deadline for a Nutrient Management Plan is fast approaching. We appreciate all of the farmers and agribusinesses that have cooperated with Jill Hauser, Extension Nutrient Management adviser, in collecting soil and manure samples and providing the farm records required to complete the plan. In the meantime, keeping farm records is essential. Crop yields are a critical part of the plan. Recording yields at harvest is certainly easier than six months later. The same holds true for manure and fertilizer applications.

Dairy Options Pilot Program Offered

The Dairy Options Pilot Program (DOPP), a USDA sponsored program, is finally being offered in Garrett County. Producers will be receiving letters inviting them to a training session to be held at the Extension office on August 21. Lunch will be provided.

This dairy options program is intended to instruct producers in the basics of protecting the prices they receive for their milk. Further, cost share is available to pay a percentage of the options costs. After the initial training, I would like to organize a dairy marketing discussion group to explore all aspects of milk pricing/marketing over the period of at least one year.

LEGALLY BLONDE

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 1:35 - Released 7/13/01

Legally Blonde is a testament to Reese Witherspoon's ability to make a bad film watchable. The actress seems to be making a career out of playing perky blondes (Cruel Intentions, Election, and Little Nicky are but a few examples), but that seems to be what she does best, and although some might find her bubbly exuberance tiresome, it does a lot to save this film from its own pathetically stupid script. In Robert Luketic's tribute to blonde power (his debut as a feature director), Witherspoon bounces and bubbles her way through law school, using her southern California breeding and sorority mentality to see the law from a different side.

When her preppy boyfriend, Warner Huntington III (Matthew Davis), dumps her for not being "serious" enough, CULA fashion major and Delta Nu president Elle Woods (Witherspoon) decides there's only one way to convince him she's more than just a pretty face: follow him to Harvard law school. After studying hard and passing the LSAT, she leaves her southern Cal friends (but not her Chihuahua) behind and invades the Cambridge campus, provoking the derision of students, including Warner and his new "serious" girlfriend Vivian (Selma Blair), and professors alike. Her total lack of understanding of law gets her in trouble a few times, but soon she begins to get the hang of it, impressing her professor (Victor Garber) enough to win a place on his defense team for an upcoming murder case. It seems California fitness guru and fellow Delta Nu Brooke Taylor (Ali Larter) is accused of murdering her elderly husband, but Elle's perseverence on the case impresses all her teammates, including friendly assisting attorney Emmett (Luke Wilson). Meanwhile, she never gives up her "blonde roots," teaching the population of a hair salon the finer points of bending over to attract men.

This screenplay is written by Karen McCullah Lutz and Kirsten Smith (the team who turned The Taming Of The Shrew into 10 Things I Hate About You), based on the novel (this is a novel?) by Amanda Brown. It features broad stereotypes and willfully stupid dialogue, and any real ivy league law students who see it will probably never stop throwing up. But somehow its actors, Witherspoon in particular, save it from being a complete waste of time. She possesses an uncanny ability to keep this utterly inconsequential story afloat by sheer will, maintaining in her character an unwavering sense of fairness and a willingness to forgive throughout the most ridiculous and demeaning of circumstances. Even when her situation could not be more contrived (which is often), somehow she makes us want to see her succeed. Or maybe it's just that she looks so good in a thong. At any rate, if Legally Blonde were sued for stupidity, it wouldn't have a leg to stand on, but the charm of its star almost allows it to get away with murder. ★★★½

FINAL FANTASY: THE SPIRITS WITHIN

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 1:45 - Released 7/11/01

In the recent explosion of digital effects technology in films, there has been a predictable sacrifice of script substance in favor of high-tech computer graphics. I'm happy to say that Hironobu Sakaguchi's futuristic thriller Final Fantasy: The Spirits Within is the exception to that rule. Despite the fact that Final Fantasy features the most incredibly realistic and detailed animation presently available, its story is intense and intelligent, the characters uniformly believable (featuring the voices of a talented, star-studded cast), and its action sequences are gripping without being over the top. Although the characters are so real-looking they nearly reach the long-sought holy grail of animation (the creation of characters indistinguishable from human actors), the otherworldly effects push the boundaries of fantasy and wonder.

The setting is Earth, specifically New York City, in the not too distant year of 2065. Although this date is well within reach of the current generation's life span, the Earth has become a devastated wasteland thanks to the invasion (30-some years ago) of an alien race of creatures known as "phantoms," which seem to be able to pass through solid matter at will and destroy any human with which they come in contact. Currently raging within the war against these creatures is a battle between two factions of the human population. The military, whose main spokesman is General Hein (voice of James Woods), is anxious to utilize its powerful Zeus space station (a sort of smaller version of the Death Star) to zap the phantom population to kingdom come. But the scientific community is not so sure this is the best tactic, since the energy from the beam may prove only to make the creatures stronger. Dr. Sid (Donald Sutherland) and his protegé, Dr. Aki Ross (E.R.'s Ming-Na), have been working on a possible solution to the phantom menace (sorry, couldn't resist), hoping to solve the problem by less violent means using an energy field created by the collected spirits of living creatures to disarm the phantoms. On the fence in this debate is Capt. Grey Edwards (Alec Baldwin), who has romantic feelings for Aki, but answers to Gen. Hein. With their research almost completed, Drs. Sid and Ross must finish before Hein launches his attack.

Thank goodness there are producers out there with enough vision to realize that special effects are not all you need to make a good film. Writer/director/producer Sakaguchi, who created the popular Final Fantasy video game series in 1987, has had the good sense to enlist the aid of writers Jeff Vintar (Long Hello and Short Goodbye) and Al Reinert (Apollo 13) to craft a believable story with real characters we are able to care about, and also to hire actors capable of making their vocal characterizations worthy of those characters. Ming-Na, Sutherland, and Baldwin are all effective (this is a step up from Baldwin's recent vocal turn in Cats & Dogs), and the cast also includes actors like Steve Buscemi, Peri Gilpin, and Ving Rhames — not too shabby for this type of animated flick. The animation is breathtakingly real; this is not just motion capture, folks. Sakaguchi and his animators even take the risk of extreme close-ups which show eye detail, freckles, and the independent movements of individual hairs, and though there are some flaws — the characters' skin color is often pale and opaque — these are by far the most realistic looking animated humans I've ever seen. The story occasionally slows down to a dangerous pace, but overall, Final Fantasy is a delight, rising well above the standard animated action formula. ★★★★½

THE SCORE

by Jeremy Carr

Robert DeNiro, Marlon Brando, and Edward Norton. As a soon-to-be film school student, I would easily give a limb to work with these guys. It's not every day that a movie comes out with a cast that features three of the greatest living actors, and after this film, most other movies will be a letdown as far as actors are concerned.

That being said, credit must also be given to director Frank Oz for assembling them and allowing each to shine in his own method-acting style.

The plot is not much of a groundbreaker. It revolves around a veteran thief named Nick Wells (DeNiro), who works for mastermind Max Baron (Brando) and is — all together now — doing one last job. Now, enter the somewhat unwelcome newcomer Jackie Teller (Norton), who convinces the other characters that he has a flawless plan and wants in on the action. Together they devise a scheme to steal a priceless ancient scepter. Norton's character, who brilliantly plays a character within a character, provides vital information about the layout of the building where the scepter is located, and DeNiro's brings his seasoned skills to the operation. Brando basically sits around in a paranoid stupor providing comic relief. The horror, indeed.

DeNiro is not at his absolute best, but after Raging Bull, Taxi Driver, and The Godfather II, what else can he do? Brando is not nearly as electrifying as when he passionately screamed "Stella" or when he confessed to his brother how he "coulda been a contender," but that's the problem when an actor's earlier performances are better than anything to come out in years. But Norton, who recently received Oscar nods for Primal Fear and American History X (still not sure how he didn't win that one), is undoubtedly the most talented young actor working today, and he more than holds his own in this picture. DeNiro is basically the same character he played in Ronin, and Brando definitely tries something different compared to his breathtaking roles in Last Tango In Paris and other — well, all of his — earlier pictures.

Oz, director of such films as...umm, Bowfinger and In & Out, does manage to bring some very nice cinematic touches to this film. The camera glides beautifully through the various locations, including DeNiro's kick @$$ jazz club, and the stedi-cam shots are also quite good.

The ending, however, boggles my mind. One minute I'm watching a modern-day film noir, the next it's When Harry Met Sally Part II. Happy endings are nice and all, but c'mon.

Overall, The Score is not one of the year's best (Ahem...Memento), but with a cast like this I won't complain much. I mean, I could watch these three read a phone book for two hours, and they'd manage to make it entertaining.

Notes from Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

Like most Monday mornings, I have a lot of things on my mind other than the Notes from Bittinger, but unless I finish writing it by late afternoon, I can't meet the deadline for it. So, I am writing this on the way home from a quick trip to Morgantown. I had to visit Mountain View Rehabilitation Hospital, where I had spent three months in 1994 after my month stay in Cumberland Memorial Hospital ICU unit.

It was almost pure havoc for me, as all I wanted was to be home with my family and sleep in my own bed. But first I had to learn how to walk and talk again. It felt to me like prison, and every time I go back there for a checkup, I get panic-stricken, like they might "capture" me and make me stay.

Fortunately today was just a quick visit to fit me for a new ankle and leg brace. It should be ready for me to try out next Monday morning when someone from my family will have to take "Pappy" Dale back to Ruby Memorial Hospital for another few weeks' stay.

He certainly is enjoying this three weeks' respite at home from his treatments in the hospital. His sister, Helen Englar, is spending most of the time at home with him. When he comes home again following treatment, his other sister, Dot Quaintance, may be here.

Dot is planning a mid-August visit for her class reunion and she also is planning a move to New York from New Mexico to be closer to her son Jay and wife Heather and their two children, Hannah and Kate. She hopes to bring the girls down to Bittinger for a week or so.

Dale is very lucky that we have had some perfect summer weather, and the county around his house is just lovely with hay fields loaded with wildflowers. Milkweed is starting to burst its buds, Queen Anne lace is in full glory, along with wild geraniums, and chicory, or what I call corn flowers. It was a shame that neither Dale nor I could join the trip to a place along our creek where there is a huge patch of Indian paint brush.

One year when I visited it, it was in full bloom, with a dozen hummingbirds hovering over it. The buzzing of their wings sounded like a helicopter right over our heads. Helen and the girls did not see any humming birds this year. When the girls returned from their trek they were hot enough to plead for a trip to Brenneman's Store for ice cream. But alas, it was closed, so we made the best of it by raiding a couple great flower gardens for a new supply for my dolls.

Audrey Brenneman told me I should stop by and get some bamboo, since it spreads like wildfire and they could spare plenty. She also gave us some fresh blueberries, hosta blooms, beautiful, old-fashioned peach roses, and dark purple lily-type flowers. Wayne designed and built a running-water feature, which was a kind of fountain, to complete the effect of an Oriental garden. My girls were pretty impressed by it.

On the way home from church that morning I noticed an unusual color of day lilies at Linda Hewitt's house. Everyone has the usual orange, but these were a delicate pinkish color. Since she was very generous last summer with her flowers, I had enough nerve to call her and ask whether we could raid her front lawn. Besides the pink lilies, we also got some lamb's ear leaves and blossoms, which are a perfect thing for the velvet effect. I have a lot of processing with all these things, plus the wildflowers the girls gathered on their walk. I spray the flowers when they are moist to retain their ability to drape like fabric. After they dry I pack them in ziplock bags. I wish I had more time to make some more wonderful new dolls.

Just about all the farms along Rock Lodge Road are in a full haymaking frenzy, even more than last week. We got another field of hay safely in the barn this weekend. Happily, the big hay day on our farm concluded with barbecued chicken from the fire hall. It was all we needed to feed the hay crew.

A visit from a young skunk caused a sharp debate about whether or not it is OK to kill nuisance wildlife. He got away with his life, but not before he sprayed Claire's dog, Boo. Our other older and wiser dog Emily avoided the tomato juice bath that Boo was subjected to before she would be allowed inside. It did a good job eliminating the odor. When I was young we didn't know about that remedy, and a regular bath didn't do the job on skunk odor. The little skunk was cute, but it did act a little strange, and rabies is a real threat. I would have been on the side to kill it, but not my girls, who can't resist cute, fluffy, baby animals.

Back when I was a kid, many rabbits made appearances around here during hay-making season. My dad allowed me to try to rehabilitate quite a few bunnies and one baby raccoon that were injured by the mower. But the worst confrontation I had with wildlife was the time I grabbed a bale of hay from the baler to load on the wagon and under the string was a big, live and well black snake thrashing around. I believe the only good snake is a dead snake.

Another environmental debate I was involved in was whether it is all right to kill butterflies and moths for my dolls. So far, I can't get my girls to go out in the field and catch a few butterflies for me. But there is no debate about house flies, which I put in the same category as snakes. They should all die. Is it fair that only beautiful insects have a right to life?

Nothing can make me appreciate the location of our farm more than taking a trip to Morgantown. I feel so hemmed in between those close folded hills, and the heat and humidity make me feel like I can't breathe. In fact, I actually often feel cold on our mountain top, but not as cold as last Saturday morning to awake in a house cold enough that I thought about ordering some fuel oil. But then in the afternoon it warmed up with a nice breeze. Even the hottest day up here can't compare to the intolerable condition in the valley like in Morgantown and Cumberland. It looks like tonight will be a fine time for the Bittinger 4-H annual bike rodeo in the church's parking lot.

My nephews, Darryl and Elliott Glotfelty, are still doing their Little League thing, as members of their all-star team and are now involved in a tournament in that hot place called Westernport. Tyler Southerly is also a member of the team. I do know that when there were horse shows down in Westernport, they were not too much fun because of the intense heat. The Central Garrett team is still in the tournament after losing their first game to PVAA and then winning the last two. They will play until they lose again.

I am worried because I can't find any wild rhododendron blossoms along Rock Lodge Road or even any wild tiger lilies or lark caps yet. It seems to me that it is time for both. I checked with Bittinger's expert wildflower man when I passed his class while identifying grasses at the Glade on Mosser Road. They had their work cut out for them, as there were probably at least several dozen species of grass growing there. He said that the only lark caps he has seen yet are down in the bottom along Savage River Road, and we are several weeks later up here. It is amazing what a difference a couple thousand feet in elevation can make.

The whole Sussman family attended an art show on Friday evening at the Gallery in Oakland, featuring the works of the Young Artist Workshop that was held last week at the college. My Caitlin was among the artists featured. The two dozen young artists under the leadership of Laura and Mark Stutzman (famous for his U.S. "Elvis" stamp design) produced some very fine work. It was the biggest crowd that I have ever seen at an art show in Garrett County. Caitlin enjoyed the week, except for the figure drawing of a young man in a swim suit, which she said was "yucky." But I predict a bright future for art in Garrett County with this new crop of young artists including my Caitlin, Mandy Geisler, Taylor Jones, and Michelle Puliti, granddaughter of Lillian Reckner

THE BIBLE AS VIEWED from the pew. Do you feel that because you go to church you will go to heaven? Unfortunately it takes personal decision by each person. Tragically, many go to the grave never having made a decision to accept Jesus as their personal Savior. Specifically, how do church members differ from the one who knows Jesus as his or her personal Savior? With the hope and assumption that you believe the Bible as an accurate history book, take a look at what it says about going to heaven. John 3:16 is often quoted and covers the situation - (last part of verse) "—that whoever believes in Him shall not perish but have eternal life." You need to fully understand, specifically, what that means. John 14 verse 6 will help to clarify it. When Jesus was on the earth He said "I am the Way, the truth and the Life. No one comes to the Father except through me." That helps a lot, but let's go on to Romans 10 verse 9. "That if you confess with your mouth "Jesus is LORD" and believe in your heart that your God raised Him from the dead, you will be saved." Once you have accepted Jesus into your heart, then you must repent (Matthew 3:2) and begin a new life of living for Jesus. The blessings are beyond understanding and truly out of this world. Will you begin today? Eternity and your location depend upon what you do with Jesus.

OHS REUNION SET FOR AUG. 11 — The annual reunion of students, teachers, and staff of the former Oakland High School is set for Saturday, Aug. 11, at the Oakland Elks Lodge. Participants will begin to gather for a 1 p.m. social hour, which will be followed by a buffet dinner and continued visiting. Nearly 1,000 reunion invitations have been mailed, but anyone not yet contacted who would like to attend may call Dolores Swartzentruber at 301-334-3388. The cost is $18 per person. Many former OHS students still live in the Oakland area, as do a number of their teachers, including Mildred Schrock Myers, Lillian Quinet Reckner, Elizabeth Randol, Sybilla Sharps, Polly Hanst, Frances Patterson, Elmer Crone, Ernest Spoerlein, Ann Dilgard, and Dorothy Fletcher Purbaugh. Over 2,400 students graduated from OHS over the years, from the first class of 48 graduates in 1908 to the 86 graduates of the final class of 1952. Pictured above is the 1940 OHS graduating class during its own 30th anniversary reunion at the Oakland National Guard Armory. Not all of these alumni have been identified by OHS historians, and participants in next month's reunion will have the opportunity to identify their classmates.

and daughter of Charee Reckner.

The Bass family is on a vacation trip to South Carolina. Last week Scotty and Emma spent a week with their Bass grandparents in Anderson, S.C., and this week with the grandparents and their parents at Myrtle Beach. I hope they had plenty of sunscreen with their fair skins, blue eyes, and blonde hair, which make them perfect candidates for bad sunburns. Unfortunately, Matthew had to remain home the first week as he was a little "under the weather."

Whether it was because of the theme of our Sunday church service at Emmanuel Lutheran on "how to love your neighbor as yourself" or one lesson on the Good Samaritan, or just because he is just a nice guy, Gary Buckel opened his store just for me after church to get some gas and milk. As usual he even gave me a nice branch of the old-fashioned pink rose from the bush at his late parents' home. I know he stocks gasoline more as a public service than a profitable item. I have loved the Buckel Store since I was a little girl, the way it was crammed with everything from work boots to sleds, to nylon stockings, to ice cream bars, and pretty much of everything.

Some belated notes from Bittinger

Fourth of July holiday visitors of Sam and Cindy Stanton and family were Kendra and John Wells and daughters, Kelsy and Ashley, Lea Stanton and Amy Schomberg, and Lindsey and Lauren Greer. Visiting with the Stantons and with Sally, Lenny, and Torrey Poholsky were Dave and Nancy Beachy, and Brent, Kelly, Wyatt and Teagan Beachy of Clarkston, Mich. Also in the area for the holiday were Phyllis and Bernie Mazer, Steve, Donna, Morgan, and Lindsey Mazer, Tim, Allison, Amanda, and Ashley Mazer, Brooke and Kerry Greer, Max and Bee Buckel, Kristen Bogus and sons, Billy and Blake. Bill Bogus stayed for a few days visit with the Poholskys.

Michael and Susan Scheffres and Cara, Joe, and Julie spent the weekend with the Poholskys and Stantons.

Ruth Beachy of Heston, Pa., spent Sunday evening with Ferne Beachy and the Stantons.

Samuela Jean Bowser of Houston spent several days in the area visiting various Bowser cousins in the community after attending the Bowser/Beachy reunion.

Cathryn Buckel, York, Pa., and Mark Buckel, Hershey, Pa., visited their grandparents, Ralph and Ethel Buckel over the weekend.

Ruth DiPaolo and Ginny Hesson, Grantsville, attended the Kingston Trio concert at Fort Hill auditorium on Sunday night. Ruth and Jane Sealing attended the funeral of Harry Dunkin in Oakland on Friday afternoon.

Several members of the Emmanuel Women of the Church met briefly at the home of Margaret Hershberger in Grantsville and attended the concert in the Grantsville Park on Friday evening.

Correction: In the Bittinger items recently there was a mistake and should be noted as follows: JoEllen Graham's daughter, Cheri, is married to Andy Grimm, and there does not happen to be a Cindy Grimm. I apologize for the error.

Recent visitors of Ida Reckner were Robert and Ruth Mayfield, former residents of Terra Alta, W.Va., now living in Tulsa, Okla.; David Mayfield, Terra Alta; Patience Fitzwater, Lorena Smith, and Justin and Ryan Fitzwater, Deer Park; Norma Nelson and sons Joey and Davey, Nokesville, Va.; and Sarah Hanlin, Oakland. All Are members of the family of the late William (Sr.) and Stella Fitzwater, who were residents of the Turkey Neck area. Also visiting their grandmother Ida Saturday evening were Karl and Cathy DeBoeser, Kara and Marc, of Allentown, Pa. Tom Glotfelty was also a recent caller.

Sheli, Ashlin, and Abigail Gray of Hanover spent several days visiting relatives in the area, and were Tuesday guests at the home of Jim and Donna Glotfelty. Their granddaughter, Amanda Platter, is spending this week with the Glotfeltys.
